Rags to Riches

Q Do I need authorization to make and sell Raggedy Ann dolls? The originator, Johnny Gruelle, is dead and I am not sure if anyone has exclusive rights to the design of the doll. S. L. J., Huntington Beach.

A. Exclusive manufacturing rights for Raggedy Ann and Raggedy Andy dolls are owned by the Knickerbocker Toy Co., Inc. If you have any other questions regarding the sale of these dolls, address them to the company at 1107 Broadway, New York, N.Y.

Rubbish

Q. I've been told that it's possible to have the city's $2.30 rubbish collection fee reduced. About the only thing I throw away is the envelope of my pension check, and yet I pay the whole amount. E. B., Long Beach.

A. There are no provisions for reduction or cancellation of the rubbish fee, said Alfred Hiefield, office manager for the commercial division of the Long Beach Gas and Water departments. He explained that the rubbish rates — lowest for apartment dwellers — are set according to the dwelling unit type, not the amount of trash collected. He said many complaints similar to yours are received, but no practicable way can be worked out to graduate rubbish fees. "We can't meter a person's trash like we can his gas and water usage," he said.

Bridge the Gap

Q. My wife and I both work days. We would like to know where we can go to take bridge lessons at night. T. D. C., Long Beach.

A. The Long Beach Recreation Department started a beginners class in bridge Jan. 5 near you at El Dorado Park, 2800 Studebaker Rd. The class is from 7:30 to 10 p.m. every Monday. Bob Van Antwerp, the department's assistant director, said the next class for beginners there will start March 23. Enrollment information may be obtained by calling Terry Paige, the program director, at 425-4712.

Notification

Q. On Jan. 11, my husband was injured in an automobile accident in Wilmington. He was taken to Harbor General Hospital where he died early the following day. I was never notified of his death. I found out about it when I read the story in the newspaper that afternoon. The shock of learning of his death in this manner was so great that I had to be hospitalized for two days. I have an unlisted phone number, but I think the police could have sent a man to my home to tell me. Isn't it the police department's responsibility to do this? Mrs. A. S., Long Beach.

A. A spokesman for the Harbor Division of the Los Angeles Police Department told ACTION LINE that it was the coroner's responsibility to notify you. A spokesman for the Los Angeles County Coroner's office said that since your husband was not dead on arrival at the hospital, the coroner did not enter into the case until the next day. "By the time we received the deceased's name, we assumed that the hospital had notified his next of kin. When someone is hospitalized, it is the hospital's responsibility to notify relatives," the coroner's spokesman said. Since your husband did not have his driver's license with him, the hospital did not know his address. They contacted all of the people in the telephone book with the same last name as yours and located a person who claimed to be one of your relatives who promised to notify you. "We are terribly sorry that your reader was not notified, and we will write her a letter of explanation," the hospital spokesman said.

Houseclean

Q. I have heard of an organization called Operation Houseclean which is circulating petitions calling for a ban on Communist teachers in the schools. I would like to know how many signatures they have obtained, and what they plan to do with the petitions. M. S., Long Beach.

A. The organization, which is actually five Santa Maria residents, has obtained approximately 8,000 signatures since their campaign began last November, according to Ellen Roberts, a spokesman for the group. On April 1, Operation Houseclean plans to present the petitions to state legislators. The group wants the California Legislature to pass a resolution "recognizing communism as the enemy of the Constitution and the people of the United States." The resolution, if passed, would then be presented to Congress and the Supreme Court. "We feel that if we can change the attitude of Congress and the Supreme Court towards communism, laws banning communist teachers will follow," Mrs. Roberts said. For more information, you can write to Operation Houseclean, P.O. Box 2334, Orcutt, Calif. 93454.

Susan Atkins, the informer in the mass-murder of actress Sharon Tate and six others, wrote a series of letters to her former cellmate in which she implicated herself more deeply in the slayings than she has in her published confessions.

According to reliable legal sources, the letters were so emotional and bordering on fantasy that authorities are not sure how much weight to put on them.

Miss Atkins' confessions to Shelley Nadell, 31, her cellmate, led to the break in the up-to-then unsolved murder case. It was Miss Atkins' testimony before the grand jury that led to the arrest of five fellow cultists, including the alleged mastermind, Charles Manson.

Main difference between the grand jury testimony, her published confessions and the letters is how the 8½-month-pregnant actress died.

The girl said in her published confession that she held the actress, who was pleading for the life of her unborn child, while Charles Watson, now being held in Texas, killed her.

The legal sources said the girl went beyond this in her letters to Miss Nadell, admitting stabbing the actress to death.

"When I plunged the knife into her, it made me have an orgasm."

Wesley Russell, lawyer for Miss Nadell, admitted Friday the letters had been written to his client and said he had handed them over to authorities.

He said his client left the state on his advice for her own safety. She was secretly taken to the airport under police guard earlier this week.

The attorney said the letters were smuggled to his client through the jail grapevine after the women were put in separate cells.

The attorney said his client told him she did not want to be an informer, but decided to act when she was told other murders were being planned on a random basis and she was given the names of other intended victims.

The attorney would not release the names.

The Atkins girl, in the letters, said she "went before the grand jury because my attorney said your (Miss Nadell's) testimony was enough to convict me and all the others."

"When I first heard you were the informer, I wanted to slit your throat," the letter to Miss Nadell read.

However, the Atkins girl later relents, adding:

Judge to Sum Up
Today in Attempt To Reach Verdict

CHICAGO (UPI) — The prosecution concluded its arguments Friday in the trial of seven men charged with conspiracy to incite rioting at the time of the 1968 Democratic National Convention.

Judge Julius J. Hoffman said he would charge the jury this morning to begin deliberations for the verdict.

U.S. Attorney Thomas A. Foran ended his 2½-hour argument with quotations from John F. Kennedy and Thomas Jefferson, and derided the defendants' attempts to associate themselves with the late Robert F. Kennedy and Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

"Can you imagine Jesus, Saint Matthew, Dr. King or Mahatma Gandhi supporting anybody like these men?" Foran asked.

The defendants, most of whom have long shaggy hair and dress in brightly colored shirts and head bands, smiled at the jury during Foran's remarks.

Foran spoke at the conclusion of defense lawyer William M. Kunstler's final argument, which the long-haired New York lawyer concluded:

"This is a moment in history where the courtroom becomes the proving ground to see whether men die free or live free . . . It is your responsibility to see that men can still speak boldly and remain the masters of their souls."

The defendants are Abbott (Abbie) Hoffman, 32; Jerry C. Rubin, 31; Thomas E. Hayden, 30; Bernard C. (Rennie) Davis, 29; Delliinger, 55; Lee Weiner, 32, and John R. Froines, 31.

Pasadena Integration Plan: Minimum Busing

ARMY'S NEW PLAN TO DISPOSE OF OBSOLETE NERVE AND MUSTARD GAS OUTLINED

Gas Disposal Gets Extra Safeguards

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Army will dispose of poison gases at Rocky Mountain Arsenal in Denver, Colo., using intentionally exaggerated safety measures in an effort to convince the public there is no danger.

The Army had originally planned to dispose of about a half-million gallons each of mustard gas and GB, one of seven types of nerve gas, by dumping them in the Atlantic Ocean at a cost of $3 million. Protests, particularly from residents along the rail route from Colorado to New Jersey, led to cancellation of those plans.

On Friday, the Army described in great detail its new plan, called Task Force Eagle, that will cost $14.6 million.

Under this program none of the gases will ever leave the grounds of Rocky Mountain Arsenal. New re-inforced plants in which the gases will be burned are being built on the arsenal grounds, the Army said.

Explosion-proof chambers are being built. Back-up systems are being installed in case any segment of the primary disposal systems fail. Earth-removal revetments have been built to protect storage areas in case an aircraft should crash nearby.

Col. Sampson H. Bass, who heads the project, said the safety measures were far in excess of those actually needed.

Acknowledging frequent criticisms of the military, Bass said: "We live in a fishbowl and we must not be just technically safe, but demonstrably safe . . . We have to convince the public."

The Army has destroyed toxic gases before, but only on a small-scale, non-production line basis.

CLOUDS-- BUT SUNNY LINING

Late night and early morning cloudiness was expected to give way to mostly sunny skies today and Sunday, according to the Weather Bureau, which reported mountain snow levels at 7,000 feet.

The mercury was heading toward a predicted 68-degree high today, and will dip to about 50 degrees overnight.

Gusty winds were expected to rip through mountain and desert areas over the weekend.

Temperatures were expected to warm slightly Sunday.

FEDERAL JUDGE Manuel L. Real set March 4 for arguments on the Pasadena proposal when he will hear the views of A. F. Summer of Mississippi, Jack Gremlion of Louisiana and Macdonald Gallion of Alabama.

Real also granted Pasadena another 48 hours to file its plan.

The southern states are embarked on a strategy of trying to force northern communities to move just as rapidly on desegregation as those in the south.

The Pasadena action came on the heels of another court order that the Los Angeles City School District, the second largest in the nation, integrate by

Raids Wipe Out $1 Million Betting Ring; 38 Arrested

By JIM HYMES

Los Angeles police and sheriff's officers teamed Friday in a series of raids in the South-Central Los Angeles-Compton area to smash what they said was a $1-million-a-year betting operation.

More than 100 police and deputies, armed with search warrants, struck at 47 locations, arrested 38 persons and confiscated more than $15,000 in cash as well as betting paraphernalia.

Capt. Robert Debin, administrative chief of the vice detail for the LAPD, said the coordinated raids began at 1:45 p.m.

The crackdown climaxed five months of investigation, Debin said.

Nine persons, including three women, were taken into custody by sheriff's officers in the Compton area.

Booked at central jail were:

Thelma Carter, 427 Clymor Street; Marlene Harvey, 11627 Bandera Ave.; Gertrude Jiggetts, 641 E. Redondo Beach Blvd.; Elmer Bridges and Leo Washington, both of 2604 N. Wilmington Ave.; Robert Owens, 11710½ Bandera Ave.; Reginald Dixon, 1609 W. Poplar St.; James Dukes, 11614 Bandera Ave.; and Fred McCain, 11627 Bandera Ave.

The 38 suspects were booked on a variety of charges including lottery, bookmaking and narcotics, detectives said.

The Army has destroyed toxic gases before, but only on a small-scale, non-production line basis.

District Cut Into 'Corridors'

United Press International

The Pasadena city board of education Friday approved a precedent-setting plan to slice the Pasadena School District into four "corridors" to integrate its schools by September, as ordered by a federal court.

The board approved the plan in general, although some details remained to be worked out. Pasadena's school population is 58 per cent white, 30 per cent black and 12 per cent Mexican-American and oriental.

The Pasadena plan was the first for a northern community with a large minority enrollment. It attempted to hold busing to a minimum through geographical combinations of four areas.

The attorneys general of three southern states appeared before a U.S. district court in Los Angeles Friday morning and filed motions calling for Pasadena to integrate its schools immediately.

Allies Rip Reds in Delta Battles

Combined News Services

SAIGON, Saturday — Allied troops fought two separate, running battles Friday with Communist forces in the Mekong Delta, killing at least 60 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese soldiers. The biggest battle was near Cang Long district town 38 miles southwest of Saigon where South Vietnamese army troops killed 42 Communists in the second consecutive day of fighting in that area. In the Plain of Reeds west of Saigon, where fighting has been continuing for more than a week, a force of government irregulars led by U.S. Special Forces officers ambushed a Communist unit Friday night near the town of Moc Hoa. Eighteen Communists were killed. In the past eight days of fighting in the Plain of Reeds, military sources said, at least 278 Communists have been killed.

Hard Knocks' Ahead in War

HONOLULU — Defense Secretary Melvin Laird arrived back in the U.S. from his Vietnam war zone tour Friday optimistic about reducing the U.S. combat role but warning of "hard knocks and some disappointments" ahead. He planned a one-day layover in Honolulu to meet with Adm. John McCain Jr., commander of U.S. forces in the Pacific. Laird amplified remarks he made as he left Saigon earlier, saying the allies in the Vietnam war would meet within the next two months. He said the nations meet "on a regular yearly basis," and the forthcoming meeting had been "planned for some time." It will be the first meeting of the allies — the U.S., South Vietnam, Australia, Thailand, South Korea, New Zealand and the Philippines — since President Nixon took office.

Red Drive Under Way in Laos

WASHINGTON — The U.S. Embassy in Laos has reported that the long-expected North Vietnamese offensive has begun in the Plain of Jars area, the State Department said Friday. Press officer Carl Barth said North Vietnamese forces "attacked numerous positions." He would not say to what extent the U.S. was involved in the current fighting, but reiterated U.S. concern at the Communist attack.

Jewish Home Burned, 10 Die

MUNICH, Germany — Fire broke out Friday night in a Jewish home for the aged, causing the death of 10 persons in what officials believe may be the second act of anti-Israeli terrorism here in the past three days. "There are some indications suggesting arson was involved," said Mayor Hans-Jochen Vogel of the daze that gutted the upper floors of the building, which also houses a synagogue.

Palestinian Injustice

GENEVA — The World Council of Churches told world Jewry Friday it is firmly convinced the Palestinian refugees have been the victims of an injustice which must be redressed. The council assured a Jewish delegation this attitude in no way constitutes any bias toward Israel.

OAS Office Bombed

GUATEMALA CITY, Guatemala — The main entrance to an office of the Organization of American States was destroyed by a bomb Friday night. No injuries were reported although the explosion was heard throughout much of the city and many windows in the area were broken.

No Immunity for Russian

WASHINGTON — The State Department said Friday it has formally rejected the Soviet Union's claim that a Russian U.N. translator was entitled to diplomatic immunity when arrested for attempted espionage in Seattle.

Resort Beaches Oiled by Tanker

TAMPA, Fla. — A Greek tanker ran aground in fog Friday and spewed thousands of gallons of crude oil into the placid, normally blue waters of Tampa Bay. The oil slick widened to five miles in diameter and washed ashore on the resort beaches on both sides of the bay. More than 5,000 gallons of the crude oil gurgled from the ruptured tank when the 691-foot tanker Delian Apollo ran aground. The leak continued even after the vessel was refloated. Lt. Ray Guess, a member of the enforcement arm of the Department of Natural Resources, was ordered to arrest the tanker's captain, Dimitri Tsapelas of Athens, Greece. But Guess later decided he had no authority to board the foreign ship.

Cuba 'Propaganda' Voyage

SAINT JOHN, N.B. — The Cuban cattle boat Luis Arcos Berres put to sea Friday, carrying 499 American volunteers to help bring in the Cuban sugar harvest. The volunteers will spend about two months in Cuba, joining similar brigades from North Vietnam and North Korea. In Washington, Rep. Richard Ichord, D-Mo., chairman of the House Internal Security Committee, said the volunteers were not going to Cuba primarily to help with the harvest. Ichord said Americans who go to Cuba spend so much time "in rallies and speeches for worldwide Communist publicity purposes" they spend only a few hours a day in the cane fields.

Flu Popping Up Across U.S.

ATLANTA — The Hong Kong flu is back. National health officials say its occurrence has been reported in 45 states, but they predict that it won't be as severe as last winter's epidemic which killed thousands.

Bombs Used in Bank Holdup

DANBURY, Conn. — Two heavily armed robbers, using three time bombs, blasted the Danbury police station, a bank and their getaway car Friday after they stole $40,000 from the bank. Then they escaped down an alley at a shopping center. Twenty-two persons were injured in the explosions and Mayor Gino Arconti, worried about further bombings, declared a state of emergency.

Industrial Production Falls

WASHINGTON — The nation's industrial production crept downward for the sixth consecutive month in January. It was the first time since the recession of 1960 that the key indicator had dropped through a full half year. Production during the month totaled 169.9 per cent of the 1957-1959 base average. In December, the index was 171.1.

Personal Income Slows

WASHINGTON — The government reported Friday that personal income registered its smallest increase in almost two years last month, adding to evidence that the economy is slowing down.

'A NUISANCE'

Friends had been predicting for weeks the couple would be married on Valentine's Day. Dr. Barnard, a member of the Dutch Reformed Church, was divorced last July from his first wife. His bride is a Roman Catholic. Barnard and his bride are leaving today for Rome on a brief European honeymoon. The surgeon squashed speculation, which has been circulating recently because of his implied criticism of apartheid — South Africa's race segregation policy — he might emigrate. He said he planned to return to "be a good South African and continue to bring honor to this wonderful country that we live in." Barnard said the marriage took place in the middle of the night because Barbara "did not want to get married on Friday the 13th. She wanted to be married on the 14th."

Life's Hard for White Black Man

JAMES FINLEY
—AP Wirephoto

For almost six years James Finley, 33, has been trying to adjust to being a black man with a white skin. "I thought maybe I could probably learn to live with myself and meet people but it just didn't work out that way," he says. Finley is that rare case — a man whose color changed completely within a matter of weeks.

In the summer of 1964 Finley was working at the Veterans Administration hospital in Cleveland as a records clerk. He was sitting at his desk one day and he started scratching his arm. "That's all," he recalls. "I would have let it go but it was just a different type of itch." When the irritation increased Finley was admitted to the Veterans Hospital. After three weeks of treatment he was discharged and says "at that time my skin was still black and my hair still black." But shortly after leaving the hospital, he says, his hair came out in patches until he was completely bald.

"My eyelashes, my eyebrows, my moustache, the hair on my chest, all fell out," Finley said, and when it grew back it grew back white. "While my hair was growing my skin gradually changed from

APOLLO PATTERN

President Nixon announced in Key Biscayne, Fla., Friday, a 20-nation world tour for the Apollo 12 astronauts. In the pattern of other astronaut teams, the President asked Charles Conrad Jr., Richard Gordon, and Alan Bean and their wives to launch a 40-day, four-continent goodwill mission next Monday with a flight from their base at Houston to Caracas, Venezuela.

With other countries likely to be added later, the tour will take the astronauts in turn to Peru, Chile, Panama, Portugal, Luxembourg, Denmark, Finland, Romania, Austria, Morocco, Tunisia, Ivory Coast, Tanzania, Malagasy Republic, Ceylon, Burma, Indonesia, the Nationalist China and Japan.

Allies Rip Reds in Delta Battles

Combined News Services

SAIGON, Saturday — Allied troops fought two separate, running battles Friday with Communist forces in the Mekong Delta, killing at least 60 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese soldiers. The biggest battle was near Cang Long district town 38 miles southwest of Saigon where South Vietnamese army troops killed 42 Communists in the second consecutive day of fighting in that area. In the Plain of Reeds west of Saigon, where fighting has been continuing for more than a week, a force of government irregulars led by U.S. Special Forces officers ambushed a Communist unit Friday night near the town of Moc Hoa. Eighteen Communists were killed. In the past eight days of fighting in the Plain of Reeds, military sources said, at least 278 Communists have been killed.

'Hard Knocks' Ahead in War

Red Drive Under Way in Laos

WASHINGTON — The U.S. Embassy in Laos has reported that the long-expected North Vietnamese offensive has begun in the Plain of Jars area, the State Department said Friday. Press officer Carl Bartsch said North Vietnamese forces "attacked numerous positions." He would not say to what extent the U.S. was involved in the current fighting, but he reiterated U.S. concern at the Communist attack.

Jewish Home Burned, 10 Die

MUNICH, Germany — Fire broke out Friday night in a Jewish home for the aged, causing the death of 10 persons in what officials believe may be the second act of anti-Israeli terrorism here in the past three days. "There are some indications suggesting that arson was involved," said Mayor Hans-Jochen Vogel of the blaze that gutted the upper floors of the building, which also houses a synagogue.

Palestinian Injustice

GENEVA — The World Council of Churches told world Jewry Friday it is firmly convinced the Palestinian refugees have been the victims of an injustice which must be redressed. The council assured a Jewish delegation this attitude in no way constitutes any bias toward Israel.

OAS Office Bombed

GUATEMALA CITY, Guatemala — The main entrance to an office of the Organization of American States was destroyed by a bomb Friday night. No injuries were reported although the explosion was heard throughout much of the city and many windows in the area were broken.

PEOPLE IN THE NEWS

Dr. Barnard Gives Heart Away

Dr. Christian Barnard took blonde socialite Barbara Zoellner as his St. Valentine's Day bride at 10 minutes after Friday midnight in Johannesburg, South Africa. Barnard is 47, the bride 19.

The pioneer of heart transplants threw open the heavily guarded gates of the Zoellner family mansion less than half an hour after the ceremony and told newsmen and bystanders: "I want to give you all a glass of champagne." Barnard had snapped angrily at newsmen Thursday when he arrived in Johannesburg from Cape Town, still not having acknowledged that his marriage would take place.

Friends had been predicting for weeks the couple would be married on Valentine's Day. Dr. Barnard, a member of the Dutch Reformed Church, was divorced last July from his first wife. His bride is a Roman Catholic.

Barnard and his bride are leaving today for Rome on a brief European honeymoon. 'A NUISANCE'

Sen. Richard Russell, D-Ga., said Friday he pleaded with President Kennedy to order an invasion of Cuba during the 1962 missile crisis as the last chance to get rid of Fidel Castro. "Oh, I insist on it," Russell said. "I made a nuisance of myself." But Kennedy rejected the advice of the Senate Armed Services Committee chairman and 30 minutes later announced the quarantine which forced the Russians to pull out their missiles.

SHE'S WILLING

Mrs. Lenore Romney, wife of the secretary of housing and urban development, notified Michigan Gov. William Milliken Friday she is willing to be considered for the Republican senatorial nomination in Michigan. Her husband, former Gov. George Romney, told Milliken at the same time he is not a candidate and that "under known circumstances" he will not become a candidate.

Romney and Milliken met briefly at O'Hare Airport and Romney handed over notes on both his and his wife's positions on the nomination.

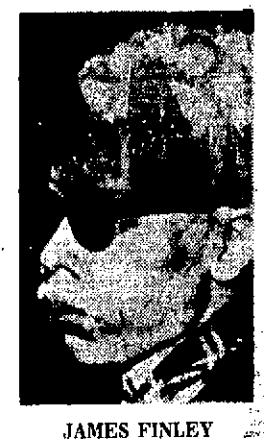

DIVORCE FIGHT

Singer Tony Bennett was restrained by court order Friday from obtaining a divorce outside of New Jersey. The order was obtained by Bennett's estranged wife, Patricia, of Englewood, N.J. She filed a divorce action in Superior Court last September charging the singer with adultery and naming model Sandra Grant as co-respondent.

After his skin color changed Finley left his job at the Veteran's Hospital and became an investigator with a Cleveland insurance company. "I couldn't get myself together," he says. "My appearance affected me... People looking, people laughing, some laugh some don't." Finley added.

Finley has filed a $500,000 damage suit in U.S. District Court in Cleveland against the federal government charging hospital officials were negligent in treating Finley with a drug called Diodine which allegedly caused the pigmentation in his skin to disappear.

INSPECT OFFSHORE OIL RIG

By JACK O. BALDWIN
Maritime Editor

Two Los Angeles City Councilmen inspected Standard Oil Company's offshore drilling platform for an hour Friday and said they were confident the company was taking "proper safeguards and precautions" to prevent oil spillage.

Councilmen John Ferraro and Donald E. Lorenzen said they saw no evidence of ocean pollution caused by waste discharges during their helicopter fly-by which preceded their on-site inspection of the rig.

But the councilmen said any recommendations they might make concerning the offshore operation would have to await the outcome of a public hearing Feb. 25.

R. E. France, manager of Standard's oil production division, told the councilmen the well is being drilled within the "stringent regulations" of both the State of California and the federal government.

In a related matter, a recently-organized group of opponents of offshore drilling suffered a legal setback even before they could open their legal attack.

U.S. District Court Judge Albert Leo Stephens, Jr., rejected a plea for a preliminary injunction sought by the city and county of Santa Barbara and the American Civil Liberties Union to halt further drilling in the Santa Barbara Channel.

Judge Stephens held such an injunction could "inhibit the decision-making" necessary to protect the public and prevent another channel subsea oil boil-up like the one which occurred on Jan. 28, 1969, near a Union Oil Co. platform.

The judge also ruled there was insufficient evidence presented to support the claim further drilling would pose a threat to life or property.

In still another matter, a three-judge federal court rejected an attack on the constitutionality of federal laws under which the drilling was undertaken initially.

Both rulings were handed down earlier this week in Los Angeles but were not announced until Thursday.

These rulings could hinder the legal efforts of the newly-formed group of Harbor-Palos Verdes Peninsula residents who named their organization GOO Two.

(The group named its organization after the Get Oil Out (GOO) committee, a force battling oil drilling in the Santa Barbara Channel.)

One of the organizers of GOO Two, Miss Pat Herrera, said Friday the organization had retained two local attorneys "to explore every possible legal means of halting and preventing oil drilling in the San Pedro Bay."

"We want that platform (Standard's) taken out and no more put in," she said.

She said the organizers of GOO Two have rented an office which is currently being staffed by volunteers.

Standard paid the City of Los Angeles a $2.5 million bonus for a lease to drill an exploratory well 2.7 miles southerly from the lighthouse on the east end of the San Pedro breaker. Company officials have stated they do not expect the well to be an oil producer.

Under the terms of the lease the company has the option to drill a second well in the 9,300-acre offshore parcel.

Porter Blames Large Firms For Pollution of Channels

The chairman of the Assembly Water Committee said Friday that while the Long Beach-Los Angeles outer harbor area is still considered "clean water," the same cannot be said for either the Cerritos or Dominguez channels.

Assemblyman Carley V. Porter, D-Compton, made his remarks following a tour of the two harbor complexes.

Porter said the quality of water in the two channels "can no longer support marine life because of its extreme pollution."

Moreover, Porter said, the blame for the state of harbor waters belongs with large corporations.

"The big corporations have not yet brought their dumping and sanitation practices under control," Porter said. He acknowledged that some of the bigger oil companies "are waking up to their responsibilities in our state's ecological crisis."

INSPECT OFFSHORE OIL RIG

Maritime Editor

Two Los Angeles City Councilmen inspected Standard Oil Company's offshore drilling platform for an hour Friday and said they were confident the company was taking "proper safeguards and precautions" to prevent oil spillage.

Councilmen John Ferraro and Donald E. Lorenzen said they saw no evidence of ocean pollution caused by waste discharges during their helicopter fly-by which preceded their on-site inspection of the rig.

But the councilmen said any recommendations they might make concerning the offshore operation would have to await the outcome of a public hearing Feb. 25.

R. E. France, manager of Standard's oil production division, told the councilmen the well is being drilled within the "stringent regulations" of both the State of California and the federal government.

In a related matter, a recently-organized group of opponents of offshore drilling suffered a legal setback even before they could open their legal attack.

The judge also ruled there was insufficient evidence presented to support the claim further drilling would pose a threat to life or property.

In still another matter, a three-judge federal court rejected an attack on the constitutionality of federal laws under which the drilling was undertaken initially.

Both rulings were handed down earlier this week

in Los Angeles but were not announced until Thursday.

These rulings could hinder the legal efforts of the newly-formed group of Harbor-Palos Verdes Peninsula residents who named their organization GOO Two.

The group named its organization after the Get Oil Out (GOO) committee, a force battling oil drilling in the Santa Barbara Channel.

One of the organizers of GOO Two, Miss Pat Herren, said Friday the organization had retained two local attorneys "to explore every possible legal means of halting and preventing oil drilling in the San Pedro Bay."

"We want that platform (Standard's) taken out and no more put in," she said.

She said the organizers of GOO Two have rented an office which is currently being staffed by volunteers.

Standard paid the City of Los Angeles a $2.5 million bonus for a lease to drill an exploratory well 2.7 miles southerly from the lighthouse on the east end of the San Pedro breakwater. Company officials have stated they do not expect the well to be an oil producer.

Under the terms of the lease the company has the option to drill a second well in the 9,300-acre offshore parcel.

Porter Blames Large Firms For Pollution of Channels

The chairman of the Assembly Water Committee said Friday that while the Long Beach-Los Angeles outer harbor area is still considered "clean water," the same cannot be said for either the Cerritos or Dominguez channels.

Assemblyman Carley V. Porter, D-Compton, made his remarks following a tour of the two harbor complexes.

Porter said the quality of water in the two channels "can no longer support marine life because of its extreme pollution."

Moreover, Porter said, the blame for the state of harbor waters belongs with large corporations.

"The big corporations have not yet brought their dumping and sanitation practices under control," Porter said. He acknowledged that some of the bigger oil companies "are waking up to their responsibilities in our state's ecological crisis."

3 Charged in L.B. Drug Case

By MOLLY BURRELL

Two men and a woman arrested in a Belmont Shore drug probe which yielded almost quarter of a million pills, were held to answer narcotics charges in Long Beach Superior Court Friday.

Narcotics officers brought to court a suitcase and carton full of seconal and benzedrine pills, and a quantity of hashish, seized in a Jan. 29 raid at 245 La Verne Ave.

Two automatic rifles, three hand guns and ammunition were also seized in the raid, police testified.

FACING A hearing on charges of suspicion of possession of dangerous drugs for sale are Dolores Barajas, 28, and John M. Mercado, 24, both of the La Verne Avenue address, and Gaber Bohl, 20, of 2925 Eucalyptus Ave.

At their preliminary hearing Friday, state narcotics agent Daniel Fleischer told of meeting Bohl in a Belmont Shore parking lot Jan. 29. He said Bohl offered to sell him "a keg of reds" for $3,000.

Officer Darrel T. Gath of the Long Beach Police narcotics squad said he then followed Bohl's car to the La Verne Avenue home, and saw Bohl and Mercado put a suitcase in their car and return to the parking lot.

THE SUITCASE, which police say contained 30,000 red capsules, was handed to Fleischer, and the two suspects were then arrested.

Officers went to the house and arrested Miss Barajas after a brief struggle. They obtained a search warrant and returned to the house to confiscate the rest of the evidence, they said.

among corporate leaders.

"My personal thinking on it is that the fine should be $6,000 a day," he added. He said that kind of penalty would produce immediate action.

Reagan Hits L.A. Order to Integrate

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan Friday night condemned as "utterly ridiculous" a superior court judge's decision ordering the Los Angeles city school system to integrate its district by Sept. 1, 1971.

"The decision is utterly ridiculous, goes beyond sound reasoning and common sense and will severely damage the education of Los Angeles youngsters if carried out," Reagan said in a statement issued by his office.

Los Angeles Superior Court Alfred Citelson Wednesday instructed the district to launch integration plans. District officials said the order would destroy the school system due to the costs of busing students.

SCHOOLS

(Continued From Page A-1) September 1971. It was anticipated the southern attorneys general will also speed up that program.

The Pasadena plan has separate proposals for the various school levels:

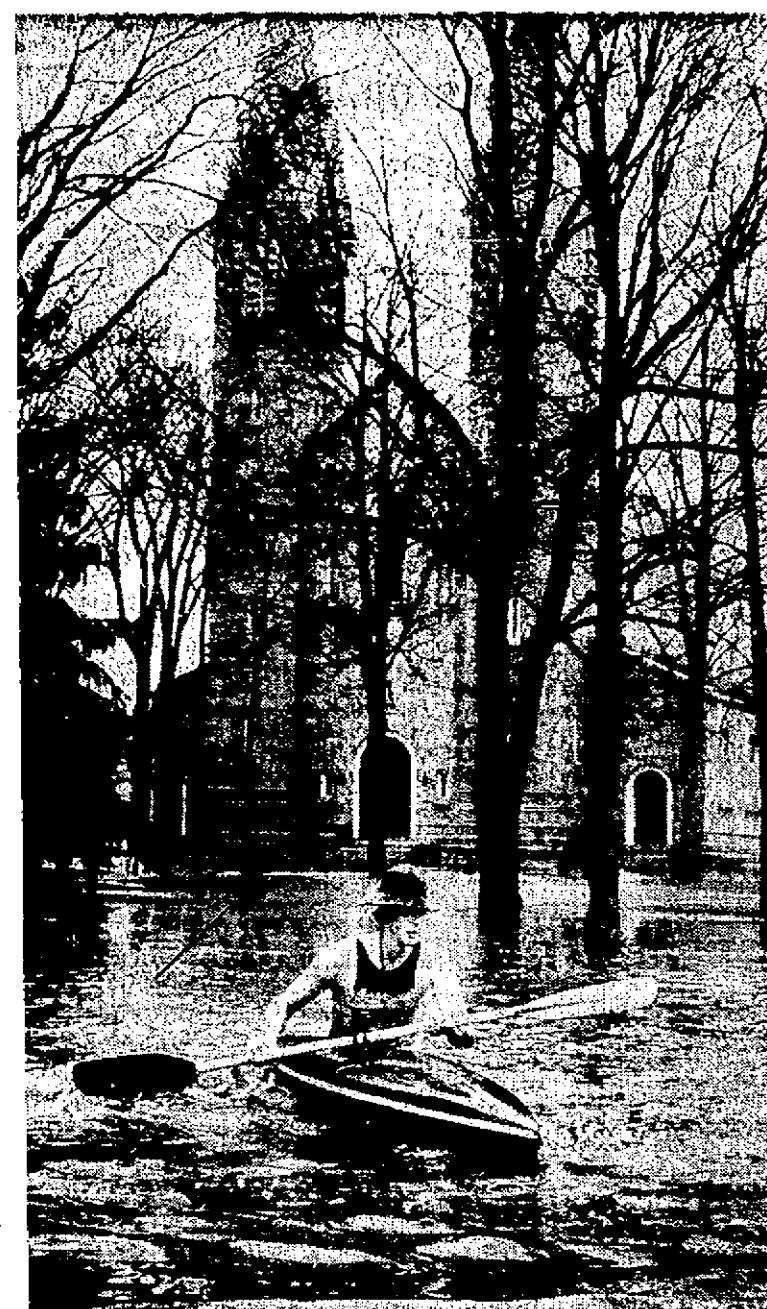

—Kindergarten through sixth grade with 16,000 students. The district divided into four "corridors" with students bused to school during part of that period and attending neighborhood schools the remainder.

—Seventh and eighth grades with 4,800 students. A similar corridor integration of junior high schools.

—Ninth grade with 2,200 students. All students to attend one school.

—High school with 7,700 students. A high school central "park" with three schools to be finished within five years. High school students meantime to be bused between three present schools.

A spokesman said the maximum busing would be eight miles and the average three miles.

Caucasian-Only Lot Sale by Carswell Is Defended

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (UPI) — The White House Friday defended Supreme Court nominee G. Harrold Carswell against criticism that he once sold some real property with a restrictive covenant stipulating occupants had to be of the white race.

Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said that while President Nixon did not approve of such covenants, they are common throughout the land.

"I think if you look across the country at various real estate documents you will find that this particular situation is not isolated at all," Ziegler said, commenting on reports Carswell and his wife sold a lot at Ocklockonee Bay, a resort on the Florida Gulf Coast, with restrictions in the deed limiting ownership, occupancy and use in "members of the Caucasian race."

The deed exempted "domestic employees employed by and residing with such Caucasian families."

The Palm Beach Post first broke the story in a copyrighted dispatch. It said Carswell and his wife sold a lot with the white-only provision on July 12, 1966, despite Supreme Court decisions as early as 1948 that such restrictions were not enforceable.

At the time of the sale, Carswell was serving as a U.S. district judge for Northern Florida. He has since been promoted to the U.S. 5th Circuit Court of Appeals, and was nominated by Nixon in January to fill the Supreme Court vacancy denied to Nixon's first choice, Judge Clement F. Haynsworth of South Carolina.

Nixon, here for a long Lincoln's Birthday holiday, spent the morning finishing work on his unprecedented "State of the World" message he will deliver to Congress next Wednesday.

In the afternoon, he relaxed with his family at their villa on Biscayne Bay. Later, the President, son-in-law David Eisenhower and close friend C. G. "Bebe" Rebozo cruised on the bay in the presidential yacht "Julie." Mrs. Nixon and daughters Tricia and Julie stayed at the compound.

Ziegler said the foreign policy message, expected to run more than 100 pages, would outline Nixon's concept of America's role in world affairs during the decade of the 70s.

It is expected to go beyond foreign policy to relate defense matters and deal extensively with Nixon's plans for pushing ahead with the controversial Safeguard antiballistic missile system.

"In killing someone physically you are only releasing the soul . . . death is only an illusion."

Miss Nadell's attorney said his client had received several threats against her life, the latest a crudely printed note which was thrown into her jail cell. It read: "Death to squealer pigs."

Police Lt. Robert Helder said Mrs. Nadell had filed no complaints concerning threats on her life and jail officials said they had received no complaints.

Police said Mrs. Nadell would be available to testify at the trial of any of the six defendants charged with the Tate-LaBianca killings.

Meanwhile, Judge George M. Dell said he suspended Manson's jail telephone privileges Wednesday for violating a previous court order prohibiting extra-judicial statements by principals in the case.

Army Balks at Order on Pollution

LOMPOC (AP) — The state told Fl. Ord. Friday it could not add any more sewer connections on the military post because of pollution of Monterey Bay, but the Army challenged the authority of the state to give orders to a federal agency.

The order, issued at a meeting of the state's Regional Water Control Board for the central coastal area, could have the effect of stopping current construction at the big Army base, including a major hospital.

The state board cited as its authority to make the order President Nixon's recent executive directive to federal installations to comply with state anti-pollution requirements.

The board also was considering similar drastic orders to the city of Pacific Grove and the Seaside Sanitation District, which embraces Seaside, Del Rey Oaks and Sand City, all of which empty their sewage into the famous bay.

JAIL BETTER THAN GUTTER

Drunks Face Tough Times After Losing Their 'Home'

GALLUP, N.M. (UPI) — Police Chief Manuel Gonzales said Friday a court order to limit to 60 the number of prisoners held in the city jail will cause many uncomfortable nights for a lot of drunks.

"We have made a monster out of it now—these people are going to get hurt leaving them out there," Gonzales said.

He referred to the 180 misdemeanor prisoners, most of them Navajo Indians, released from the jail in compliance with an order by U.S. Dist. Judge Howard C. Bratton.

Bratton made the ruling after the DNA—a Navajo Indian legal aid service filed suit against the city.

The DNA alleged "cruel and unusual punishment" for prisoners.

Conditions were described as cold at night, hot at day, with from 150 to 200 men kept for as long as 90 days in a 400-60 foot room.

The men released were held on charges ranging from drunkenness to disorderly conduct. Gallup police usually arrest 40 Indians a day on drunk charges.

"Now we will only arrest 12 a day because that is all our tank will hold," Gonzales said. "Once we have hit 12 arrests in one day, and once we have hit 60 prisoners we won't pick up any more. Where they fall they shall lay."

"I don't know what the weather is going to be like, but I imagine we are going to have some cases of exposure, lots of rollings and some of them are going to get run over," he said.

Gonzales said the average sentence for the drunk conviction is 30 days confinement and there will be periods when arrests may not be possible for a week.

"I guess people can now call in and ask if we have hit 60 yet and then know they can't be arrested," he said. "Many consider the jail their home. It's not a good place for them to spend their time, but it's better than alleys, ditches and gutters."

Fl. Ord. has a secondary treatment plant but the effluent is emptied onto a government-owned beach above high tide.

Welfare up to State, Says Church Unit

United Press International

The Roman Catholic archdiocese of Los Angeles said Friday it would be "unrealistic" for the church to compete with or duplicate governmental efforts aimed at providing the basic necessities of life.

In a statement drawn up in answer to demands on the archdiocese by a group of militant Mexican-American Catholics, the church said:

"The responsibility for providing the basic necessities of life for those in need . . . protection against the hazards of unemployment, illness and old age have long since passed into the hands of government. It is unrealistic to expect that the Catholic Church, or any church, can or should attempt to compete with or duplicate such programs."

The group, Catolicos por la Raza, had met with Archbishop Timothy Manning the day after he took over from Cardinal James Francis McIntyre. At that time he referred their demands to a committee of priests and laymen associated with the Mexican-American community.

IT WAS THIS committee which drafted the statement.

The statement made no direct reference to the demands, which called on the church to make itself more "relevant" to the needs of the Mexican-American community.

The statement said the archdiocese "had a record of accomplishment of which it can be justly proud" in social, cultural, educational, rehabilitative and health care organizations and parochial schools in every parish.

It concluded by saying Manning has authorized a recommendation that the East Los Angeles Priests' Committee implement formation of an inter-parochial council for the area.

The council would serve as a source of information and suggestions for better ways of responding to the needs of the area's residents.

Of the 16 members of the committee, 12 have Spanish surnames.

Two nonstudents who participated in an eight-hour sit-in at UCLA last November were given jail sentences Friday on misdemeanor charges of false imprisonment.

Los Angeles Municipal Court Judge Antonio E. Chavez gave suspended 180-day jail terms to 13 other persons, most of them students.

They were among 30 arrested after a sit-in in the office of Adolph T. Brugger, 42, director of student programs at UCLA. Brugger, who has an ulcer and heart condition, was unharmed in the demonstration but was not allowed to leave his office.

Twelve others have been ordered to stand trial on felony charges of false imprisonment and conspiracy. They are scheduled to appear in Santa Monica Superior Court Feb. 26 on a motion to dismiss the charges.

Chavez also withdrew the guilty plea of a 16th person, Kathleen Smith, and dismissed charges against her because he believed she was "a toy used by others."

The demonstration was staged in behalf of a fired cafeteria worker. Many of the students are members of the Students for a Democratic Society and the Asian Radical Movement campus organizations.

Newport Bay

Dredging Conditional

From Our State Bureau

SACRAMENTO — Norman B. Livermore Jr., secretary of the State Department of Resources, Friday announced conditional approval of a dredging operation in Upper Newport Bay.

The dredging, requested by the Orange County Harbor District, is limited to removing mud deposited by the floods of early 1968, Livermore said.

"Since the present proposal is only intended to remove material deposited by flood waters, we do not object to the accomplishment of this work," Livermore said.

"However, in view of the concern expressed, the resources agency will not approve any future dredge or fill permit applications in Upper Newport Bay until a comprehensive master plan is developed which recognizes the natural values of the bay and protects or enhances these values."

EGYPTIANS DEMONSTRATE AGAINST ISRAEL, ACCUSING U.S. OF COLLABORATION

ISRAELI ATTACK KILLS 70 CIVILIANS

Egypt in Uproar Over Raid

Associated Press

Thousands of Egyptians carried banners through the streets of Cairo Friday, demanding vengeance for the Israeli air raid that killed 70 factory workers and accusing the United States of collaborating with Israel.

As they marched, Egyptian jets pounded Israeli military installations along the Suez Canal. Cairo said all the planes returned safely after bombing artillery positions and tanks on the east bank of the canal, but the Israelis said one plane was shot down. Israel reported no casualties or damage.

IN NEW YORK, the United Nations said Secretary-General U Thant had recalled Norwegian Lt. Gen. Odd Bull, chief U.N.

truce observers, for urgent talks. A spokesman said Bull's trip had been planned before the Israeli air raid. Bull commands 95 U.N. observers in the Israel-Syria sector and 100 on the Israel-Egypt line from his Jerusalem office.

The demonstrators in Cairo, protesting the Israeli bombing of a scrap metal plant 17 miles north of the Egyptian capital Thursday, marched through the streets crying: "We avenge the blood of the martyrs! Down with American-Israeli collaboration!"

Police said half a million persons thronged the streets in what Cairo Radio called "a massive demonstration of solidarity and faith in the leadership" of the country.

The demonstrators lined the six-mile route between President Gamal Abdel Nasser's suburban residence and the Al Azhar Mosque, where he and visiting Libyan and Sudanese leaders were attending prayer services.

DESPITE ARAB outcries, officials in Washington said the bombing attack near Cairo will not influence President Nixon's decision on Israel's request for more planes. The President is expected to make a decision in two weeks.

The independent Jerusalem Post said it is a cruel fact that "in war, accidents of this nature can happen. Bombs and shells can sometimes fall where they are not intended, and as all soldiers know too well, they can sometimes even fall on one's own troops."

Egypt instructed its U.N. representative to send a letter to Secretary-General U Thant, the president of the Security Council and all member nations protesting "the crime committed by Israel against civilians."

Egyptian newspapers and radio stations laid much of the blame for the

Humphrey May Recommend O'Brien for Demo Chairman

By AL EISFELD
From Our National Bureau

WASHINGTON — A top aide to former Vice President Hubert Humphrey said Friday that Humphrey will announce his choice for a new chairman of the Democratic National Committee early next week.

And although William Connell wouldn't identify Humphrey's choice, there were indications that it will be former Postmaster General Larry O'Brien, who held the post in the early 1960's.

Connell, who now works for both Humphrey and the Encyclopedia Britannica Co., in Washington, said O'Brien's name is among the final three or four names being considered for the job vacated by Sen. Fred Harris, D-Okl., last week.

"I would expect him

(Humphrey) to make an announcement on whom he will support early next week, maybe Monday," Connell said in an interview. "I might think his recommendation would carry great weight."

Connell declined to discuss any other names under consideration for the post, but he said Humphrey's choice will be "a full-time professional, a technician who can put the party back on a stable financial basis." The party still carries an estimated $8 million debt from the 1968 campaign.

Humphrey made his remarks in a speech before the Foreign Policy Association of Minnesota.

Time is running out on a decision that may well determine whether man survives or perishes in a global nuclear holocaust, Humphrey said. "We have less than two months to make a decision that will determine the future of mankind."

"The cost in resources to both nations will be devastating. The threat to mankind cannot be measured," he declared.

"There is no question that the most frightening aspect of American foreign policy today is the absence of a clear program for arms control."

But Connell would only say that Humphrey's candidate for the job, who would be the most likely to get it, has asked to "think it over this weekend."

Connell urged that strong emphasis should be given by the new chairman to regaining the Democratic Party's strength in the South, a region where President Nixon and George Wallace cut deeply into traditional Democratic strength in 1968.

"THAT'S WHERE we lost the election in 1968," said Connell. "We lost six states in the South that John F. Kennedy carried in 1960 and it was the difference between 1960 and 1968. The real problem of a national party is that we got wiped out in the South — we lost the southern blue collar worker."

PEARSON REFUSED to discuss with a reporter what the Navy inspectors found.

But Rep. Tom Steed, D-Okl., reported the inspectors found conditions so bad that they recommended all the restaurants alternately closed, over a period of the next three days. This would take advantage of the weekend lull at the Capitol and the Lincoln's birthday recess.

Cafes in Capitol Buildings Filthy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Investigating in the wake of a TB outbreak, Navy sanitation experts found restaurants run by the U.S. Capitol so dirty they recommended they be closed for thorough cleanings.

The inspection team, headed by a Navy doctor, investigated the six cafeterias, three restaurants and several snack bars in the Capitol after the disclosure that several Capitol employees, including restaurant workers, had tuberculosis. Two restaurant workers died of the disease.

AS A RESULT of the TB outbreak, tests are being run on the 14,000 or so employees on Capitol Hill, starting with skin scratch tests for everyone, including members of Congress.

Those persons who show positive reactions to the scratch tests will get X-rays, beginning Monday.

SENATE DEMOCRATIC Leader Mike Mansfield and House Speaker John McCormack ordered the Capitol physician, Dr. Rufus Judson Pearson, to conduct an investigation of the Capitol restaurant operations.

CONNELL'S JOB description seemed to fit O'Brien, the master technician and tactical genius who headed the national committee when John F. Kennedy was President and who served as postmaster general under Lyndon B. Johnson.

But Connell would only say that Humphrey's candidate for the job, who would be the most likely to get it, has asked to "think it over this weekend."

Connell urged that strong emphasis should be given by the new chairman to regaining the Democratic Party's strength in the South, a region where President Nixon and George Wallace cut deeply into traditional Democratic strength in 1968.

Year of the Dog?

Forever in Films

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — In China the Year of the Dog has begun.

In Hollywood the canine is always a staple.

In silent films dogs could hold their own with human actors. Subtitles could be written as easily for an airedale as for Ben Turpin.

The first renowned quadruped of the screen was Rin-Tin-Tin, a fearless German Shepherd with a nice smile.

he saved babies from burning buildings, fair maidens from villains, heroes from cliff-hangs and the like.

In those early days Rin-Tin-Tin (as his friends called him) played heroic roles and left comedy to "Pete," a low-brow mongrel with a black circle painted around his eye in the "Our Gang" movies.

When sound made its debut, movies bounced out dogs along with high-pitched-voiced leading men such as John Gilbert.

But Rin-Tin-Tin made a comeback in films, and it wasn't long before the dog star (not to be confused with Sirius of the constellation Canis Major) was back in favor.

One of the most talented was Asia, a wirehaired terrier detective.

Then along came a dog of dubious parentage named Daisy, who made her mark in a bunch of "Dagwood" pictures.

Another German Shepherd made good in the role of Bullet, assisting Roy Rogers run down outlaws.

Most famous of all dog actors, or animal performers of any kind, is Lassie. She (really a male posing as a female) began her career in "Lassie Come Home" in 1944, appearing in several movies before sinking to television.

Next year is China's Year of the Rat.

MOVIE GUIDE

As a guide to moviegoers, this newspaper lists capsule contents of major motion pictures playing the Long Beach area. Most classifications represent the judgment of the Film Board of National Organizations.

THE COMPUTER WORE TENNIS SHOES — A computer backfires causing a college sophomore to become a mental wizard. A Walt Disney comedy. (G)

FRANKENSTEIN MUST BE DESTROYED — A horror film in which Dr. Frankenstein transplants a noted scientist's brain into another man. (M)

GENERATION — The occasionally funny story of a just-married off-beat young couple who plan to deliver their baby themselves. Stars David Janssen, Kim Darby and Carl Reiner. (M)

THE MAGIC CHRISTIAN — Beatle Ringo Starr portrays the son, and comedian Peter Sellers is the father, in a sometimes humorous version of the novel by Terry Southern. (M)

THE STERILE CUCKOO — Lonely, appealing and wacky college freshman Liza Minnelli has her first love affair with a serious young student. (M)

BUTCH CASSIDY AND THE SUNDANCE KID — Early 1900s western outlaws Paul Newman and Robert Redford take their banditry to Bolivia. An often witty script. (M)

THE SECRET OF SANTA VITTORIA — A comedy-drama of World War II with Anthony Quinn and Anna Magnani, and the citizens of an Italian town who hide their wine supply from the German army. (M)

RATINGS — Recommended for general audiences of all ages.

M — Suggested for mature audiences, adults and young people.

R — Restricted, persons under 16 not admitted unless accompanied by parents or adult guardian.

X — Persons under 16 not admitted.

Teaching Credential Dispute

State Board Seeks to Keep

Accrediting Power
By RALPH HINMAN JR.
Education Editor

SAN FRANCISCO—Continuing State Board of Education opposition to any legislation stripping it of teacher credential authority was voiced here Friday near the end of a two-day session of school policymakers.

Board President Howard Day of Long Beach was instructed to seek a compromise immediately with Assemblyman Leo J. Ryan, D-South San Francisco, who this year and last introduced legislation calling for an independent credentialing agency.

OVER 50 credentials are issued by the state to different teaching or other specialist categories. A special bureau within the State Department of Education processes all applications.

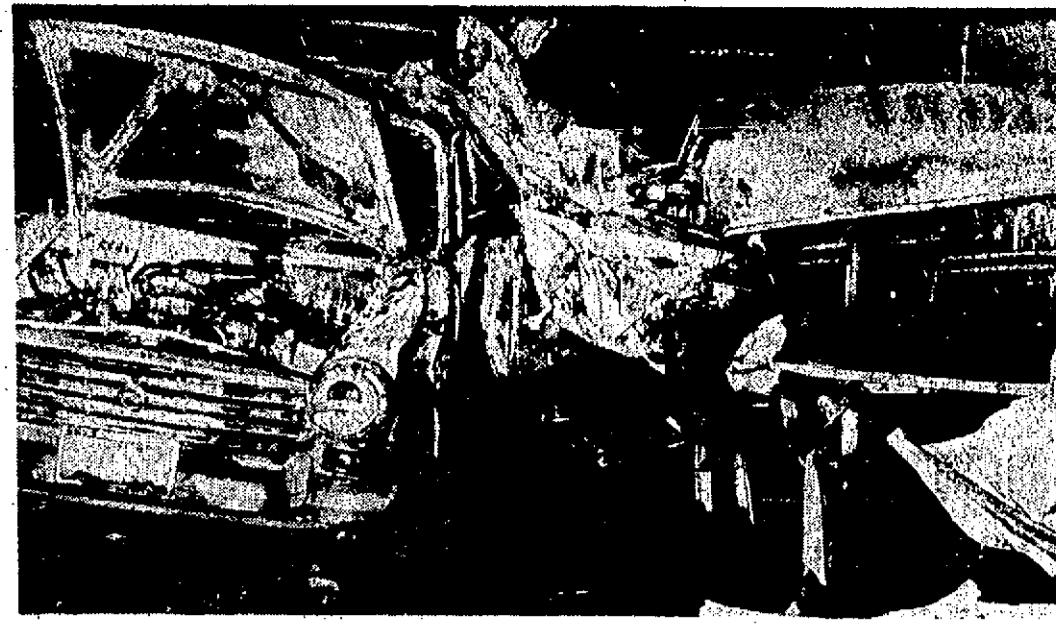

Ryan last month introduced a bill almost identical with one vetoed last year by Gov. Ronald Reagan that would reduce the number of credentials to four. It also asks creation of a separate issuing agency whose members would be appointed by the governor.

His measure is regarded in some quarters as a compromise with a December 1969 recommendation from the Governor's Task Force on Educational Reform.

That document proposed a single teaching credential be issued with the local districts empowered to license their own administrators, consultants and other specialists.

THE BOARD Friday indicated it does not oppose Ryan's proposed reduction in the number of credentials.

Day was told by fellow members that if he cannot reach agreement with Ryan, the board and education department must draft a licensing bill and vigorously seek its adoption.

CARS BOMBED IN POLICE LOT

Two cars lie totally wrecked by bombs that destroyed three autos and injured two reserve policemen in a Berkeley city hall parking lot early Friday. One officer underwent surgery to save his arm. The two home-made bombs, constructed of pipe stuffed with explosives, went off as police shifts were changing. Many nearby windows were shattered.

Moscone Offers 'Better Tax Plan' to Reagan

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Senate Democratic floor leader George R. Moscone said Friday he is drafting an "alternative" to Gov. Ronald Reagan's tax revision program.

Meantime, 30 Assembly Democrats led by John Burton of San Francisco announced their opposition to raising the sales tax to finance construction of the state water project.

The Reagan administration says it is considering a two-cent sales tax hike. But Burton said the extra levy would force middle income persons "to bear a disproportionate share of the state's revenue load."

MOSCONE SAID his plan would be tailored to insure that lower income Californians would receive the same amount of tax relief as their wealthier fellow residents.

The San Francisco lawmaker began drafting the measure after meeting with Reagan last week to discuss the governor's program. He said Democrats have a "deep problem" with it.

SEN. GEORGE MOSCONE
'More Equal Relief'

"I told the governor he ought to eliminate as much controversy as possible," Moscone said, and added that the main complaint Democrats have with Reagan's plan is the proposed one-cent sales tax increase.

"The increase makes it tough for Democrats to support, because lower income people who don't own a home or pay much income tax are not going to get much relief," he added.

Moscone said his program would go farther in the tax relief proposals recommended by Reagan to guarantee equal lessening of the taxation burden.

HE NOTED the governor proposes increasing the homeowner's property tax exemption from $750 to $1000. Moscone said his bill would boost the exemption to $2,000.

Reagan proposes to give renters a $50 credit on their state income taxes. Moscone said he would give a $100 "rebate" in check form to renters.

Like Reagan, the Democratic package would install a mandatory system of withholding state income taxes, estimated to raise $150 million annually in new revenue by forcing those to pay the levy who now escape it.

"Withholding eliminates the need for new taxes," Moscone said, including any raise in the sales tax.

HIS PROGRAM also will reduce the oil depletion allowance from 27½ per cent. But he declined to give a specific percentage at this time.

Moscone said his program would "wipe out" special tax treatment now afforded to persons on their capital gains income.

The Democratic leader added that his package would propose "additional" means of taxation to insure replacement revenue to local government caused by the higher property tax exemption. He said all the new methods haven't yet been decided.

Reagan has proposed two new income tax brackets to levy a higher percentage of taxation against the wealthy. But Moscone said he isn't convinced the higher brackets are needed.

"I THINK you can consider this package an alternative to the governor's program," he said.

Universities are becoming objects of prejudice, Hitch said. The B'nai B'rith group, "We are often attacked by some," he said, "for not dedicating ourselves totally to solving social problems, while at the same time we fend off the accusations of others that we are doing too much in this area."

However, no other institution, Hitch said, is better able to give current problems "the sustained analysis they require" than the modern university.

"In an atmosphere where ideas can be freely exchanged and debated on their own merit, extravagance and absurdities can be discredited and solutions distilled."

McCall told Reagan it was "only natural" that addicts would migrate to Oregon in search of treatment unavailable to them in their home states.

He contrasted this with what he said was an estimated 5,000 narcotic addicts in San Francisco alone.

Oregon 'Invaded' by Addicts

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan's office declined comment Friday on Oregon Gov. Tom McCall's complaint that California drug addicts are swarming into Oregon in search of treatment unavailable in California.

McCall said the California addicts are being turned away "to protect ourselves."

In an unusual "Dear Ron" letter, the Oregon chief executive urged Reagan to follow Oregon's lead and adopt the "humane" methadone treatment for heroin addicts "as promptly as possible."

McCall asked Reagan not to "regard me as a meddling critic."

Reagan and McCall both are Republicans who are up for re-election this year.

A spokesman for Reagan said the message had arrived but "the governor has not seen the letter yet." He said it would be "inappropriate" to comment now.

COUNTERCOUP IN THE MAKING?

Way Hints He Could Be Back--'Very Soon'

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Former Senate Leader Howard Way charged Friday after "old guard" senators who contended he was too pro-Reagan, used that argument just to rationalize their coup.

He also said a counter-coup by his "Young Turks" this legislative session is a "distinct possibility."

Way was deposed as Senate president pro tem Tuesday by Sen. Jack Schrade of San Diego. The upheaval climaxed a bitter leadership fight between the two Republicans.

Way, a soft-spoken, 56-year-old former rancher from rural Exeter, talked about his nine-month reign, his political mistakes and his future in an interview.

ONE OF THE loudest criticisms against Way was that he was "too partisan" toward Gov. Ronald

State Birth Rate on Rise Again—About 5 Years Late

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — California's birth rate is apparently on the rise again, the State Department of Finance said Friday.

The increase was shown in the department's annual population report, just released.

Verne Orr, director of finance, said the increase had been expected to show up around 1965 as a result of the post-World War II baby boom. He said the causes for the delay are not known.

Orr said the delay may reflect a mere postponement in raising families, or it may indicate a drop in family sizes among the postwar generation.

'Birth Defect' Defoliant Sold in California

By ROBERT P. LAURENCE

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The same weed-killer accused of causing birth defects in Vietnam and injuries to women in Arizona is used by California ranchers and homeowners, experts at the state Department of Agriculture said Friday.

Although tight regulations restrict its agricultural use, the herbicide known as 2,4,5-T is sold over the counter by garden supply stores, said James Kalstrom, acting head of the Agricultural Chemical Department of the Department of Agriculture.

"We have never had any demonstrated human or animal injury" from the chemical, he said. "There has only been skin irritation, to my own personal knowledge."

The substance has been used in defoliation in Vietnam, and there have been reports it has caused human birth defects.

Recently President Nixon's science adviser, Dr. Lee A. Dubridge, reported that a study by the Biometics Research Laboratory showed the chemical caused birth defects in laboratory rats.

In Globe, Ariz., Rep. Richard McCarthy Friday concluded informal hearings into reports 2,4,5-T injured humans and domestic animals and damaged plants. A woman in the area exposed to the chemical blamed it for a severe illness she suffered. There were also reports it damaged the reproductive organs of other women.

Government agencies also use 2,4,5-T, he said,

for weed control. Pryor said the State Division of Highways "has used it in the past, but now that this thing is coming out in the press, they're backing away from it."

Listed as an injurious herbicide, the chemical can be used in large quantities only with a permit from a county agricultural commissioner and in accordance with state regulations, he said.

Weed killers containing up to 1.25 per cent of 2,4,5-T can be bought with out a permit in quantities up to a gallon.

But up to a pint of herbicides containing higher percentages can also be bought across the counter, Kalstrom said.

He said "quite a few brands of lawn herbicides"

contain the chemical. No state proposals have been made to apply tighter restrictions, Kalstrom said. "There are no concrete proposals at the present time at any stage of action."

WHITE HOUSE EASES CURB ON CONTROVERSIAL SPRAY

GLOBE, Ariz. (UPI) — A congressman holding hearings into the possible dangers of a weed-controlling herbicide revealed Friday the White House told him it was easing restrictions on the chemical.

Rep. Richard McCarthy, D-N.Y., who heard two final witness' Friday morning, disclosed the contents of a letter sent to him by Dr. Lee A. Dubridge, science adviser to the President.

The latter said last fall's announcement that the herbicide 2,4,5-T should not be used after Jan. 1 "was not a directive to agencies." It said the Agriculture Department held the responsibility for suspending use of the herbicide.

McCarthy, in closing remarks, said "I find it incredible that Dow Chemical could have succeeded in reversing a White House statement."

He added, "I find it personally unconscionable" that the White House would change its stand suspending use of the chemical until it is proven safe.

Testimony before McCarthy concerned long standing reports that the chemical and other closely-related herbicides have caused damage to human health, domestic animals and plants here.

Dr. Arthur Galston, a Yale University biologist who accompanied McCarthy, was recalled at Friday's hearing and said there is "no doubt about damage" in this area due to drift of the herbicide that was used in a forest brush control program.

Some Mexican Pottery Unsafe for Food Use

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Food and Drug Administration warned Friday that use of some Mexican pottery or earthenware for food could result in severe illness from lead poisoning.

Its notice to state health authorities was the first in a series of steps leading to removal of the pottery from the U.S. market.

A spokesman said these solutions would include vinegar and orange or tomato juice. Like DDT, lead tends to accumulate in fatty tissues of the body over a period of time.

THE FDA said the Mexican government was cooperating in the crackdown. The agency said its move did not amount to an embargo on all imports of Mexican pottery. Only products tested at the border and found unsafe will be detained, it said.

The agency said that because unsafe pottery might not be marked as made in Mexico, anyone suspecting earthenware might have originated there should immediately stop using it for food.

Meantime, the agency is asking all importers and distributors to recall the pottery, and is informing customs officials it wants to examine all Mexican earthenware imports until further notice.

Uncontaminated commercial shipments will be allowed into the country.

CONSUMERS were urged to regard any Mexican pottery in their homes as ornaments only.

Acting on reports that a family in an unidentified western state had suffered lead poisoning after drinking orange juice from Mexican pottery, the FDA collected 28 separate samples of such earthenware. Of these, 26 emitted varying amounts of lead from their glazed surface.

Similar results were reported by the Arizona State Health Department and the Virginia Agriculture Department.

"At present, the warning applies only to pottery of Mexican origin," the FDA said. "Pottery that shows a rough or dull glaze rather than a glossy one gives the most lead when mildly acid solutions are placed in it."

contain the chemical. No state proposals have been made to apply tighter restrictions, Kalstrom said. "There are no concrete proposals at the present time at any stage of action."

'Birth Defect' Defoliant Sold in California

By ROBERT P. LAURENCE

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The same weed-killer accused of causing birth defects in Vietnam and injuries to women in Arizona is used by California ranchers and homeowners, experts at the state Department of Agriculture said Friday.

Although tight regulations restrict its agricultural use, the herbicide known as 2,4,5-T is sold over the counter by garden supply stores, said James Kalstrom, acting head of the Agricultural Chemical Department of the Department of Agriculture.

"We have never had any demonstrated human or animal injury" from the chemical, he said. "There has only been skin irritation, to my own personal knowledge."

The substance has been used in defoliation in Vietnam, and there have been reports it has caused human birth defects.

Recently President Nixon's science adviser, Dr. Lee A. Dubridge, reported that a study by the Biometrics Research Laboratory showed the chemical caused birth defects in laboratory rats. In Globe, Ariz., Rep. Richard McCarthy Friday concluded informal hearings into reports 2,4,5-T injured humans and domestic animals and damaged plants. A woman in the area exposed to the chemical blamed it for a severe illness she suffered. There were also reports it damaged the reproductive organs of other women.

"It's a herbicide used mostly for control of brush or woody plants," said Murray R. Pryor, weed control specialist with the state agriculture department.

He said it was used by ranchers in the foothills areas, although forbidden from areas containing grapes, cotton and other plants which might be hurt by it.

Government agencies also use 2,4,5-T, he said.

for weed control. Pryor said the State Division of Highways "has used it in the past, but now that this thing is coming out in the press, they're backing away from it."

Listed as an injurious herbicide, the chemical

can be used in large quantities only with a permit from a county agricultural commissioner and in accordance with state regulations, he said.

But up to a pint of herbicides containing higher percentages can also be bought across the counter, Kalstrom said.

He said "quite a few brands of lawn herbicides"

WHITE HOUSE EASES CURB ON CONTROVERSIAL SPRAY

GLOBE, Ariz. (UPI) — A congressman holding hearings into the possible dangers of a weed-controlling herbicide revealed Friday the White House told him it was easing restrictions on the chemical.

Rep. Richard McCarthy, D-N.Y., who heard two final witnesses Friday morning, disclosed the contents of a letter sent to him by Dr. Lee A. Dubridge, science adviser to the President.

The latter said last fall's announcement that the herbicide 2, 4, 5-T should not be used after Jan. 1 "was not a directive to agencies." It said the Agriculture Department held the responsibility for suspending use of the herbicide.

McCarthy, in closing remarks, said "I find it incredible that Dow Chemical could have succeeded in reversing a White House statement."

He added, "I find it personally unconscionable" that the White House would change its stand suspending use of the chemical until it is proven safe.

Testimony before McCarthy concerned long standing reports that the chemical and other closely-related herbicides have caused damage to human health, domestic animals and plants here.

Dr. Arthur Galston, a Yale University biologist who accompanied McCarthy, was recalled at Friday's hearing and said there is "no doubt about damage" in this area due to drift of the herbicide that was used in a forest brush control program.

Some Mexican Pottery Unsafe for Food Use

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Food and Drug Administration warned Friday that use of some Mexican pottery or earthenware for food could result in severe illness from lead poisoning.

Its notice to state health authorities was the first in a series of steps leading to removal of the pottery from the U.S. market.

Meantime, the agency is asking all importers and distributors to recall the pottery, and is informing customs officials it wants to examine all Mexican earthenware imports until further notice.

Uncontaminated commercial shipments will be allowed into the country.

CONSUMERS were urged to regard any Mexican pottery in their homes as ornaments only.

Acting on reports that a family in an unidentified western state had suffered lead poisoning after drinking orange juice from Mexican pottery, the FDA collected 28 separate samples of such earthenware. Of these, 26 emitted varying amounts of lead from their glazed surface.

Similar results were reported by the Arizona State Health Department and the Virginia Agriculture Department.

"At present, the warning applies only to pottery of Mexican origin," the FDA said. "Pottery that shows a rough or dull glaze rather than a glossy one gives the most lead when mildly acid solutions are placed in it."

A spokesman said these solutions would include vinegar and orange or tomato juice. Like DDT, lead tends to accumulate in fatty tissues of the body over a period of time.

THE FDA said the Mexican government was cooperating in the crackdown. The agency said its move did not amount to an embrace on all imports of Mexican pottery. Only products tested at the border and found unsafe will be detained, it said.

The agency said that because unsafe pottery might not be marked as made in Mexico, anyone suspecting earthenware might have originated there should immediately stop using it for food.

L.B. Honor Farm Alcoholic Health Plan Praised

By BEN ZINSER
Medical-Science Editor

A special committee of the 1969 County Grand Jury has paid special praise to a new alcoholic rehabilitation program underway at the Long Beach Honor Farm.

The committee report, approved by the Los Angeles County Grand Jury, terms the Long Beach program "an enlightened and imaginative approach" that warrants follow-up study by the 1970 Grand Jury.

The way the program is going now suggests that it should be considered for countywide adoption, the report says.

Under the program, special counselors visit Rancho Esperanza, the honor farm which is part of the Long Beach jail system.

TWO COUNSELORS WORK with inmates during the daytime. Two others conduct evening sessions that include both individual and group counseling.

The program began Aug. 1, and 23 inmates, now released, are employed, thanks, in part at least, to special counselors.

However, results are actually better than these figures indicate, according to Mrs. Judy Kennedy, director of the alcoholic rehabilitation division of the Long Beach Department of Public Health.

"Some of the former inmates are retired persons, but they are maintaining their sobriety after release from the honor farm," Mrs. Kennedy explained.

More than 100 inmates have participated in the rehabilitation program so far, Mrs. Kennedy said.

EIGHTY PER CENT of the inmates at Rancho Esperanza are chronic alcoholics, the Grand Jury noted.

Focus of the rehabilitation program is on the chronic drunk offender, for it is this type of inmate who is proving the most costly.

The report terms such an offender "the revolving door drunk." This type of inmate follows a pattern of drunkenness, arrest, incarceration, release and re-arrest.

Surprisingly, maintenance of these inmates is not the big cost, the Grand Jury found. It's the processing.

Booking cost alone for an offender is $27.50.

"Rap sheets" (crime records) show 12 or more arrests, bookings and sentences in one calendar year for these men. Thus the booking cost for one man with 12 arrests amounts to an annual cost of $330.

"The courts were sentencing these chronic drunks to sentences from two weeks to 30 days," the Grand Jury report reads. "It was costing more to process these men than to maintain them."

The cost of maintaining a man at Rancho Esperanza is about $3.25 a day. This sum is arrived at by subtracting the value of services to the city and the value of produce grown at the farm.

Inmates work either in the extensive vegetable gardens maintained by the facility or do weed-control tasks for the city.

THE GRAND JURY reports that previous rehabilitation efforts were unsuccessful because counseling was "too brief" to motivate an alcoholic toward a new way of life upon release from the honor farm.

Among the Grand Jury's recommendations were:

— That courts and law enforcement agencies encourage all chronic alcoholics and potential alcoholics to participate in the rehabilitation program.

— That records be kept of all who participate in the program and that the courts be kept informed of results.

— That the program, if it proves successful in the long run, be expanded to include work furloughs and community involvement.

Mrs. Kennedy said that some former inmates are taking advantage of follow-up outpatient programs conducted by the Long Beach Health Department. Those who want it are given the drug Antabuse, which dissuades many alcoholics from taking a drink.

Mrs. Kennedy had special praise for employers who are giving jobs to discharged inmates. This effort is helping the alcoholic successfully bridge the gap from incarceration to community life, she said.

The special Grand Jury committee that investigated alcoholic rehabilitation consisted of Anne C. Lingle and Sam Feldman, both of Long Beach.

Wade Named to Study on Coastal Preservation

From Our State Bureau

SACRAMENTO — Mayor Edwin W. Wade of Long Beach and Los Angeles County Supervisor Burton Chace, whose district includes Long Beach, were named Friday to the Local Government Task Force on Coastal Preservation by Lt. Gov. Ed Rinecke.

Also named to the 12-member task force were Newport Beach Mayor Doreen Marshall and Huntington Beach Mayor Jack Green.

The appointments stemmed from a Conference on California Coastal Shoreline Preservation held last month.

Designed to develop control of shoreline development, the task force held its first meeting Friday in San Francisco, and received a briefing on state activities by the Interagency Council on Ocean Resources, the Department of Navigation and Ocean Development, and the California Advisory Commission on Marine and Coastal Resources.

L.B. to Study Waste Disposal

The City of Long Beach will take part in a six-county study of how best to handle trash and other solid wastes over the next 15 years, City Manager John R. Mansell said Friday.

The study will be directed by the Southern California Association of Governments under a $200,000 grant from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Local communities must provide $100,000, but this can be in the form of services and materials, Mansell said. Long Beach's share is $5,734, and this was approved last Tuesday by the City Council.

The study will cover the counties of Los Angeles, Orange, Imperial, Riverside, San Bernardino and Ventura. It will get under way this spring, and will take about 18 months.

The final report of the study is expected to make recommendations on management of urban solid-waste systems, methods of disposing of waste, financing, equipment and scheduling.

Aerojet-General Corp. has been selected by SCAG as the consultant for the study.

Part of the study will involve a projection of the type, source and quantity of solid wastes expected through the year 1985, Mansell said.

Tropic Disease May Increase

Tropical sprue, an intestinal disorder marked by diarrhea and loss of weight, may become more common in the United States because of participation in the Vietnam war, a medical specialist said in Long Beach Friday.

Dr. I. Michael Samloff, chief of the gastroenterology division at Harbor General Hospital in Torrance, said that others than veterans who visit certain tropical areas may also be vulnerable to the ailment.

But if this approach were ever undertaken, the patient would be forced to endure certain adverse side effects, namely diarrhea, he said.

IN ADDITION, there would be problems such as that of maintaining a proper fluid balance in the body's circulation.

A person may not develop tropical sprue symptoms until 10 to 15 years after he has visited the tropics, Dr. Samloff said.

Dr. Samloff, who also is an associate professor of medicine at UCLA, addressed doctors in a scientific lecture at St. Mary's Hospital.

AS OF NOW, the number of tropical sprue patients is relatively small, he said. Nevertheless, the disease is on the increase in this country, he added.

Cause of the disorder is unknown.

In an interview, Dr. Samloff said the future possibility of using a drug to induce "selective mal-absorption" to treat obesity "is not unreasonable."

But if this approach were ever undertaken, the patient would be forced to endure certain adverse side effects, namely diarrhea, he said.

IN ADDITION, there would be problems such as that of maintaining a proper fluid balance in the body's circulation.

Dr. Samloff views with disfavor the surgical-shunt operations that interfere with nutrient absorption to bring about large weight losses. The operations are sometimes performed to shave significant pounds off persons with "maligant obesity."

The operations, Dr. Samloff asserted, are "dangerous."

County Takes Over Bridge

From Our L.A. Bureau

Dr. Robert D. Peterson, 49, Orange County's superintendent of schools, will seek re-election at the June primary.

Peterson, who was principal of Monte Vista School in Santa Ana before he won his first election four years ago, also has been an instructor in evening division classes at Long Beach State College, Orange Coast College at Costa Mesa and Chapman College at Orange.

His term as county superintendent of schools has been marked with innovations and occasional conflicts with the county Board of Education.

Peterson originated the "barbershop poll," a survey of public opinion he said was for his own use — and which he took into barbershops because "people have time to talk there."

Later, he expanded similar polls to include beauty parlors and gas stations. All were for his own information, he said.

GARDENING

TIME TO MULTIPLY PERENNIALS SUCH AS THESE AGAPANTHUS

By JOE LITTLEFIELD

Dig up old matted clumps of agapanthus, perennial phlox, day lily, tulbaghia, gerbera the transvaal daisy, canna, and ginger. Separate the plants within the clumps. Discard the old knobby worn out ones and save the best of the young plants to multiply these perennials.

Soil should be improved by digging some bone meal and organic material into it. Mix well before replanting the young plants. Keep the soil moist until they begin to develop new growth.

AGAPANTHUS of the lily family, called the lily of the Nile, actually is native of South Africa. The name agapanthus is from the Greek, agape — love plus anthos — flower. It means "love-flower." Lots of gardeners do love this plant. It has numerous funnel shaped blue-orange flowers in an umbel, atop a tall flower stalk. These are showy. They add their share of color in the summer sunny garden; they are not shade area plants. The plants usually begin to bloom sometime in June.

We've seen some agapanthus in the shade garden with only a flower stalk or two and some non-bloomers. In the sunny areas plants did well. Those growing in a hot west exposure near an apartment house wall were the best bloomers of all!

Perennial phlox (Phlox paniculata) with large spreading clusters of flowers, from late spring into October, provide masses of color in the sunny garden. The plants along the coast might mildew a little due to the humidity and cooler atmosphere. The gardener can help these plants avoid mildew by spacing the phlox further apart. Set them out 18 inches apart. Do not set them out in a corner of the garden where air circulation is poor. They'll need controlled watering. Lawn sprinklers should not be used.

DAY LILIES too will bloom better after they have been separated and young plants reset. They add graceful charm planted along a walk, a driveway, or edging a patio. A garden planting combined with agapanthus creates a contrasting and attractive effect.

Tulbaghia violacea is a somewhat narrow leafed clump plant, but is attractive when it begins to bloom in late May or early June. It continues flowering through October. The coral bell-like blossoms add lavender-blue in the sunny garden. It, too, can be used as hedge-like planting along a driveway, a walk, or a somewhat narrow space between a walk, or path, and a garden wall.

Cannas and ginger, too, need to be multiplied when clumps are old.

The best and most flowery planting of yellow gingers we've ever seen was a bed of them in full sun, bounded on two sides by driveways and a south side heat reflecting garage wall at the back. Both cannas and gingers thrive on manure mulch and plenty of water.

COMMENT — Found a cure for rice paper plants, shoots, etc. Cut off at ground surface and touch each cut with a piece of "Weedez Bar" made by Chipman Chemical Co., Inc. Sometimes I had to repeat the process but I eliminated them all. K.D.

Q — Where can I buy a chorisia speciosa tree? There is such a tree driving east to Anaheim from Hawaiian Gardens on the north side of the highway. I'd like to know all about it, also to care for it, and all the things needed to know about it. Georgia Brown.

A — Chorisia is pronounced (kor-ee-si-a), "Floss Silk Tree," an immigrant from Brazil. It is a deciduous tree and grows to about 20 to 40 feet high. The green trunk is wider at the base and noticeably tapers to a smaller diameter size as it grows taller. The trunk is thorny. The foliage conformation has five to seven entire or serrated leaflets on a palmate leaf. The soft silk or cotton of the seed pod is, or has been, used for pillows and cushions. This gorgeous autumn flowering tree is listed as tolerating cold from 3 to 20 degrees above zero. If your local nurseryman doesn't have it he'll gladly order it in from a wholesale grower. Dig the hole twice the size of the plant root ball. Mix about half organic material or planter mix with half soil and plant it as you would any shrub or tree. Feed it a balanced plant food in April, again late June. Water tree well as it needs it.

Q — I would like to know the name of the plant in the enclosed color photo. It had eight blossoms this year. They bloom only at night, and one night only, then die. One night three bloomed and died, the next night the other five did the same. Please give me some details how to take care of it. It's a pretty plant. The neighbors came to see it from midnight till 10 o'clock in the morning. J.G.

A — That plant is the "Night-Blooming Cereus Cactus." Treat it as you would your Epiphyllum plants, the "orchid cactus." Water it well when it thirsts, then let it dry before watering it again. After one of the waterings, lightly stuff the soil, then put a thin layer of manure around it and water it well. Few days later, water again. Thereafter water as you normally do, but don't keep the plant constantly wet. About a month after manuring, feed it lightly (one-half the usual amount) of a balanced plant food containing less nitrogen than phosphoric acid. Soil must be moist before feeding. Water well afterwards.

'70s to Offer Big Garden Rewards

By EARL ARONSON
AP Newsfeatures

Forecast for the 1970s: There will be new flowers to make gardening more rewarding than in any past decade.

The prediction comes from William J. Park, whose Greenwood, S.C., seed company will help it come true by introducing 28 new annuals and perennials in 1970.

"Most represent a genetic breakthrough to achieve improved plant habit, new forms and colors or other desirable characteristics, a discernible trend being toward greater masses of color on lower-growing plants," Park related. "Other introductions are the result of the company's world-wide search for rare but desirable plants."

TWO INTRODUCTIONS make seed-grown annual plants possible.

One is Hypoestes, a pink-dotted foliage plant. The other is a double geranium that previously could be propagated only by cuttings. Now the Polka Dot Plant and Double Dip geraniums may be raised easily from seed. The geraniums come in three colors and a mixture.

Annuals with a liking for shade are bicolored Crazy Quilt and Orchid Lady, low-growing impatiens.

Sunshine plants with "in" names are Sweet Bippy Petunia, a low growing, double rose and white hybrid grandiflora; Groovy Marigold, early dwarf hybrid with three-inch golden blooms; Hot Buttons Zinnia, "hot pink"; Kablouna Calendula large, crested golden yellow flowers, and Astro Petunia, hybrid grandiflora with a white star on each red flower.

PERENNIALS making their debut in 1970 at Park include three ground cover varieties: Gentiana sepium, a summer-flowering Winter household routines can be considerably brightened by keeping fresh flowering plants, in red clay pots and matching waterproofed clay saucers, on tables, shelves, or fireplace mantles. Valentine's Day is a good time to start your collection.

The lawn spoilers are coming!

This is the only time of the whole year you can prevent crabgrass and spotted spurge from growing.

Not now, but come spring with its warming sun, those two notorious lawn spoilers — crabgrass and spotted spurge — will start growing from the thousands of seeds left behind by last year's crop.

If yours is a dichondra lawn, neither spoiler need see the light of day in your 1970 dichondra lawn. You simply spreader-apply Super Bonus before mid-February, and repeat in 8 weeks. It sets up a barrier that chokes both crabgrass and spotted spurge as they sprout. (It also delays revival of bermuda.)

If yours is a grass lawn or grass mixed with dichondra, you can stop crabgrass before it ever starts by using Super Halts Plus. (Note: Super Halts Plus does not prevent spotted spurge.) One spreader application does it, as long as it's on by mid-February.

Fertilizes lawn too. Both Super Bonus and Super Halts Plus also provide prolonged Scotts feeding — so your lawn automatically gets the fertilizing it needs at this time of year. And since both products work through the soil, you get the full benefit no matter how many inches of rain follow application.

GARDENING

By JOE LITTLEFIELD

Dig up old matted clumps of agapanthus, perennial phlox, day lily, tulbaghia, gerbera the transvaal daisy, canna, and ginger. Separate the plants within the clumps. Discard the old knobby worn out ones and save the best of the young plants to multiply these perennials.

Soil should be improved by digging some bone meal and organic material into it. Mix well before replanting the young plants. Keep the soil moist until they begin to develop new growth.

AGAPANTHUS of the lily family, called the lily of the Nile, actually is native of South Africa. The name agapanthus is from the Greek, agape — love plus anthos — flower. It means "love-flower." Lots of gardeners do love this plant. It has numerous funnel shaped blue-or-white flowers in an umbel, atop a tall flower stalk. These are showy. They add their share of color in the summer sunny garden; they are not shade area plants. The plants usually begin to bloom sometime in June.

We've seen some agapanthus in the shade garden with only a flower stalk or two and some non-bloomers. In the sunny areas plants did well. Those growing in a hot west exposure near an apartment house wall were the best bloomers of all!

Perennial phlox (Phlox paniculata) with large spreading clusters of flowers, from late spring into October, provide masses of color in the sunny garden. The plants along the coast might mildew a little due to the humidity and cooler atmosphere. The gardener can help these plants avoid mildew by spacing the phlox further apart. Set them out 18 inches apart. Do not set them out in a corner of the garden where air circulation is poor. They'll need controlled watering. Lawn sprinklers should not be used.

DAY LILIES too will bloom better after they have been separated and young plants reset. They add graceful charm planted along a walk, a driveway, or edging a patio. A garden planting combined with agapanthus creates a contrasting and attractive effect.

Tulbaghia violacea is a somewhat narrow leafed clumpy plant, but is attractive when it begins to bloom in late May or early June. It continues flowering through October. The coral bell-like blossoms add lavender-blue in the sunny garden. It, too, can be used as hedge-like planting along a driveway, a walk, or a somewhat narrow space between a walk, or path, and a garden wall.

Cannas and Ginger, too, need to be multiplied when clumps are old.

The best and most flowering planting of yellow gingers we've ever seen was a bed of them in full sun, bounded on two sides by driveways and a south side heat reflecting garage wall at the back. Both cannas and gingers thrive on manure mulch and plenty of water.

COMMENT — Found a cure for rice paper plants, shoots, etc. Cut off at ground surface and touch each cut with a piece of "Weed Bar" made by Chipman Chemical Co., Inc. Sometimes I had to repeat the process but I eliminated them all. K.D.

Q — Where can I buy a chorisia speciosa tree? There is such a tree driving east to Anaheim from Hawaiian Gardens on the north side of the highway. I'd like to know all about it, also to care for it, and all the things needed to know about it. Georgia Brown.

COMMENT — Mrs. W.B. Nolan writes, regarding T.M.M.'s question about the small purple-blossomed flowering trees in Catalina Island: "We learned it was called a 'violet tree.' No nurseries in our area heard of a 'violet tree,' but from the description of it, thought it was probably a potato vine. We were told it could be clipped and trained as a small tree or as a shrub. We break off the shoots from the trunk every couple of weeks to shape it. They are bushy and bloom intermittently all year. We purchased our plants at the La Sierra Nursery across from Forest Lawn in Cypress." — Another common name for this plant is "blue potato vine". We thank Mrs. W.B. Nolan of Buena Park for her comments about that vine.

Q — At Christmas time we purchased one of the little Christmas trees which have the trunk sealed in a water refillable stand. It is still in it and is painted. But — there are little shoots on the ends of the branches and they are beginning to open. Is it possible that this little tree can grow and if so, how should I proceed. It has a special meaning to us and we'd like to save it if we can. Mrs. G.W.A.

A — I doubt that little tree would root if you planted it in the ground — but I haven't seen it. Try it and see what happens. Plant it in a half-and-half mixture of some organic material such as compost soil, or some premoistened peat moss or planter mix, in the ground. Shade it to keep the sun off. If it should grow, when well started remove the shade.

Q — I have a silver maple tree that drops a sticky substance during the summer when it has leaves. Is there any way to stop this? Also can I get maple syrup from this tree. If so, How? S.T.

A — Sugar Maple (Acer saccharum) is the maple from which the sweet sap is tapped. Your Silver Maple tree is (Acer saccharinum). Saccharinum means "sweetish". You might try it for taste. Check with your local librarian for literature on how to tap the tree for the sap. Plant lice (aphids) or scale could cause sticky substance to fall during summer. Have your gardener or tree man check for such pests.

Tall ones are Arctic Summer, a verbenacum biennial with 5-6 ft. spikes of yellow flowers, and a white and a blue bushy, Connecticut Yankee type delphinium; and a purple Liatris named Kobold.

Of interest to fluorescent and greenhouse gardeners are large-flowered gloxinia called Libelle, and a series of dwarf hybrids with many large, bell-shaped flowers.

Available for the first time, Park says is seed for the European Florist Strain of gerberas, formerly grown only from cuttings.

THE NEW POLKA Dot is the little known Hypoestes sanguinolenta, a foliage plant with dark green leaves of purplish cast sprinkled with pink dots. Its native habitat is the fertile slopes of Irazu, a volcano near Cartago, Costa Rica, where the temperature holds steady between 60 and 80 degrees.

70 Student Journalists Learn the Inside Story

About 70 student journalists from Long Beach area high schools have learned the "inside story" of what makes a metropolitan daily newspaper tick.

They got the word from Independent, Press-Telegram personnel Thursday at Boyd High Auditorium during the annual professional journalism day sponsored by the I, P-T in cooperation with the Long Beach Unified School District.

In special and general sessions the students were taken through the procedures of a newspaper operation, starting with an outline from William W. Broome, editor of the I, P-T.

Managing editor Larry Allison discussed the rights and responsibilities of the press, and associate editor Don Ohi dealt with editorial writing, and Terry Satoria, Press-Telegram assistant city editor, led a session on editing the day's news.

Other sessions featured Mary Neiswender on the woman's role in journalism; Carolyn Ruszkiewicz on writing for youth; Bob Houser, political editor, on specialty reporting; and John Dixon, sports editor.

School officials commended the program, citing the informality and opportunity for questioning professional journalists as the key to its success.

After the class sessions, the students were taken on a tour of the I, P-T plant.

Tape Deck Stolen

Donald S. Hughes, of 4430½ Lakewood Blvd., told police Friday that while his car was parked near his apartment burglars pried open the right windwing and removed a tape deck and tapes valued at $180.

Smoking Cut-Off Clinics Set

A new smoking-withdrawal clinic, offered as a free community service, will begin March 3 at the Long Beach Jewish Community Center, 2601 Grand Ave.

The clinic, to be conducted in cooperation with the American Cancer Society, will be held at 8 p.m. on five consecutive Tuesdays.

SPEAKERS will be physicians and behavioral scientists. Ex-smokers will serve as group discussion leaders.

Alan Kassin, program director for the center, said ex-smokers are needed as volunteer workers to serve the five Tuesday nights in March. Those interested should call the center.

The program is open to all members of the community.

From Our L. A. Bureau

A city-county contract is being prepared so the county can provide maintenance service on Lakewood's radar equipment.

"This is equipment used by the sheriff's department, which polices the community," Supervisor Frank Bonelli explained in presenting the necessary board motion. "The city will pay the actual cost of the service."

The action was taken in response to a request from the Lakewood City Council. Twelve other municipalities have similar arrangements with the county for radar maintenance.

Symposium on Campus Turmoil Set

A day-long symposium on campus disorders and related subjects will be Tuesday at the Orange County Communications Center, 481 S. Manchester Avenue, Orange.

Walter L. Fox, executive secretary of the disaster advisory committee for Orange County schools, said that the symposium will deal with such topics as student unrest, drug abuse, racial problems, and student organizations.

Among panelists will be Dr. E. A. Almstead, principal of Taft High School in San Fernando; Robert Malcolm, former principal of Fremont High School, Los Angeles; Capt. Harry Nelson of Newport Beach police, and Chief of Police Merrill Duncan of Orange.

Rites Slated for John W. Laughinghouse

Funeral services for John W. Laughinghouse, 70, of 6095 Cerritos Ave., the oldest licensed used car dealer in Long Beach, will be held at 3 p.m. Monday at the Dilday Family Chapel, 1250 Pacific Ave.

Mr. Laughinghouse, who operated a used car lot at 1152 E. Anaheim St. since 1929, died Thursday at St. Mary's Hospital.

He is survived by his sons, John D., Harry W. and Harold P. Laughinghouse, daughter, Mrs. Avis Taylor, two brothers, a sister and 10 grandchildren.

A member of the Long Beach Auto Dealers Association for many years, Mr. Laughinghouse will be buried at Westminster Memorial Park following the funeral services, at which Pastor Virgil F. Bjerke, of Our Saviors Lutheran Church, will officiate.

'Can't Buy Kids Anymore'; Ecumenical Marriage Meet

By LES RODNEY

The new pastor at California Heights Methodist, Rev. George M. Mann, addresses his thoughts this week to the question of young people and the church.

"The old patterns of Epworth League and MYF are gone," he says. "The church can't buy kids anymore with punch and cookies and parlor games on Sunday night. Youth are breaking into the adult world in more places than we like to think. They ask to be treated seriously. They want intensive training in the faith. They want to know exactly how to put that faith to work."

This, he continues, "means more of our time, yours and mine. Instead of massive youth rallies, the need is for smaller groups and a higher ratio of adult leadership." He and assistant minister George Boss have scheduled regular information sessions with junior highs, and high school and college age youngsters as a start.

"For older youth," the pastor says, "I don't know exactly where it will lead. We'll call it a rap session and we'll dig into this Jesus thing. So, if you're under 25, church member or not, we invite you to swing with us."

ANYONE FOR pussy willow branches in bloom? They are said to be rare in the area. Pastor Edward C. Schilling of Bethel Tabernacle in Bellflower, 9644 Cedar Ave., informs that one of the trees is growing on the church property, and should be in full bloom in the next week. Branches of same, or rooted starts that will develop into trees, he says, can be obtained for a donation to the church.

THE SENSITIVE question of marriage between a Protestant and a Catholic will be dealt with in a perhaps unique conference, or retreat, planned by Sister Anne Dunn, I.H.M., of the Theology Department of Immaculate Heart College.

Sister Anne feels that in spite of much ecumenical activity in recent years, the interfaith Christian marriage has not been dealt with.

The conference will be held during the weekend of March 13, 14, 15 at the Casa de Maria Conference Center at Montecito.

The general goal will be to "deepen understanding and appreciation of the value of such marriages, and to suggest ways of improving pre-marital counseling" for couples contemplating such marriages.

Leaders of the Reorganized Church, in their application, noted that they did not bar Negroes from the priesthood. This, of course, has been a controversial issue around the main Mormon Church, which

(who are also invited to the conference.) A theologian from the Jesuit Theological Seminary at Berkeley will be in attendance, as well as clergymen of other denominations.

Couples attending should include one Catholic, says Sister Anne, who will be happy to offer further details. Or information may be secured from Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Gulliver at 631-7006, or in Orange County from Mr. and Mrs. John Rogers, 838-5446.

THE REORGANIZED Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, a split-off from the main Mormon body, has applied for and won recognition of its eligibility for membership in the National Council of Churches.

This does not necessarily imply actual membership, but the denomination can now participate in the work of NCC agencies. It had expressed particular interest in the Council's Broadcasting and Film Commission.

The Reorganized Church came into being on the death of Joseph Smith in 1844, over questions of doctrine, and was headed by Smith's son, also named Joseph. Headquartered in Independence, Mo., it is the second largest Mormon groups, but its approximately 1,000 churches and 250,000 members falls far short of the Salt Lake City-based Mormon church, which numbers 4,500 churches and over two million members in the United States.

The larger Mormon body has never applied for membership in the National Council (the other major Protestant denominations outside the Council are the Southern Baptists, two of the three Lutheran groupings, and the conservative Churches of Christ.)

Leaders of the Reorganized Church, in their application, noted that they did not bar Negroes from the priesthood. This, of course, has been a controversial issue around the main Mormon Church, which does bar Negroes from its priesthood, resulting in such things as Stanford University breaking of relations with Brigham Young University. The Salt Lake City Mormons count fair, and thus a question of doctrine, is their own affair, and this question of religious liberty, and point to their sectarian stance in favor of civil rights and equal opportunity for all.

To join the National Council of Churches denominations merely have to certify that they agree with the preamble to the NCC Constitution, which notes that the Council is composed of "communions which confess Jesus Christ as Lord and Saviour." (This requirement, for example, excludes the Unitarian-Universalist Church from membership.)

In citing their lack of a ban on black priests, the Reorganized Church may have assumed that such a ban would create controversy within the National Council. Undoubtedly, there would be a few heated words of debate in the Council in such a (hypothetical) situation.

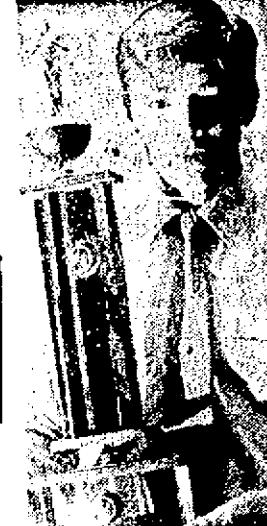

"WHAT WE'RE doing here is changing the traditional image of one man as super-pastor or sort of a super-Christian."

So say Rev. William Terbeck, one of two pastors sharing the pulpit in a tradition-breaker at 75-year-old First Christian Church of Whittier. His co-pastor is Rev. Dennis Savage, a one-time divinity schoolmate. At the University of Chicago, 25 years ago, the two envisioned just such a task-sharing arrangement.

They were pastors of two separate Southland churches when the Whittier church decided to try the innovative co-pastoral plan.

Smoking Cut-Off Clinics Set

A new smoking-withdrawal clinic, offered as a free community service, will begin March 3 at the Long Beach Jewish Community Center, 2601 Grand Ave.

The clinic, to be conducted in cooperation with the American Cancer Society, will be held at 8 p.m. on five consecutive Tuesdays.

SPEAKERS will be physicians and behavioral scientists. Ex-smokers will serve as group discussion leaders.

Alan Kassin, program director for the center, said ex-smokers are needed as volunteer workers to serve the five Tuesday nights in March. Those interested should call the center.

The program is open to all members of the community.

From Our L. A. Bureau

A city-county contract is being prepared so the county can provide maintenance service on Lakewood's radar equipment.

"This is equipment used by the sheriff's department, which polices the community," Supervisor Frank Bonelli explained in presenting the necessary board motion. "The city will pay the actual cost of the service."

The action was taken in response to a request from the Lakewood City Council. Twelve other municipalities have similar arrangements with the county for radar maintenance.

Tape Deck Stolen

Donald S. Hughes, of 4430 Lakewood Blvd., told police Friday that while his car was parked near his apartment burglars pried open the right windwing and removed a tape deck and tapes valued at $180.

SENIOR CHURCH

Rob Doherty, Wilson High senior shown with trophy won in recent citywide "Voice of Democracy" contest by VFW, will visit the Senior Citizen Church at Third and Linden Sunday at 11 a.m. and will deliver the oration which won the competition. Rob is an acolyte in his own church, is co-captain of the Wilson debating team, captain of swimming team, and maintains a 4.0 grade average.

POPULATION CRISIS TOPIC AT COVENANT

"The Silent Explosion — Crisis in Population" is the title of a six-week series starting Sunday at Covenant Presbyterian Church, Third Street and Atlantic Avenue.

This does not necessarily imply actual membership, but the denomination can now participate in the work of NCC agencies. It had expressed particular interest in the Council's Broadcasting and Film Commission.

The Reorganized Church came into being on the death of Joseph Smith in 1844, over questions of doctrine, and was headed by Smith's son, also named Joseph. Headquartered in Independence, Mo., it is the second largest Mormon groups, but its approximately 1,000 churches and 250,000 members falls far short of the Salt Lake City-based Mormon church, which numbers 4,500 churches and over two million members in the United States.

The larger Mormon body has never applied for membership in the National Council (the other major Protestant denominations outside the Council are the Southern Baptists, two of the three Lutheran groupings, and the conservative Churches of Christ.)

Leaders of the Reorganized Church, in their application, noted that they did not bar Negroes from the priesthood. This, of course, has been a controversial issue around the main Mormon Church, which tive power in a co-ministry," says Tarbeek. "What we generate together is stronger than what the two of us could do individually."

There were "a few squawks" from the 1,000-member congregation about the cost of two full-time pastors. Savage relates, but he says it is really cheaper than having three assistant ministers. They share the service.

Missionaries

Nix Viet War

A survey of views of United Methodist missionaries overseas shows they oppose U.S. involvement in Vietnam by almost three-to-one. The Vietnam question was included in an informal study by the World Division of the United Methodist Board of Missions, of the attitudes of missionaries toward problems of international peace and U.S. foreign policy.

Of the 269 respondents, 163 indicated agreement with the characterization of the war as "a tragic blunder that by misreading the nature of the conflict has greatly harmed both U.S. and Vietnam interest." Fifty-nine missionaries called it "a tragic but necessary containment of world communism," while 47 checked the "other view" category on the blank. Most of these, however, indicated in comments that they opposed the U.S. role in the war.

The great majority of the missionaries responding to a related question (264) indicated they had taken some concrete steps to express their convictions about the war — signed statements, written letters to newspapers or public officials, joined organizations or in other ways made their convictions as citizens known. Only 21 indicated agreement with the statement on the questionnaire: "I don't think missionaries should involve themselves in such issues."

Marriage Makes, Breaks Baptists

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — Most people who either quit a Southern Baptist church to join another denomination, or who leave another denomination to become a Southern Baptist, do so for reasons of marriage, convenience or other circumstances not directly related to beliefs, according to results of a survey of 1,905 persons who have taken such steps.

The main thing, it is felt, is for each person to think through and identify with the stirring Easter story in the way most meaningful to him. Dipping back into the Bible with that in mind is certainly recommended for all.

Sabbath Service By Albert Ruiz Dance Group

Albert Ruiz, choreographer and director of the Long Beach Dance-Drama Center, will lead a group of nine dancers in a "Sermon in Dance" Friday night at Temple Israel, Third Street and Loma Avenue.

He has set to music four of the poems in the cycle "Seven Songs for the Sabbath" by Lerner, a favorite at Sabbath Eve services.

The choreography is termed unusual in that it is based entirely on the rhythm of the words, with music merely providing a background rather than serving as the foundation for the dance movements, as is the case with most ballets.

Mrs. Betty Arntzen and Arthur Zahler will be readers, and Lloyd Holzgraf will play the accompaniment of Baroque music on the organ. The general public is invited.

PARTY FOR REV. ISAAC McRAE, STARTING 2ND TRIP THRU '70S

There'll be a birthday party at First Congregational Church Sunday following the 11 a.m. service.

It's for the church's Minister Emeritus, Rev. Isaac (and Mrs.) McRae. Rev. McRae is starting his second trip through "the 70s." He will be 100 on Thursday.

He left his native Scotland in 1888, received his theological training in Chicago, and after serving Congregational churches in Colorado and Nebraska, came to Long Beach in 1914. He joined the church staff for eight years, then was called to the church in Barstow. In 1930 he returned to "Third and Cedar" and was minister of visitation for the next 30 years.

Rev. McRae's first wife, Margaret, his childhood sweetheart in Scotland, died in 1956. She is warmly remembered by many of the church's members, who hold similar affection for his second wife, Helen Jean.

There will be music, a birthday cake, and "A surprise or two" at the party.

PROTESTANT-CATHOLIC EDITORIAL

'Abuse of Scripture' by Arabs, Israel Hit

NEW YORK — In an unusual joint editorial, a Protestant magazine and a Roman Catholic magazine criticize "partisan abuse of scripture" by both Arab and Israeli leaders in stalling their conflicting positions in the Middle East.

The editorial was written for the February issue of "United Church Herald" and the March issue of "The Lamp" by the editors of the two religious publications — Rev. Dr. J. Martin Bailey of the United Church of Christ and Rev. Charles Angell, a Graymoor Franciscan priest — after a fact-finding tour of Egypt, Jordan, Lebanon and Israel.

Their severest comments were directed at ranking Christian prelates in the Middle East.

"We regret to report," they said, "that both in Egypt and Jordan we heard the most glaring anti-Jewish — as distinct from anti-Israeli — statements from otherwise respected Christian leaders."

The two clergymen-journalists said they were distressed upon hearing words of Jesus from the New Testament twisted in the contention that Jews had lost all right to the Holy Land because of the crucifixion.

They said a document given "by a approving churchmen" to them and 10 other editors of American religious periodicals, during an independently sponsored three-week tour last November, reflected a

The courses, geared to the broad range of interests of laymen and church workers, are sponsored by Scripture Press Foundation of Glen Ellyn, Illinois. Each individual completing one of the courses will receive a certificate of achievement and upon completion of six of these courses will receive a special course certificate.

The faculty, which staffs

CONFIDENT LIVING

For Survival-Be Kind to Future

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

On Jan. 1, 1970 when the President of the United States signed the National Environmental Policy Act, he said, "The 1970s must be the years when America pays its debt to the past by reclaiming the purity of its air, its water, and our living environment. It is literally now or never."

Without question, the problem of pollution is one of the most serious of our time. You can't pick up a magazine or newspaper today without reading about some new evidence of man poisoning his own environment. It strikes me that this is in many ways a problem that can only be solved by a special brand of kindness and consideration on the part of all of us.

CERTAINLY it will take all the scientific skill and knowledge we can muster. But it will require an even greater contribution from each of us. Kindness and consideration are fairly easy ideas when they relate to our families, our friends, or our immediate neighbors. Being sure our house is clean and livable for our loved ones is something all of us do instinctively. The same thing holds true for our neighbors and friends. And we willingly share in these chores when a fence needs painting or a yard needs fixing up.

The idea becomes a little abstract, however, when we try to apply it to people we don't know, particularly when those people live outside our town or city. It's easier for a person to think about

GG SERVICES NOW ON TV

Rev. Robert Schuller, pastor of the large Garden Grove Community Church, the area's original "drive-in" church, has launched a weekly broadcast of his Sunday 11 a.m. service over TV KTLA, Channel 5, called "Hour of Power."

The pioneer hour-long Southland broadcast follows the example of Dr. Norman Vincent Peale, leader of the denomination, the Reformed Church in America.

ed places. He was not a young man and he knew that by the time those acorns grew into trees he would be long dead. But he also knew that the safety of England depended in those days on ships made of oak. By planting acorns he was making an unselfish contribution to people he would never know, people who would inhabit the English countryside long after he was gone.

In our own country, a man called Johnny Appleseed moved toward the far frontier scattering apple seeds as he went because he knew that those who followed him, people he would never know, would need food to sustain them.

It's a small thing to plant an acorn or an apple seed. But it represents the kindness and consideration for the future we all must begin to practice. CONFIDENT LIVING

For Survival-Be Kind to Future

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

On Jan. 1, 1970 when the President of the United States signed the National Environmental Policy Act, he said, "The 1970s must be the years when America pays its debt to the past by reclaiming the purity of its air, its water, and our living environment. It is literally now or never."

Without question, the problem of pollution is one of the most serious of our time. You can't pick up a magazine or newspaper today without reading about some new evidence of man poisoning his own environment. It strikes me that this is in many ways a problem that can only be solved by a special brand of kindness and consideration on the part of all of us.

CERTAINLY it will take all the scientific skill and knowledge we can muster. But it will require an even greater contribution from each of us. Kindness and consideration are fairly easy ideas when they relate to our families, our friends, or our immediate neighbors. Being sure our house is clean and livable for our loved ones is something all of us do instinctively. The same thing holds true for our neighbors and friends. And we willingly share in these chores when a fence needs painting or a yard needs fixing up.

The idea becomes a little abstract, however, when we try to apply it to people we don't know, particularly when those people live outside our town or city. It's easier for a person to think about cleaning up his own neighborhood than to think that he personally should be responsible for cleaning up the whole nation. The idea becomes even more abstract when we are asked to be concerned about a land filled with people who will not be born for another 50 or 100 years. But this is the kind of consideration and thoughtfulness we all must learn if the human race is going to survive. Let me give you an example of the kind of consideration I mean.

In the early 1800s, England was engaged in a terrible war for survival with Napoleon. The only thing that stood between Napoleon's armies and the British Isles was the British fleet. Life in the British fleet was extremely difficult. The men who sailed those ships sometimes actually did not get ashore for four or five years. The vice commander of the British fleet under the great Lord Nelson was a man named Admiral Collingwood. He, like his men, only came back to England after periods of several years, and then only for short periods of time.

On those infrequent occasions when he returned to England, Admiral Collingwood would take long strolls through the countryside. Whenever he walked, he carried pockets full of acorns which he planted at carefully selected places. He was not a young man and he knew that by the time those acorns grew into trees he would be long dead. But he also knew that the safety of England depended in those days on ships made of oak. By planting acorns he was making an unselfish contribution to people he would never know, people who would inhabit the English countryside long after he was gone.

NOW ON TV

Rev. Robert Schuller, pastor of the large Garden Grove Community Church, the area's original "drive-in" church, has launched a weekly broadcast of his Sunday 11 a.m. service over TV KTLA, Channel 5, called "Hour of Power."

The pioneer hour-long Southland broadcast follows the example of Dr. Norman Vincent Peale, leader of the denomination, the Reformed Church in America.

In our own country, a man called Johnny Appleseed moved toward the far frontier scattering apple seeds as he went because he knew that those who followed him, people he would never know, would need food to sustain them.

It's a small thing to plant an acorn or an apple seed. But it represents the kindness and consideration for the future we all must begin to practice. We can avoid littering, support the efforts of those who are trying to clean up our environment and protect the natural resources of our country. In this way our nation and our world can survive.

Termed by some the leading Christian accordionist in the world, he also plays the organ, vibraphone, harpsichord, chimes and mandolin. His wife, Rexella, is a concert pianist and vocalist.

Van Impe, 38, is able to quote more than 8,000 verses of Scripture from memory.

Stop the Bawling; Ban Kiddie Ads

By GEORGE ERES
TV-Radio Editor

I have not sent in my contribution for the uplift for children's programming on television on Saturday mornings, because I've always felt that the kids have no business being in the house Saturday mornings. They belong out in the yard, or someplace, playing cops and robbers with other kids.

So I don't get too much satisfaction out of all the improvements periodically announced in these kiddie shows. Like, the network shows have been de-violentized, in large part, and the networks have assigned top executives to manage this segment of a profitable time slot.

AS YOU see, I'm one of those selfish guys who doesn't believe youth has to be continually served by the "aged."

However, I am reconsidering, having just read an item in a trade journal about a group of mothers in Boston, who fly under the flag, "Action for Children's Television."

This group is asking the Federal Communications Commission to ban commercials from at least 14 hours a week of kid programs.

NOW THIS is something for the grown-ups. ACT can't tell me that it wants the commercials banned just because of their effect on the children. That has something to do with it, of course.

But what they're really after, if you ask me, is to eliminate the chain effect of the commercials—from the kids to the parents,

Some guy on a Saturday morning show, having lulled the bids into a sense of trustfulness no parent hardly ever gets, tells the kid to eat X-Brand cupcakes.

Mother goes to the store, taking junior along, and down every corridor of the shopping market, you hear the kid screaming, "Why can't I have X-Brand? Buy X-Brand!" Mother is often too embarrassed to give the kid the whack it deserves, so she buys X-Brand just to shut him up.

Stop the Bawling; Ban Kiddie Ads

By GEORGE ERES
TV-Radio Editor

I have not sent in my contribution for the uplift for children's programming on television on Saturday mornings, because I've always felt that the kids have no business being in the house Saturday mornings. They belong out in the yard, or someplace, playing cops and robbers with other kids.

So I don't get too much satisfaction out of all the improvements periodically announced in these kiddie shows. Like, the network shows have been de-violentized, in large part, and the networks have assigned top executives to manage this segment of a profitable time slot.

AS YOU see, I'm one of those selfish guys who doesn't believe youth has to be continually served by the "aged."

However, I am reconsidering, having just read an item in a trade journal about a group of mothers in Boston who fly under the flag, "Action for Children's Television."

This group is asking the Federal Communications Commission to ban commercials from at least 14 hours a week of kid programs.

NOW THIS is something for the grown-ups. ACT can't tell me that it wants the commercials banned just because of their effect on the children. That has something to do with it, of course.

But what they're really after, if you ask me, is to eliminate the chain effect of the commercials—from the kids to the parents.

PERKINS

Some guy on a Saturday morning show, having lulled the bids into a sense of trustfulness no parent hardly ever gets, tells the kid to eat X-Brand cupcakes.

Mother goes to the store, taking junior along, and down every corridor of the shopping market, you hear the kid screaming, "Why can't I have X-Brand?" Buy X-Brand!" Mother is often too embarrassed to give the kid the whack it deserves, so she buys X-Brand just to shut him up.

As I said, this proposal is something for the adults, and I'm in favor of it. Besides, everyone knows most people who watch TV enjoy the kids' programs best and it will make it easier for the adults to watch the shows if they eliminate the commercials.

But let's not just stop there. Mothers of Boston. On to elimination of commercials from all television programming. Or don't children in Boston watch television except on Saturday mornings?

49ers Know Their Way in San Jose, 97-81

By JIM McCORMACK
Staff Writer

SAN JOSE — Cal State Long Beach pulled away from a persistent San Jose State team midway through the final half Friday and rolled to a 97-81 Pacific Coast Athletic Assn. victory.

The triumph hiked the 49ers' win streak to 14 (including a 91-59 win over the Jolly Roger Pirates) and their season record to 19-3.

The win skein, second only to UCLA's 19 among the nation's university division teams, includes a perfect 6-0 record in PCAA competition.

That league record, coupled with UC Santa Barbara's 48-45 loss to Cal State L.A. Friday night, presents Long Beach with an opportunity to clinch a league title tie at Fresno State tonight.

A triumph over the Bulldogs, who handed the 49ers their only league loss last year, would give Cal State a three-game edge over the Bulldogs, Gauchos and Diables with three PCAA contests remaining.

San Jose, losing its 16th game in 19 outings, stayed with the 49ers throughout the early going, trailing only 45-42 at the intermission.

"We helped them stay in the game," explained coach Jerry Tarkantian, "by not hustling when they got through our press. In the first half, they were shooting layups all the time."

San Jose managed to hang within shouting distance of the 49ers in the final half although the Spartans dismayed 1,113 participants by managing only six shots against the 49ers in the first eight minutes of the second half.

The 49ers, however, were unable to really capitalize on 10 Spartan turnovers as San Jose made all six of those floor shots and was down only 69-54, with 12:20 to go.

The Spartans, who got a brilliant 26-point performance from Pat Haarm, cut the 49er advantage to eight, 78-70, with six minutes remaining before Cal State got untracked behind its three offensive heroes for the night — George Trapp, Sam Robinson and Dwight Taylor.

Trapp, hitting 14 of 17

free throws, led all scorers with 30 points — a team-high for the season.

Robinson, playing easily his best game of the season, added 22 on a 10-for-15 shooting night that included six-of-six the second half.

Taylor, who excels in a spread-court contest, collected 12 points as did Shawn Johnson.

Robinson had added incentive for his performance after reading in a San Jose newspaper that Hamlin was credited with holding Robinson to three points — a career low — in the club's first meeting.

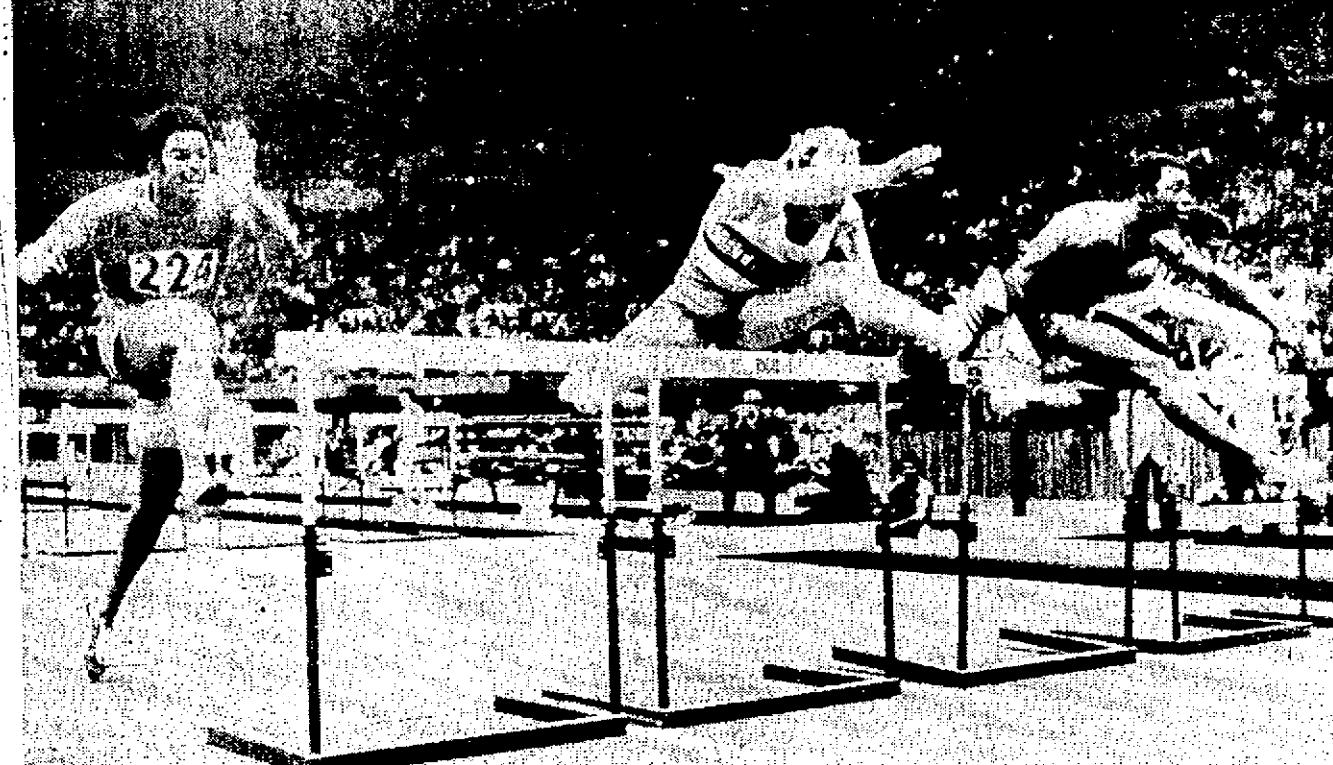

"That helped me get my mind on tonight," admitted Robinson. "We were kinda looking ahead to Fresno, but that changed my thinking."

Robinson hit his first three shots to send the 49ers winging to their victory.

Cougars Caught in Pauley Vise

By LOEL SCHRADER
Staff Writer

Washington State's basketball team learned early that it wasn't in Bohler Gym Friday night.

The mania at Pauley Pavilion was as lopsided in favor of UCLA as it was for the Cougars Monday night when they came within two points of the top-ranked Bruins.

To make the early minutes more galling and embarrassing, the Cougar bench was assessed two technicals.

Nothing else went well

for Washington State, either, as it became UCLA's 19th consecutive victim this season, 95-61, before 12,893 fans.

The Bruins seek their 20th victory of 1969-70 and their 24th in a row over two years today at 2:30 p.m. when they face Washington in the Pacific-8 Conference's television game of the week (Ch. 5).

UCLA hit Washington State with a 12-2 blitz in the first three minutes and, except for a brief run by the Cougars near the midpoint in the first half, the rest of the game amounted to nothing more than a mop-up operation.

Since the outcome Friday night was 32 points different than the Bruin-Cougar struggle four days earlier, UCLA coach John Wooden was asked whether the margin was a result of a home-court advantage.

"There's no way to determine that," said the

and decide he wasn't a good referee.

"I don't think it's fair that we never see Wader in our own gym. Let him come up to our place and feel the pressure there. We only get to see him when we come to Los Angeles."

Harshman added that the "officiating had nothing to do with the outcome."

"UCLA was just more aggressive than it was against us up at home," he added.

Assessing the performance of Bruin forward Sidney Wicks, who led the Bruins with 21 points after being held to six at Pullman, Harshman commented:

"He just gives you that good off-hand belt and gets you off balance," said the Cougar coach. "That's the way to play basketball. I wish we had some guys who could do that."

Harshman didn't have a Wicks, but he did present an accurate shooter, Gary Elliot, who made 6 of 14 shots and sank all six of his free throw attempts to prevent an even greater embarrassment for the Cougars. Elliot's 22 points led all scorers.

Except for poor free throw shooting, the Bruins would have made the margin greater. They made only 4 of 13 in the first half, which ended with UCLA in front, 44-30.

Washington State's basketball team learned early that it wasn't in Bohler Gym Friday night.

The mania at Pauley Pavilion was as lopsided in favor of UCLA as it was for the Cougars Monday night when they came within two points of the top-ranked Bruins.

To make the early minutes more galling and embarrassing, the Cougar bench was assessed two technicals.

Nothing else went well

for Washington State, either, as it became UCLA's 19th consecutive victim this season, 95-61, before 12,893 fans.

The Bruins seek their 20th victory of 1969-70 and their 24th in a row over two years today at 2:30 p.m. when they face Washington in the Pacific-8 Conference's television game of the week (Ch. 5).

UCLA hit Washington State with a 12-2 blitz in the first three minutes and, except for a brief run by the Cougars near the midpoint in the first half, the rest of the game amounted to nothing more than a mop-up operation.

Since the outcome Friday night was 32 points different than the Bruin-Cougar struggle four days earlier, UCLA coach John Wooden was asked whether the margin was a result of a home-court advantage.

"There's no way to determine that," said the

Duck: It's Napoles Vs. Lopez

By HANK HOLLINGWORTH
Staff Writer

The world welterweight title goes on the line tonight at the Forum and once more the classic boxer will be pitted against the slugger.

The smooth boxer is the current champion, Jose (Manequilla) Napoles, a Cuban who now calls Mexico City his home, while the slugger is challenger Ernie (Indian Red) Lopez, who currently has Los Angeles as his residence.

Napoles is a strong 3-1 favorite to successfully defend his title a third time. Yet Indian Red has such stamina that he could wear out the champion if the bout goes into late rounds.

A PACKED HOUSE of 17,000 is expected and gate receipts should be in the fancy neighborhood of $220,000. For his night's work, Napoles is guaranteed $100,000 while Lopez will receive $40,000.

First preliminary match is scheduled for 8:30 with the main event set to go about 10 p.m.

If nothing else, tonight's affair should be one of the noisiest of the decade. Almost half the crowd will journey from south of the border to root for Napoles with the other half cheering for the Southwest swatter. The predominantly Mexican turnout should make for a most interesting, if not hazardous, evening.

Jose captured the 147-pound crown last April at the Forum when he KO'd Curtis Cokes. In a rematch two months later he flattened Cokes in Mexico City. In his last defense, Napoles decisioned Emile Griffith Oct. 17 at the Forum.

Lopez earned a title shot after winning two-of-three matches from Hedgenon Lewis in their L.A. "elimination tournament."

At any rate, if you're sitting at ringside, bring your battle helmet.

and decide he wasn't a good referee.

"I don't think it's fair that we never see Wader in our own gym. Let him come up to our place and feel the pressure there. We only get to see him when we come to Los Angeles."

Harshman added that the "officials had nothing to do with the outcome."

"UCLA was just more aggressive than it was against us up at home," he added.

Assessing the performance of Bruin forward Sidney Wicks, who led the Bruins with 21 points after being held to six at Pullman, Harshman commented:

"He just gives you that good off-hand belt and gets you off balance," said the Cougar coach. "That's the way to play basketball. I wish we had some guys who could do that."

Harshman didn't have a Wicks, but he did present an accurate shooter, Gary Elliot, who made 8 of 14 shots and sank all six of his free throw attempts to prevent an even greater embarrassment for the Cougars. Elliot's 22 points led all scorers.

Except for poor free throw shooting, the Bruins would have made the margin greater. They made only 4 of 13 in the first half, which ended with UCLA in front, 44-30.

DOUBELL, EVANS TRAVEL TOO FAR

McGrady Measurements Just Right

By RICH ROBERTS
Staff Writer

Ralph Doubell traveled nearly halfway around the world, but it wasn't quite far enough.

Lee Evans merely made his way from San Jose, but it was a yard too far.

Martin McGrady came out just right. The tall, articulate runner from Akron, Ohio, met the two Olympic champions halfway between their gold medal grinds and, ran them into the Forum boards.

"I think both Lee and I were tying up at the end," said McGrady after sprinting past Evans' lunge to win the slam-bang 600-yard feature of Friday night's L.A. Indoor Games. "But he had the lead."

Both clocked an indoor record 1:08.7. Doubell, who won the 800 meters at Mexico City, was never a factor.

"This isn't my race," Doubell shrugged. "I just don't have the speed."

When did he realize it?

"When Evans went by me," he grinned gamely, indicating that he wouldn't risk "my reputation" by letting a promoter talk him into a strange distance again.

Evans caught McGrady by surprise when he blew into a big lead 1 1/2 laps from home.

"It really worried me," McGrady said, "because the one thing I didn't expect was Lee to come past me. But here he comes — Lee Evans — whoom. It stunned me. It broke my concentration."

But not for long. McGrady, who has lost to Evans only once in two years, roared off the last turn and the 400-meter king didn't have quite enough legs left to hold him off, even with a sprawling lunge to the track.

"My lean was just up to his body, so that means he was just ahead of me,"

Evans said, looking forward to a rematch in New York in two weeks.

"I don't dig gettin' beat."

Another Olympian bit the boards in the 500 when Ron Whitney cut off Long Beach's Ralph Mann on the next-to-last turn and wound up in Section 20, Row 1.

"Well, that's indoor running," sighed Whitney, who has been around the knotty pines a while. "Actually, when you run indoors you come out a little bit wide, then when you get to the turn you come in."

Mann, competing for Brigham Young U., simply explained, "He gave me that opening and I just ran right through him. I'd do it again."

Whitney headmaster of a private boys school in Caioga, Calif., crashed out of the race but Mann didn't win, either. He was disqualified after Idaho State's Larry Lewis passed him to finish first.

Australians Kerry O'Brien and Ron Clarke, the perennial, went one-two in the two-mile in a slow 8:36.6 and 8:38.8.

"I wasn't feeling all that good," O'Brien said. "Even when I went to the front I was tired. It was extremely hot."

The sprints and hurdles provided lively action but big John Carlos, his usual soulful, sultry self, said after winning the 60, "I ain't talkin' no football, man."

Carlos, a 15th-round draft choice, and the Eagles are $98,000 apart in early negotiations which he said, are "My business."

Buddy Willie Davenport, a New Orleans Saints pick, also cooled the football gab after a whisper in the ear from Carlos.

As for his race, a 7-flat win over two-time conqueror Gary Powers in the 60 hurdles, he said simply, "It was a stupid mistake to lose to him in the Sunkist."

Trojans Shade Huskies

Chris Schrobilgen and Dana Pagett hit five clutch free throws in the final 36 seconds to lift Southern California to an 84-81 Pacific-8 Conference victory over hard-pressing Washington Friday night.

Substitute center Bill Taylor scored 16 of his 19 points in the second half before fouling out with four minutes to play to lead the Trojan attack in the seesaw affair. Washington forward George Irvine scored 33 points to lead all scorers.

The Huskies never got closer than two points late in the game as Taylor and sophomore guard Paul Westphal kept Washington off balance with key baskets.

Vic Bartolome, Oregon State's 7-foot center, collected a career high of 31 points as he guided the Beavers to an 80-88 romp over Stanford.

Oregon's 6-9 center, Stan Love, set a school scoring record of 40 points as the Ducks rallied in the last 1 1/2 minutes for a 96-91 Pacific-8 win over California.

HARLEM STARS DIE IN CRASH

GREENVILLE, Texas (UPI) — Curtis Williams of Los Angeles was one of three Harlem Stars basketball players killed early Friday when their Cadillac smashed into the rear of a parked truck on an interstate highway.

Williams and Lynda Conaway, both 27, were killed on impact. Marvin Reece of Texarkana, Texas, died enroute to Parkland Hospital in Dallas, 50 miles to the southwest.

Thomas Bennett of Dallas was listed in critical condition at Parkland while teammates O.D. Gary of Lubbock and Pat Lyons of Dallas were critical cases at Greenville Surgeons Hospital.

The driver of the truck, parked legally on the road shoulder, was not injured. The team, based in Compton, Calif., and Dallas, was returning from a game in the tiny northeast Texas town of Hooks.

Worst Defeat for 76ers Ever

Combined News Services

The New York Knicks, led by a 35-point output by Cazzie Russell, handed the Philadelphia 76ers the worst defeat in their history Friday night, 151-106, in throws with eight seconds remaining and Bob Rule's 39 points gave the Seattle SuperSonics a 141-138 triumph over the Baltimore Bullets.

WHAT NOW?

Bill Palmer of Stanford appears undecided on what to do as 7-foot Vic Bartolome or Oregon State looms menacingly from behind. Palmer apparently didn't decide in time and Tribe went down to 80-59 defeat in Pac-8 game Friday.

Tell 8-5 Choice in Strub Stakes

Combined News Services

Four-year-olds dominate the scene at Santa Anita today as a field of 12 go to the post in the $125,000-added Charles H. Strub Stakes.

It will be the eighth running of the race, once known as the Santa Anita Maturity, and Mrs. Howard B. Keck's Tell figures to be the favorite at probable odds of 8-5.

Tell, winner of the Hollywood Derby and five other stakes as a 3-year-old, will attempt to match the 1968 victory of his famed sire, Round Table, in this same stakes. The impost is 123 pounds, with Bill Shoemaker shooting for his fifth triumph in the race, dating back to the maturity in 1951.

The distance is 1½ miles on the main dirt track.

A South American import, Snow Sporting, figures to be the second public choice with Laffit Pincay Jr. the rider.

If all 12 horses start, the purse will gross $129,500. The winner will pick up $45,000.

Others entered are Governors Party, Modern Spirit, Might, Wyn D'Amour, Court Road, Distra, Fancy Silk, Lonn's Secret, Comtal, and Makar, Tell's Stablemate.

Albert Sultan's First Mate, upset winner of the Malibu Stakes here last winter, overwhelmed favored Mr. Joe F. in the final furlong to win the featured $8,000 Honeymoon Purse Friday before a ladies day crowd of 27,294.

Under jockey Moises Julian, First Mate pulled away to tally by three lengths in 1:11 3-5 for the six furlongs over a "slow" track. Mr. Joe F. was second and Vague Image third in the band of eleven California-bred sprinters.

First Mate returned $10.20, $5.50 and $3.60. Mr. Joe F. paid $4.40 and $3.20 and Vague Image returned $10.60.

Gaelic Dancer, first across the line in 10 previous career starts, will try to do it again at Bowie in a race named after his sire.

William T. Pacos III's 4-year-old was the early favorite among 13 entered for today's $25,000-added, six-furlong Native Dancer Handicap.

Gaelic Dancer, despite always finishing first, does not have a perfect record. He was disqualified and placed second in the William P. Kyne Handicap at Bay Meadows last December.

Hirsch started his yearning for speed at age 12, racing pigeons in his native New York. Styminie was one of the great thoroughbred "steals" accomplished by the keen judge of horse flesh. Jacobs bought the non-winner for $1,500 and Styminie went on to win $14,485.

Jacobs was 22 when he saddled his first winner, Revillon, in 1926. His 3,000th victory came with Blue Water, which was owned by Mrs. Jacobs, at Aqueduct in 1930.

Although never saddling a Kentucky Derby winner, Jacobs — oddly — had a possibility in Personality, now running in Florida. Hail to Reason, Palestinian, Promised Land, Flag Raiser, Affectionately, Priceless Gem, Straight Deal and Exhibitionist were among Jacobs' finest horses. A third place by Palestinian was the best a Jacobs horse could do in the Derby.

From the Long Beach concept of big-league rodeo as a major indoor spectator attraction, a string of Pacific Indoor Rodeos now stretches from the San Diego Sports Arena to the Vancouver Coliseum.

The Long Beach success also led to the formation of the Golden State Rodeo Company, producers of the Pacific Indoor Rodeos, and the largest rodeo operation in the history of the cowboy sport.

Tickets for the Pacific Indoor Rodeo at Long Beach are on sale at the Arena box office and at all Southland ticket outlets priced from $2 to $5. A special half-price youth discount applies to all five performances and Senior Citizens — 50 and over — will be admitted half-price at the Saturday matinee.

It will cost a dollar more to see Ram football games this season.

The Rams will raise reserved seats from $6 to $7. Ram prices now will be $7, $5 and $4.

The Coastal Division champion Rams voted 55 shares worth $909.10 from the NFL championship game which netted $1,231,781.38. The NFL's players' pool, representing 70 per cent of the net, came to $862,246.97.

Tell 8-5 Choice in Strub Stakes

Combined News Services

Four-year-olds dominate the scene at Santa Anita today as a field of 12 go to the post in the $125,000-added Charles H. Strub Stakes.

It will be the eighth running of the race, once known as the Santa Anita Maturity, and Mrs. Howard B. Keck's Tell figures to be the favorite at probable odds of 8-5.

Tell, winner of the Hollywood Derby and five other stakes as a 3-year-old, will attempt to match the 1958 victory of his famed sire, Round Table, in this same stakes. The impost is 123 pounds, with Bill Shoemaker shooting for his fifth triumph in the race, dating back to the maturity in 1951.

The distance is 1 1/4 miles on the main dirt track.

A South American import, Snow Sporting, figures to be the second public choice with Laffit Pincay Jr. the rider.

If all 12 horses start, the purse will gross $129,500. The winner will pick up $84,500.

Others entered are Governors Party, Modern Spirit, Might, Wyn D'Amour, Court Road, Distrair, Fancy Silk, Lonn's Secret, Comtal, and Major, Tell's Stablemate.

Albert Sultan's First Mate, upset winner of the Malibu Stakes here last winter, overwhelmed favored Mr. Joe F. in the final furlong to win the featured $8,000 Honeymoon Purse Friday before a ladies day crowd of 27,294.

Under jockey Moises Julian, First Mate pulled away to tally by three lengths in 1:11.3-5 for the six furlongs over a "slow" track. Mr. Joe F. was second and Vague Image third in the band of eleven California-bred sprinters.

First Mate returned $10.20, $5.60 and $3.60. Mr. Joe F. paid $4.40 and $3.20 and Vague Image returned $10.60.

Gaelic Dancer, first across the line in 10 previous career starts, will try to do it again at Bowie in a race named after his sire.

William T. Pacos III's 4-year-old was the early favorite among 13 entered for today's $25,000-added.

Gaelic Dancer, despite always finishing first, does not have a perfect record. He was disqualified and placed second in the William P. Kyne Handicap at Bay Meadows last December.

Gaelic Dancer, despite always finishing first, does not have a perfect record. He was disqualified and placed second in the William P. Kyne Handicap at Bay Meadows last December.

Hirsch started his yearning for speed at age 12, racing pigeons in his native New York. Styunc was one of the great thoroughbred "steals" accomplished by the keen judge of horseflesh. Jacobs bought the non-winner for $1,500 and Styunc went on to win $814,485.

Jacobs was 22 when he saddled his first winner, Revellon, in 1926. His 3,000th victory came with Blue Water, which was owned by Mrs. Jacobs at Aqueduct in 1960.

Although never saddling a Kentucky Derby winner, Jacobs — oddly — had a possibility in Personality, now running in Florida. Hall to Reason, Palestinian, Promised Land, Flag Raiser, Affectionately, Priceless Gem, Straight Deal and Exhibitionist were among Jacobs' finest horses. A third place by Palestinian was the best a Jacobs horse could do in the Derby.

The Long Beach concept of big-league rodeo as a major indoor spectator attraction, a string of Pacific Indoor Rodeos now stretches from the San Diego Sports Arena to the Vancouver Coliseum.

The Long Beach success also led to the formation of the Golden State Rodeo Company, producers of the Pacific Indoor Rodeos, and the largest rodeo operation in the history of the cowboy sport.

Tickets for the Pacific Indoor Rodeo at Long Beach are on sale at the Arena box office and at all Southland ticket outlets priced from $2 to $5. A special half-price youth discount applies to all five performances and Senior Citizens — 50 and over — will be admitted half-price at the Saturday matinee.

The Rams will raise revenue seats from $6 to $7. Ram prices now will be $7, $5 and $1.

The Coastal Division champion Rams voted 55 shares worth $209.10 from the NFL championship game which netted $1,231,781.38. The NFL's players' pool, representing 70 per cent of the net, came to $862,244.87.

EXHAUSTED - BUT HE'S GOT HALF A RECORD

Here's 50 per cent of the world's new paired teeter-tottering champs, Mike Thelma, 22, who with John Wetzel, 21, teetered and tottered for 40 hours, 45 minutes Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. The two had planned to continue for another seven hours — in stunt staged at Belmont Savings & Loan parking lot — but "complaints from local citizens" forced halt. The pair raised "over $100" for Long Beach Free Clinic before stopping. A 24-hour radiothon — beginning at 6 a.m., today — is also slated to benefit clinic. It'll be conducted by Long Beach FM station KNAC.

Educator Seeks Seat in Torrance Race

Educator George E. Papadakis filed nomination papers Friday to run for city council in the April 14 municipal election in Signal Hill.

Former Police Chief William F. Stovall is the only other candidate to have filed his papers, but there are four other declared candidates for council, two for city clerk and one for city treasurer.

The other council candidates are incumbent William F. Mendenhall, Donald Hazemore, Floyd A. Jones and Stanley Edward Wells. Longtime councilman Don W. Bradshaw has said he will not seek re-election.

Alfred E. Posner and Wanda J. Flynn have both taken out papers in the city clerk race. Constance Price, an auditor clerk, is still unopposed for city treasurer.

Thursday noon is the deadline for filing nomination papers.

Only 2 Candidates Official in Lakewood

Four candidates have declared themselves in the race for Lakewood's two open council seats in the April 14 election, but only two have returned their nomination papers so far.

Councilman Charles T. Schweitzer was the first person to file his papers. Mayor Mark Hannaford has not yet returned his.

William F. Moulton, 23, a dry cleaner, has filed to challenge the two incumbents. Donald R. Plunkett has also taken out papers but not returned them.

The deadline for returning nomination papers is Thursday, the same day on which voter registration for the April 14 election will close.

COMPLEX TABULATION

Firm Offers Computer for Carson Ballot Tally

By BOB ANDREW
Staff Writer

American Honda Corp. has volunteered use of its IBM 360 computer to tabulate the votes in the April 14 municipal election in Carson, according to City Clerk Marilyn Cortina.

In addition to computer time, the Carson-based firm will provide personnel to program and operate the computer and a direct telephone line to the city hall on election night.

THE CARSON ELECTION will have one of the most complex tabulation problems of any of the 19 cities holding municipal elections in April. All five city council seats and the offices of city clerk and city treasurer must be filled.

There will also be at least one ballot proposition dealing with possible repeal of a city ordinance permitting exclusive franchises to be granted for rubbish collection. Other ballot propositions are also being considered by the city council.

With less than a week remaining for candidates to obtain and file their nomination papers, there are 19 declared candidates for the seven offices but only six have returned their papers.

23 Seek 6 Offices in Torrance Race

The Torrance municipal election on April 14 is shaping up as a major donnybrook with 23 declared candidates seeking six offices and four days left in which to file.

The only candidate to return his nomination papers to date is Philip Joseph, a police officer, who filed Friday to oppose City Clerk Vernon Coil. Coil and Erie Sumpter have also taken out papers for the office.

Mayor Albert Isen, who has served in the office ever since it was changed from a normal council seat with an honorary title, faces stiff opposition from two-term councilman Ken Miller.

ALSO IN THE race for mayor is Jeffrey Bradpiece, an attorney.

There are also three council seats up for election and Miller's attempt to move up to mayor has left one of them in a vacuum which 13 nonincumbent challengers are rushing to fill.

J. A. Beasley, the oldest member of the council, has taken out papers for re-election but there are strong indications he will not actually file for reasons of health. Councilman Ross A. Sciarrotta, however, is expected to seek re-election.

With the guarantee of one, possibly two, vacant seats, there are several major contenders in the council race including four members of city commissions and former Public Works Director Walter M. Nollac.

NOLLAC WAS removed from the $25,000-a-year post last year after extended misconduct hearings in which he was found guilty of failure to perform his duties.

Other major contenders are Planning Commissioner George Brewster, Civil Service Commissioner Walter R. Ruhlow, and Airport Commissioners John D. Blaisdell and Brian J. Bell.

Also taking out papers were Bill Roberts, Robert Flora, John J. Barton, Max A. Kelly, William O'Leary, James Joseph Unger, Gerald S. Tarlow and Owen A. Silverman.

City Treasurer Thomas C. Rupert will be opposed by Stanley Boyd Bosler, a teacher.

The filing deadline is noon Thursday, and it is possible that not all of the candidates will return their nomination papers. But it is just as possible that even more candidates will obtain and file papers by then.

President's Day Promoted by Long Beach Chamber

Presidents of 30 major national corporations Wednesday will visit Long Beach as guests of the Long Beach Chamber of Commerce.

Jackson R. McGowen, president of the Douglas Aircraft Company of MacDonnell Douglas Corporation, is chairman of the first President's Day, a program sponsored and conducted by the Chamber's Economic-Industrial Development Committee.

"We believe the best way to sell the decision makers on the merits of establishing or enlarging manufacturing plants, administrative offices, wholesale and retail establishments, and other payroll generating activities is to get them to Long Beach, show it to them, and let them hear about it from the chief executives of companies already happily established in the Long Beach Area," McGowen said.

ECONOMIC-INDUSTRIAL DEVELOPMENT: Committee Chairman Dean G. Quinlan described President's Day as a logical extension of the Chamber's long established policy of man-to-man communication in behalf of the Long Beach market area.

"Harry D. Easton, the Chamber's staff director for economic-industrial development, makes periodic trips to corporate headquarters across the United States to explain the advantages of doing business in Long Beach.

Members of the Economic-Industrial Development

Committee and other local area business men also call on prospects in conjunction with their own business trips throughout the country," Quinlan said.

Quinlan, vice president and manager of the Bank of California, will be master of ceremonies for briefings, the luncheon and dinner for the business leaders.

THE PRESIDENT'S DAY PROGRAM includes a series of morning briefings and a luncheon at the Edge-water Hyatt House.

William T. Huston, President, Watson Industrial

Properties, will cover, "Markets, Economics, Industrial Base and Support, Long Beach Area"; RADM Horace V. Bird, USN, Commander, U.S. Naval Base, Los Angeles-Long Beach, will discuss "Present and Future Impact of the Military on the Long Beach Area."

Daniel H. Ridder, publisher of the Long Beach Independent, Press-Telegram newspapers, will cover "Quality of Living in the Long Beach Area" including housing, recreation, education, medical facilities and other amenities.

City Manager John R. Mansell will conclude the briefings with a presentation on "Long Beach in the '70's and '80's — the Physical City and Port."

Jacques-Yves Cousteau will discuss plans for the Museum of the Sea Aboard the Queen Mary during the luncheon.

PRESIDENTS OF LONG BEACH area-headquartered firms will serve as co-hosts for President's Day and will participate in the briefings and luncheon.

An afternoon bus and aerial tour will be conducted by Art Stephan, national sales manager, Long Beach Independent.

In the evening, the presidents will be taken by Long Beach Public Transportation Company double-deck London bus to the International Tower where they will be joined by the host presidents and local area representatives of national firms whose chief executives are guests.

President's Day will then be terminated by an informal dinner party at the International City Club.

"Chambers of commerce and industrial development organizations throughout the United States are very active in the competition to lure new businesses and industries, and hence new payrolls, to their communities. We believe our President's Day concept is a unique and effective way to sell top management on the merits of Long Beach," Quinlan said.

JACK HANSON ... Rugged, Handcrafted Work In Demand

Mud to Metal to Money=Success

Hanson House in Long Beach is an organic success story that started with mud, progressed to metal and now is making money.

Six years ago, Jack Hanson was a commercial artist in the advertising agency world.

"That kind of life really tears a man up," he says, "and so I had to do something to keep my perspective."

The first "something" was a greeting-card line, which led to the design of comic decals for the ceramics industry. This evolved into the design and manufacture of personalized drinking mugs which Hanson sells in large orders to large industries as promotional give-aways.

"They caught on really well," he remembers, "because we design them so that the company advertising is on the inside, and the outside shows a full color contemporary cartoon depicting the customer's personality plus his name. It doesn't look like an ordinary advertising coffee mug."

THE CERAMIC BUSINESS has grown into a successful venture, but it wasn't until late in 1968 that Hanson found the touchstone which would simultaneously allow him creative freedom and complete economic independence.

The touchstone was metal.

"I had had an interest in sculpture for several years," he recalls, "and had worked in clay, designing the mugs and a line of decorative cookie jars for commercial production, but I had never done anything with metal."

An art show turned him on to that medium and for months he read everything he could get his hands on about metal and the art of sculpting it.

When he finally decided to dive in, he went to a local metal supply place and got "the works — polka dot hat, leather gloves and $200 worth of equipment — just like a Sunday sculptor."

WITHIN TWO DAYS, however, he had two pieces which he immediately sold to a Long Beach art gallery — and Hanson

Oceanaire Homes, Huntington Beach in Opening

A special grand opening celebration with a Valentine's theme is scheduled at Sunkist Builders' Oceanaire development in Huntington Beach Sunday from 1 p.m. until 5 p.m.

According to Sy Bram, vice president of Sunkist Builders, cookies, punch, candy, hors d'oeuvres and light sandwiches will be served to all visitors, courtesy of the Southern Counties Gas Co. and the developer.

Furnished model homes are open and prospective early buyers will have excellent choice of color selection, lots and elevations, he added.

OCEANAIRE is a short drive to some of the finest beaches in Southern California.

Oceanaire, since they have a choice of three or four-bedroom models with a total of 12 different elevations.

Two baths and a separate family room and dining area make these homes perfect for both casual and formal living.

Priced from $27,150, buyers have a choice of VA or FHA financing with down payment required for qualified veterans, Bram said.

INSIDE these homes, a kitchen with standard features such as eye-level oven, disposal, range and optional dishwasher are featured.

Parents concerned about education need not worry about the schools serving

Southland. There are also major shopping centers, such as

Orange County's '69 Building Pace Is Near Record

By ROBERT BECKMAN
Business-Real Estate Editor

Despite a tight money situation, residential construction in Orange County progressed in near-record proportions in 1969.

According to the marketing research department of First American Title Insurance Company, Santa Ana, building permits were issued last year for 32,344 residential units — third highest in the county's history.

Dale Post, assistant vice president in charge of the title firm's research unit, said last year's total "was surpassed only in the peak building years of 1962 and 1963."

Indicative of the trend toward apartment construction, multiple-unit housing accounted for 19,405 units, or 60 per cent of the total — and a whopping 81 per cent increase over the previous year, Post reported. Building permits were issued for 12,939 single-family units.

This marked the first year since 1964 in which permits for multiple dwelling units exceeded single-unit permits.

In contrast, during 1968 single-family units represented 55.2 per cent of residential building, with permits granted for 13,191 singles and 10,718 multiples.

DO NOT BEND, FOLD...

We are nearing the stage where to the public at large a computer is a computer is a computer...

But a new film, "The Computer Wore Tennis Shoes," which we were privileged to sneak preview, is bound to put romance back into that which has become commonplace.

In keeping with our "Do Not Bend, Fold or Mangle" age, Walt Disney Productions blasts on the contemporary scene and makes it in a big and funny way with this new film.

It's a spoof of the generation gap and the establishment as a tailing collegian, played by Kurt Russell, inadvertently gets his mental wires crossed when given a jolt by a backfiring computer.

Through this transistorized transformation to the rank of genius, Russell does a complete scholastic turnabout when programmed with all the lightning quick capabilities of the mechanical marvel.

This newfound ability does not work all in his favor though, as a large gambling syndicate moves in with muscle and tries to take advantage of his gift by forcing him to compute odds for their underworld empire.

STEAM BUS FOR LA?

Transit riders in the Los Angeles area may have the opportunity to travel on a bus equipped with a steam engine.

And should the proposed experiment prove successful, Southern California Rapid Transit District directors disclosed, another breakthrough in the effort to curtail air pollution will be realized.

RTD directors advised the California Assembly Transportation and Commerce Committees and the federal Urban Mass Transportation Administration (UMTA) of the District's desire to be a party to steam engine tests planned for several California cities.

"We are willing and eager to help in any program that will aid in the lessening of the air pollution problem," said Samuel B. Nelson, RTD general manager. "We heartily endorse the efforts under way to experiment with the use of steam engines on public transit buses."

Nelson said the district will be presenting a proposal to the Transportation and Commerce Committee and to UMTA which, if approved, will enable Los Angeles to join San Francisco and Oakland as test areas for the steam engine in actual transit service.

SUPER AGENCIES AHEAD

One of the major changes in city government in the coming decade may well be the emergence of

"super agencies" to deal with the complex problems of urban living.

These super agencies will emerge to cover broader functional responsibilities as well as to include larger geographic areas, is the opinion expressed by two urban experts from Planning Research Corporation before a meeting of the Town Hall at Los Angeles.

City governments are gradually moving away from a fragmentation of services and towards an integration of agencies with similar or overlapping functions, according to Thomas L. Jacobs, president of The Jacobs Co., a Chicago-based urban consulting subsidiary of Planning Research.

A greater awareness of pressing urban problems, and the development of advanced problem-solving techniques, are encouraging this trend toward the super-group organization in government, Jacobs said.

Sidney I. Firstman, Planning Research's director for urban systems analysis, said that a key tool in the city government of the future will be the application of systems analysis to city problems.

HOUSE IS BEST BUY

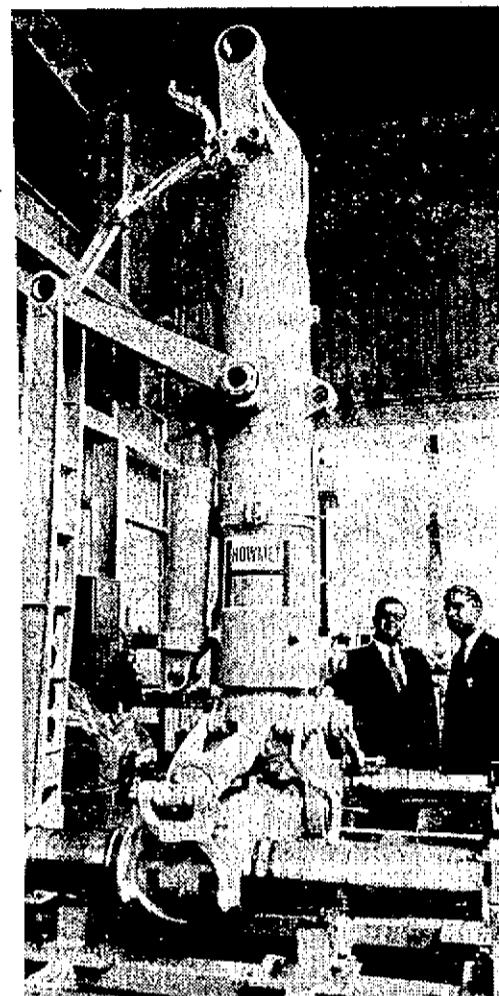

"It is easier to finance a color television set, a trip to Paris or the purchase of an automobile than it is to finance the purchase or construction of a home." So begins an article written by Preston Martin, chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board.

Martin writes that a half-million new housing units and rehabilitation of several hundred thousand existing structures are needed now to ensure that every California family is provided with housing of at least minimum standards.

"For the future," he adds, "the statistics are even more dramatic."

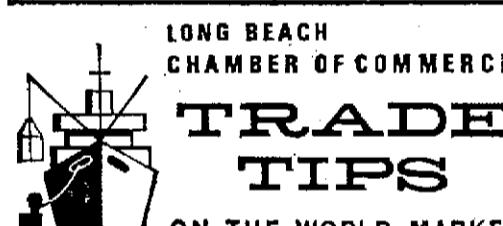

Based on a population increase from an estimated 20 million people this year to 38.5 million in 30 years, California housing must nearly double during the same period to meet these demands. Merely to keep up with the population expansion, Martin says, would require a minimum of 225 thousand new houses a year. But home-building in California has reached a rate of only 150 thousand units a year.

In a newspaper article appearing in the Pomona Progress-Bulletin, another beam of sunshine was attributed to a San Fernando real estate man who was quoted as saying: "The house is still the best buy. I don't know of anything else you can buy at 8½ per cent. A television costs you 24 per cent."

Is the jet-hopping businessman more inclined toward ulcers and fatigue than, say, the ambitious 10-hour-day Manhattan-bound executive?

Not at all. As a group, export business executives enjoy better than average health, and even the notion that an executive's job is stressful seems highly doubtful.

The international business traveler, it seems, is as well, perhaps better, adjusted to his daily life; his complaints may even be below the average in his salary and job-status level.

The evidence suggests that the higher a man goes on the ladder the better his health.

Executives register less absenteeism than line workers, and many of them look forward to work days more than to week-ends.

Business executives aged 45-64 record only half the mortality rate of all business executives in this age group.

Male employees attaining the highest levels of management, as a whole, do not have an added risk of coronary heart disease, and coronaries are more common among clerks than among its top-level managers.

AND, NOW for some right-off-the-griddle trade tips, these are "wants" from Iran, Israel, Lebanon, Libya, Malaysia, etc. A veritable melange from soup to nuts:

L.B. Realtors Announce School Essay Contest

An essay contest on the subject, "What Are the Advantages of a Make America Better Program," is being sponsored by the Long Beach District Board of Realtors in cooperation with the local high schools. It was announced by board president, Jack Krueger.

Open to students of the 10th, 11th and 12th grades, the essays must be limited to 300 words. The contest closes May 1.

Prizes will be awarded to first place, first runner-up and second runner-up.

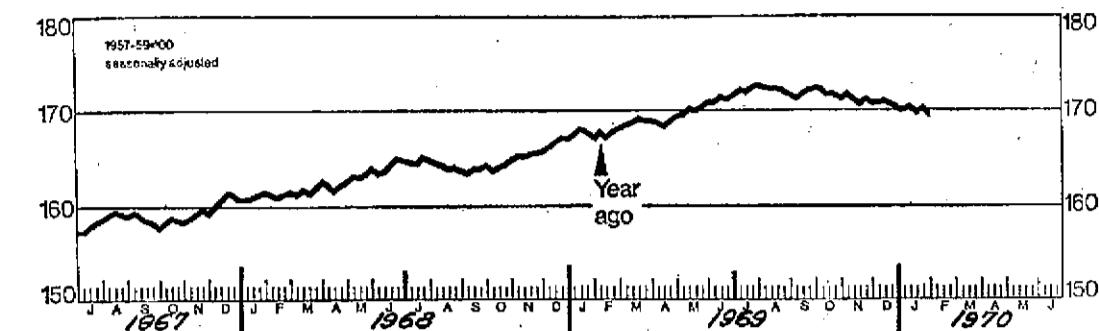

The winning student's entry will be entered in a statewide essay contest sponsored by the California Real Estate Association through its 176 local real estate boards.

Winner of that contest and the parents of the winner will be taken to the CREIA convention in San Francisco in October to receive a trophy and a scholarship award.

Last year's scholarship award was $500.

This contest is intended to help students become aware of the problems America must cope with if we are to improve the quality of American life, and to consider the rewards for solving them.

Steel, Auto Production in Slide

Steel and auto output combined to pull the Index 0.3 per cent below last week's figure.

Steel production fell 1.3 per cent. Predictions for spring output are good.

Auto production dropped 3.5 per cent, reflecting shutdowns, and short work weeks at several plants.

In the energy components, electric power output

gained 2.4 per cent; crude oil refinery runs remained the same.

Intercity truck tonnage was down 0.6 per cent, still 7.6 per cent behind a year ago. Miscellaneous carloadings inched 0.1 per cent above a week ago; all other carloadings lost 3.6 per cent.

Paperboard production gained 4.4 per cent.

When these 7 are gone, goodbye.

First come, first served. After 5 years and more than 1400 homes sold, we have only 7 new homes left. They must be sold by Sunday midnight. Special low prices are now in effect.

HOUSE IS BEST BUY

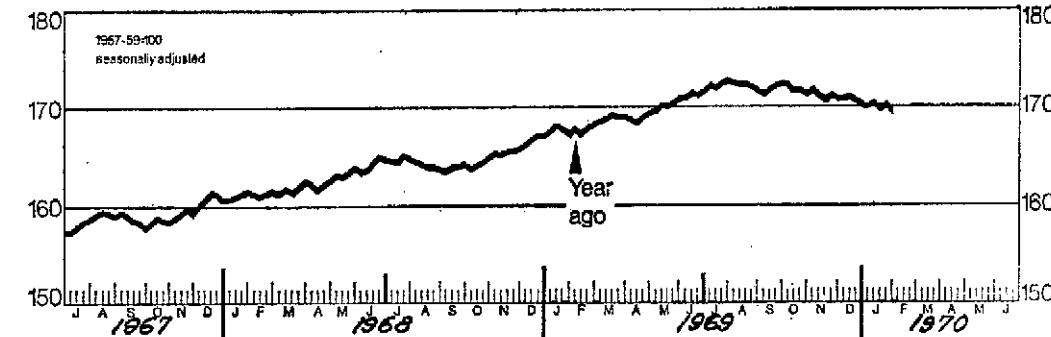

"It is easier to finance a color television set, a trip to Paris or the purchase of an automobile than it is to finance the purchase or construction of a home," So begins an article written by Preston Martin, chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board.

Martin writes that a half-million new housing units and rehabilitation of several hundred thousand existing structures are needed now to ensure that every California family is provided with housing of at least minimum standards.

"For the future," he adds, "the statistics are even more dramatic."

Based on a population increase from an estimated 20 million people this year to 38.5 million in 30 years, California housing must nearly double during the same period to meet these demands. Merely to keep up with the population expansion, Martin says, would require a minimum of 225 thousand new houses a year. But home-building in California has reached a rate of only 150 thousand units a year.

In a newspaper article appearing in the Pomona Progress-Bulletin, another beam of sunshine was attributed to a San Fernando real estate man who was quoted as saying: "The house is still the best buy. I don't know of anything else you can buy at 8 1/2 per cent. A television costs you 24 per cent."

Steel, Auto Production in Slide

Steel and auto output combined to pull the Index 0.3 per cent below last week's figure.

Steel production fell 1.3 per cent. Predictions for spring output are good.

Auto production dropped 3.5 per cent, reflecting shutdowns, and short work weeks at several plants.

In the energy components, electric power output

gained 2.4 per cent; crude oil refinery runs remained the same.

Paperboard production gained 4.4 per cent.

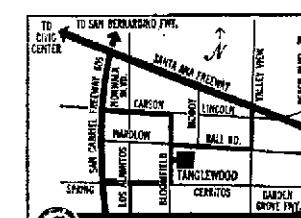

When these 7 are gone, goodbye.

First come, first served. After 5 years and more than 1400 homes sold, we have only 7 new homes left. They must be sold by Sunday midnight. Special low prices are now in effect.

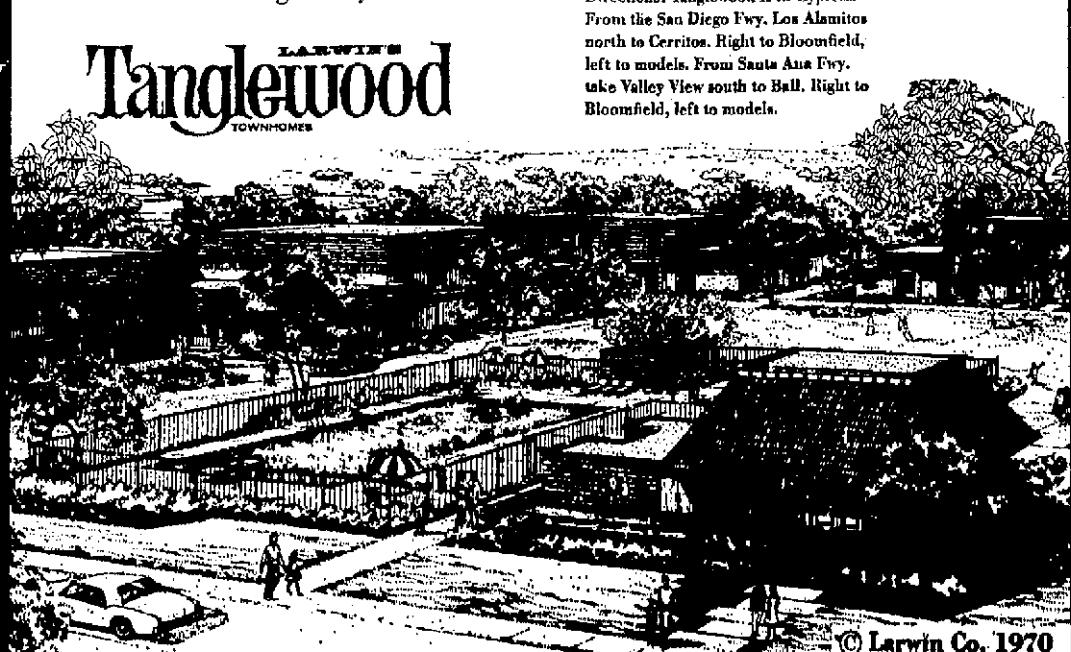

This is absolutely your last chance to buy a big 2, 3 or 4 bedroom home in America's most famous townhome recreational community.

School Essay Contest

An essay contest on the subject, "What Are the Advantages of a Make America a Better Program?", is being sponsored by the Long Beach District Board of Realtors in cooperation with the local high schools, it was announced by board president, Jack Krueger.

Open to students of the 10th, 11th and 12th grades, the essays must be limited to 300 words. The contest closes May 1.

Prizes will be awarded to first place, first runner-up and second runner-up.

The winning student's entry will be entered in a statewide essay contest sponsored by the California Real Estate Association through its 176 local real estate boards.

Winner of that contest and the parents of the winner will be taken to the CREA convention in San Francisco in October to receive a trophy and a scholarship award.

Last year's scholarship award was $300.

This contest is intended to help students become aware of the problems America must cope with if we are to improve the quality of American life, and to consider the rewards for solving them.

The winning student's entry will be entered in a

Westhaven Homes Selling Quickly

"We are looking forward to a good year in sales at Westhaven," says builder-developer Laurance Shields.

"Into the first two weeks in February we are very encouraged about the 1970's," he adds.

Westhaven is Shields' residential community in Westminster. It will have 800 homes when completed.

Shields attributes some of the success to the community's central location in the heart of Orange County. Since the first unit was built production schedules have been constantly accelerated to keep up with the demand for homes caused by the population explosion in the county.

To facilitate residents a park, school, shopping center, professional building and other community services will be provided within the community.

WESTHAVEN prices begin at $31,095 with FHA, VA and conventional financing plans offered, according to Kurth & Associates, exclusive sales agents.

The one and two-story homes have three and four bedrooms, two and three baths. There are one and two story plans available with a choice of 20 exterior stylings.

The furnished model homes, illustrating the various stylings and plans, are located in a park-like setting adjacent to the strikingly-designed Mediterranean-style sales and information pavilion.

The model home complex also includes a completely-equipped children's playground.

Westhaven may be reached from the Garden Grove Freeway by driving south on Brookhurst just past McFadden in Westminster.

Fashion Park Estates in Preview

Ben Hare, exclusive sales aide for Greer-Wood Enterprises, invites area homesellers to the continued preview opening this weekend of Fashion Park Estates.

All new 1970 home designs are being presented at the prestige northeast Santa Ana location.

The homes include such items as underground utilities, front landscaping with a tree and sprinklers, shag carpeting thru-out, draperies thru-out, rear yard fencing with a gate, patio kitchens, fireplaces and a host of other most-wanted features.

Prices begin at $29,700 with excellent financing available.

For information, phone Hare or visit the model area at West Orange Road and Flower Street in northeast Santa Ana.

House took off, with a line of gallery-quality metal sculpture at non-gallery prices.

"Hanson House produces new-age art," says the boss.

"Each piece is hand-crafted, but we have put modern technology to work in assembling them, speeding up the process to provide public access to art."

Hanson has put a lot of young people to work as well — 16 in all, unskilled, and most of them long-haired. Says Ingeborg Hanson, wife and partner, "when we call looking for help, we specify that we want these kids, because we know it's hard for them to find work in more conventional places."

Hanson House employees learn the trade of welding, as well as the skill of metal artisan, and all of them are encouraged to contribute creative ideas at the shop, located at 1310 W. 15th St.

General manager is Donald Schultz.

"My thing is people," says Hanson, explaining the genius of the designs, most of which are whimsical men and women, wrought with skill and compassion.

"It's the best of all possible worlds now, being able to make a living using my most personally rewarding talent and expressing my deepest feelings about life and people."

This year, the Hanson House line, which is characterized by the rugged finish of arc welding, is expanding to include wall plaques, candelabras and large, custom work for commercial interiors.

There are 49 original Hanson designs in the line, varying in size from 10 inches to 4x7 feet and production is up to approximately 150 pieces each week.

Projected sales, with representatives from Canada to Hawaii, are triple that of last year.

"We were a little ahead of the market when we started," says Hanson. "Brass and bronze with a very 'finished' look was very popular, but now the more rugged, hand-crafted work is in great demand, and we're looking forward to a great year with a lot of gratitude and enthusiasm."

Coot Industrial Appoints L.B. Mini Bike Firm as Rep

Coot Industries of San Francisco announces the appointment of Long Beach Mini Bike & Kart Engineering, as a dealer for the company's all-terrain vehicles.

The Long Beach firm will be handling the four-wheel drive, amphibious Coot that makes easy getting to nearly impossible hunting, fishing and farming areas.

The Coot has hundreds of other applications in sports and industry: soil testing, fence mending, telephone line repair, mesquito abatement, pipeline maintenance and real estate sales.

LONG BEACH Mini Bike & Kart Engineering, 3060 Orange Ave., also will make available in the Long Beach area the new "Fun-mobiles" from Coot Industries.

The basic vehicle comes in three models: Snoopy,

Searcher and Red Baron. All three models are made with rugged fiberglass unitized construction, weigh only 300 pounds, and can be carried in the back of a station wagon. The "Fun-mobiles" have farming applications such as crop inspection and irrigation.

The three vehicles scoot over beaches, foothills and through brush.

Robertshaw Controls in Key Role

Instrument systems supplied by Robertshaw Controls Company, Anaheim, had a key role in the voyage of the S.S. Manhattan, the first commercial vessel to bust its way from the Atlantic to the Pacific through the arctic icepack.

The operators of the giant ship have disclosed that one of the icebreaking techniques used was a literal "rocking of the boat."

The rocking action — three degrees each way — was obtained by swift pumping of water from big tanks on the port side to identical starboard tanks, and vice versa.

ROBERTSHAW'S Anaheim division supplied electronic instrument systems which monitored water level in the tanks and enabled technicians on the ship's bridge to do the docking job properly.

CAMARO FOR 1970 . . Long Hood, New Front End, Swept-Back Roof

Auto Editor

A totally new "second stage" Camaro will go on sale in Chevrolet dealerships on Thursday, Feb. 26. John Z. DeLorean, division general manager, has announced.

"Innovations in design and engineering make the new Camaro different from any car now offered," DeLorean declared.

"Its new long hood, expressive looking body and highly improved handling, ride and sound isolation create a completely new car. It is well equipped to become the sales leader among all small sport cars."

DeLorean called the car "a significant second stage" in the concept of a personal, four-passenger package of excitement that has drawn 650,000 Camaro buyers since introduction in 1967.

THE 1970 Camaro comes in a single two-door hardtop model. It is longer, wider, lower and has wider front and rear tracks than the previous Camaro but continues the highly maneuverable 108 inch wheelbase.

Wide choice to tailor a Camaro to a customer's personal taste is continued. A Rally Sport version includes a different grille and front end treatment while Camaro SS and Z-28 versions include higher performing engines and special chassis components.

WORLD OF WHEELS

Chevrolet's multitude of options and accessories are also available.

The silhouette has a smooth international flavor — longer head, flatter windshield slope, swept back roofline and Corvette-type rear with twin-taillights. The car is 2 inches longer, 4 inches wider and 1.1 inch lower than the previous Camaro.

A silver-finish V-shaped grille frames the engine. The full-width bumper wraps around fenders below single high intensity headlights which emphasize the car's width. Wide parking lamps are mounted outboard beneath the bumper.

RALLY-STYLED parking lamps are mounted on either side of the RS grille. Split bumpers, mounted under the lights, complete the distinctive front end.

A total of 15 Magic-Mirror acrylic colors are offered on the new Camaro — 11 of them new. Four colors are available exclusively for Camaro — Camaro Gold, Hugger Orange, Classic Copper and Citrus Green. There are five interior color choices in either standard or optional custom interiors.

Vinyl roofs in either black, white or dark green may be ordered.

ALL ADULTS visiting one of the Boise Cascade

Two couples from the Los Angeles-Orange County area will be chosen during the next week as the first in a series of winners of more than $1,000 in monthly prizes to be given away by the Boise Cascade Building Co.

Dodson said the company was offering the cruise "to show our appreciation of the acceptance of Boise Cascade operations into the Los Angeles-Orange County area."

The northern region, he explained, covers those developments in the Santa Barbara, Ventura and most of the Los Angeles County, while the eastern covers Orange County and parts of east Los Angeles County.

The prizes which will be given away Dodson said, will be a three-day four-night cruise aboard the Princess Carla from Los Angeles, to Ensenada, Guadalupe Islands and back to Los Angeles.

Some of the other items of interest to winners are that all meals and entertainment aboard are paid for; and no visa or passport is required to return to the United States.

Aboard each cruise also is a qualified physician and practically any of the other services one would expect to find on a luxury liner. In addition to the barber and beauty shop there is a tax-free gift shop to use while the Princess Carla is at sea.

TO WIN this combination of the excitement of Mexico, the charm of Italy and the spectacular beauty of the Pacific Ocean, adults can sign up at any one of the following Boise Cascade Building Co. developments:

Channel Islands Homes in Oxnard, Lake Lindro in Agoura, East Valley Heights in Pacoima, Greenvale in Harbor City, Pacific South Bay in Torrance, Shorecrest in Palos Verdes, Sun Ray Estates in Gardena, The Woods in Harbor City, Eastgrove in Anaheim, El Ray Park in Cerritos, Greenridge in Corona, New Bellehurst in Buena Park, Parkside and Stevenson Village in Gardena, Diamond Head in Diamond Bar.

For information on how to reach any of these developments, contact the sales information office whose number is listed with directory information.

CAMARO FOR 1970 . . Long Hood, New Front End, Swept-Back Roof

By ART STEPHAN

A totally new "second stage" Camaro will go on sale in Chevrolet dealerships on Thursday, Feb. 26. John Z. DeLorean, division general manager, has announced.

"Innovations in design and engineering make the new Camaro different from any car now offered," DeLorean declared.

"Its new long hood, expensive looking body and highly improved handling, ride and sound isolation create a completely new car. It is well equipped to become the sales leader among all small sport cars."

DeLorean called the car "a significant second stage" in the concept of a personal, four-passenger package of excitement that has drawn 650,000 Camaro buyers since introduction in 1967.

THE 1970 Camaro comes in a single two-door hardtop model. It is longer, wider, lower and has wider front and rear treads than the previous Camaro but continues the highly maneuverable 108 inch wheelbase.

Wide choice to tailor a Camaro to a customer's personal taste is continued. A Rally Sport version includes a different grille and front end treatment while Camaro SS and Z-28 versions include higher performing engines and special chassis components.

WORLD OF WHEELS

Chevrolet's multitude of options and accessories are also available.

The silhouette has a smooth international flavor — longer hood, flatter windshield slope, swept back roofline and Corvette-type rear with twin-taillights. The car is 2 inches longer, .4 inches wider and 1.1 inch lower than the previous Camaro.

The Rally Sport version has a special black grille with silver accents, surrounded by a resilient color-matched frame. A vertical resilient black bar protects the center of the grille.

RALLY-STYLED parking lamps are mounted on either side of the RS grille. Split bumpers mounted under the lights complete the distinctive front end.

Concealed windshield wipers are optional on Camaro, standard on the RS and SS versions.

Total glass area on the new Camaro is increased by nearly 10 per cent. There is full door glass styling and Astro Ventilator.

Doors are five inches longer, extending back past front seats for easier rear seat entrance and exit. Door handles are flush-mounted for exterior body smoothness.

New and more reclining standard front bucket seats are foam-filled for greater comfort. All-vinyl trim is again standard. Rear seats are shaped as "semi-buckets." There is greater front and rear leg room.

The molded instrument panel curves in front of the driver with dials clustered in front of him.

THE NEW body is stronger and quieter. Double steel roof panels give added strength. Protective features such as the side-guard door beams, energy absorbing windshield pillar moldings and cargo-guard luggage barrier, first introduced in the full-size Chevrolet, are now incorporated in Camaro's unitized body.

Re-design of the body emphasized reduction of the passenger compartment noise level. A new acoustical roof design absorbs three times as much sound energy as the roof of the previous model.

A total of 15 Magic-Mirror acrylic colors are offered on the new Camaro — 11 of them new. Four colors are available exclusively for Camaro — Camaro Gold, Hugger Orange, Classic Copper and Citrus Green.

There are five interior color choices in either standard or optional custom interiors.

Vinyl roofs in either black, white or dark green may be ordered.

Two couples from the Los Angeles-Orange County area will be chosen during the next week as the first in a series of winners of more than $1,000 in monthly prizes to be given away by the Boise Cascade Building Co.

Richard Dodson, vice president of the company, said there will be a pair of winners in both the northern and eastern regions of the company's operations.

The northern region, he explained, covers those developments in the Santa Barbara, Ventura and most of the Los Angeles County, while the eastern covers Orange County and parts of east Los Angeles County.

The prizes which will be given away Dodson said, will be a three-day four-night cruise aboard the Princess Carla from Los Angeles, to Ensenada, Guadalupe Islands and back to Los Angeles.

Each couple will receive first class accommodations worth approximately $280 per person, the vice president said.

ALL ADULTS visiting one of the Boise Cascade

Building Co. developments are eligible to sign up for the cruise, Dodson said. In each of the sales offices there is a large green sign-in register containing all of the details.

Dodson said the company was offering the cruise "to show our appreciation of the acceptance of Boise Cascade operations into the Los Angeles-Orange County area."

The Princess Cruises run from May through September, with a total of 16 dates. Winners can choose any one of these to take the trip which has been called by some, "the best floating party anywhere in the world."

THE FIRST-class cabins — which are actually suites — have all private facilities, with TV, radio and air conditioning. King size beds or twin beds, a couch, table, sitting room and bath are all included in this luxury cruise.

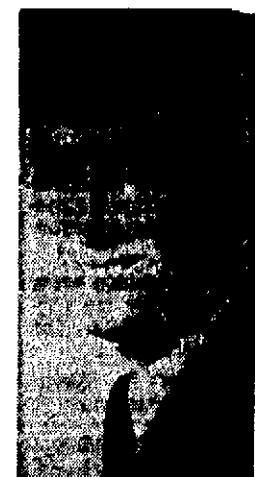

Some of the other items of interest to winners are that all meals and entertainment aboard are paid for; and no visa or passport is required to return to the United States.

Aboard each cruise also is a qualified physician and practically any of the other services one would expect to find on a luxury liner. In addition to the barber and beauty shop there is a tax-free gift shop to use while the Princess Carla is at sea.

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)

— Western Pacific Railroad said its consolidated results for 1969 showed a loss of $732,000, or 37 cents a share. "A major cause of the earnings decline was the staggering loss from the enforced operation of the California Zephyr," the firm said in a statement. WP said total operating revenues decreased from $72,424,000 to $72,183,000. Expenses were $65,315,000, up from 1968's $57,257,000. The railroad had a net income of $6,102,000, or $3.05 per share, in 1968.

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)

— The Cortez Gold Mine, located 60 miles southwest of Elko, Nev., completed its first year of operation with a net income of $2,599,000 ending Dec. 31, the American Company reported. The mining operation, which cost $8 million to develop, began production on Jan. 10, 1969. Presently, the mine produces an average of 1,750 tons of ore per day. The total ounces of gold produced was 166,000, which reached a going rate of $43.75 per ounce in May. Cortez Gold Mines is a joint venture of American Exploration & Mining Co., of San Francisco (a subsidiary of Placer Development Limited), the Bunker Hill Company of Kellogg, Idaho (a subsidiary of Gulf Resources and Chemical Corporation), Webb Resources, Inc., and Vernon F. Taylor Jr., both of Denver.

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)

— Telecheck International Inc., a Honolulu-based firm with a wide variety of interests, will be listed on the Pacific Coast Stock Exchange. Harry M. Flagg, Telecheck board chairman, told security analysts his firm's sales for the fiscal year ending next May 31 should be $11.5 to $12 million, compared to $7 million last year. The firm operates a data processing center, two career colleges, a millwork firm, an air conditioning company and a refrigeration service firm in Hawaii and houseboat and snowmobile manufacturing companies in Minnesota.

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)

— Potlatch Forests, Inc., announced its 1969 net sales increased 6 per cent while net earnings declined 9 per cent compared to the previous year's figures. Net sales for 1969 were $337,128,000, compared with 1968 net sales of $338,115,000. Net earnings in 1969 amounted to $14,942,000 ($2.13 per share), compared to 1968's $18,400,000 ($2.35 per share).

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)

— The City and County of San Francisco has finally sold $26 million in bonds which will finance a new north tower and other projects at the airport. The bonds were purchased at 6 per cent interest through negotiation by the Bank of America and Crocker-Citizens National Bank. The city was unable to sell the bonds Jan. 12 when they were opened for competitive bidding because the 6 per cent legal maximum interest was well below prevailing municipal bond rates. The banks submitted a dollar bid of 100 for the bonds, with a net interest rate of 6 per cent to the city. They were reoffered to investors to yield from 5 per cent in 1971 to 6.20 per cent in 1985.

NEW YORK (UPI)

— General Signal Corp. won a $5.4 million contract from New York City Transit Authority for delivery of trail control equipment designed to thread trains through a large track complex without putting any on an unsafe route.

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)

— Utah Construction & Mining Co. announced an agreement to sell 1,500,000 pounds of uranium oxide to West Germany.

WILDERNESS PARK PLANNED

Five New Models Open at Culver Dale-Irvine

A $200,000 model complex with five freshly designed models is now open at Culver Dale, the new 450-home parkside community with a country club environment on the master-planned Irvine Ranch.

Culver Dale's four and one-half acre park, designed for families who love outdoor activities, and the $100,000 recreation center have been completed and are in use, according to Max Tipton, vice president-marketing for Robert H. Grant and Company, builders and developers.

Five new floor plans are featured in the model complex, including a pair of two-story, four-bedroom homes that can be expanded into five bedrooms through optional plans.

"This is one of the few projects in this area where buyers have a choice between two different large houses," Tipton noted.

THE OTHER three homes featured in the model complex have three bedrooms and are single story. A two-bedroom home also is offered at the project.

"We found that prospective buyers here were looking for two things — outdoor recreational facilities for all members of the family and large houses," he said.

"As a result," he said, "Culver Dale has a competitor-size swimming pool and a wading pool for tots right next to a temporary wood and glass 'A' frame clubhouse.

Adjacent to this recreation center is a four-and-one-half acre private park that contains tennis, basketball and volleyball courts, swings, slides, picnic areas and a moored full-size sailboat and scale frontier fort for children's playtime adventuring.

ANOTHER recreational facility planned at Culver Dale is the four-acre Wilderness Park, a serene rustic area with trails for strolling or jogging through shaded trees and rolling greenbelts.

"Culver Dale's plush $100,000 recreation center will be available to all residents for entertaining in true 'country club' style," he noted.

Culver Dale homes are priced from $24,995 to $36,995, with FHA and VA financing available. The cost of the land is included in the purchase price.

"ALL HOMES have cedar shingle roofs, copper plumbing and nylon carpeting, with the exception of the two-bedroom model where we offer carpeting

Since it was founded in 1953, the Grant firm has as an option," said Clyde Wixom, general sales manager.

"Additional standard features are all-electric kitchens with built-in ranges, ovens, dishwashers and disposers, baths with recessed oval basins and cultured marble pullman tops and master suites with built-in vanities and compartmented baths.

"Each home has thermostatically controlled forced air heat, a garden court entry and is wired for cable television," Wixom pointed out.

Culver Dale is the second community to be developed by Robert H. Grant and Company on the Irvine Ranch. The first project, the 900-home Tustin Meadows, located on the northern border of the ranch, is in its final selling phase.

CULVER DALE is located adjacent to the San Diego Freeway near the Campus of the University of California at Irvine. Freeway access to the new community is via the San Diego Freeway South to Culver Drive then left to Main Street and left on Main to the entrance, or Santa Ana Freeway south to Culver Drive then right three miles to Main Street.

The information office and model complex are open daily from 10 a.m. to dusk.

Ralphs Announces New Organization Structure

Greater responsibilities for store managers and district managers, more intensive and flexible use of the expertise of product specialists and more attention to the individual stores and neighborhoods in merchandising are the goals of a new organization structure at Ralphs Grocery Company.

The changes, announced by Vice President and General Manager Duane Peters, are the result of research, consultation with store and district managers and long-range projections for the company's expansion.

At headquarters, new titles describe shifts in responsibilities, beginning with a broader title—vice president, marketing—for Byron Allumbaugh.

Edward V. Maron Jr., has been promoted to the new position of merchandising manager, heading a staff of specialized buying-merchandising departments and coordinating their activities.

David L. Doten is the newly appointed sales manager. Doten who moves to this new position from that of district manager, will coordinate all sales promotions, advertising and customer relations.

A REALIGNMENT of the chain's 60 stores into six districts instead of five gives each district manager a workable load of 10 units and makes communication and commuting more efficient.

The new district and the opening left by Doten's advancement are to be served by John Miller, who has been special assistant to the director of store operations, James W. Brown, and by Richard Maron, previously a district specialty supervisor.

Non-foods, frozons, and deli receive more emphasis and attention in the revision of staff structure by consolidating reporting as-

A name long associated with Ralphs is missing in the company's new organization chart: Edgar D. Phillips, in his 37th year with Ralphs, has tendered his resignation in order to devote full time to the Homemakers Club.

Management of this Club had been among Phillips' responsibilities as Ralphs Advertising Director, and when a recent FTC ruling required the chain to divest itself of the Homemakers Club, Phillips decided to buy it himself.

Malcolm Anderson, advertising manager, now heads the department.

Mrs. Lesser in REA Position

Appointment of Mrs. Maralyn Lesser as executive secretary of the Orange County Chapter, Society of Real Estate Appraisers, is the latest effort on the part of the group to expand the services and information available to the public. Her office will be at 1235 Brookhurst St., Suite F, Garden Grove.

Mrs. Lesser will be available Mondays through Fridays from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. to answer inquiries relative to the activities and availabilities of appraisers.

Ridder to Address Chamber

Walter H. Ridder, chief of the Washington bureau of Ridder Publications, will speak to Long Beach Chamber of Commerce members at a luncheon Feb. 19 at the Pacific Coast Club.

Ridder's topic will be "This Changing World," according to Chamber President H. G. Hanawalt.

Inflation Continues, Says Smith

California has had the most prosperous 20 years in its history for real estate and allied industries, according to Burton E. Smith, commissioner of the Department of Real Estate, State of California, in a recent luncheon address to the Downtown Long Beach Optimist Club.

He was introduced by Norman Ide, Long Beach Realtor, program chairman for the event.

Although the "boom" has been arrested temporarily due to the war on inflation, it could "take off" at any time, stated Smith.

Although this war on inflation has a marked effect on the economy of real estate and construction and its allied industries, Smith predicts that the government "will lose the war on inflation gradually and that new standards of acceptance of basic interest rates of about 8 per cent will become accepted, and business will improve."

Farrow Realty Scores

Executives of the Farrow Realty Corporation swept high honors last week in a national real estate management seminar held in Lake Arrowhead, according to the Orange County firm's owner, Jerry F. Farrow.

The three-day management conference hosted real estate and management executives from both Northern and Southern California and was climax by competitive tests following the sales training session headed by Al Tomisk, nationally known sales trainer.

Jim Sunasek, manager of Farrow's Costa Mesa office, won first-place honors and Farrow Vice President Steve Grannis, captured the second-place honors.

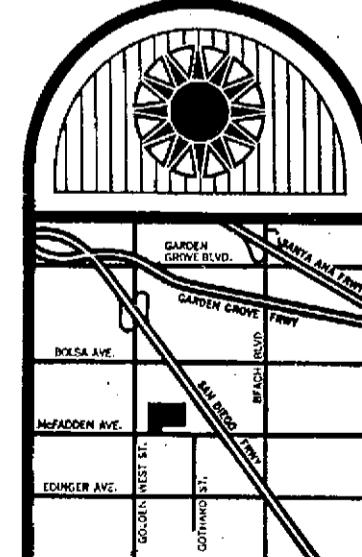

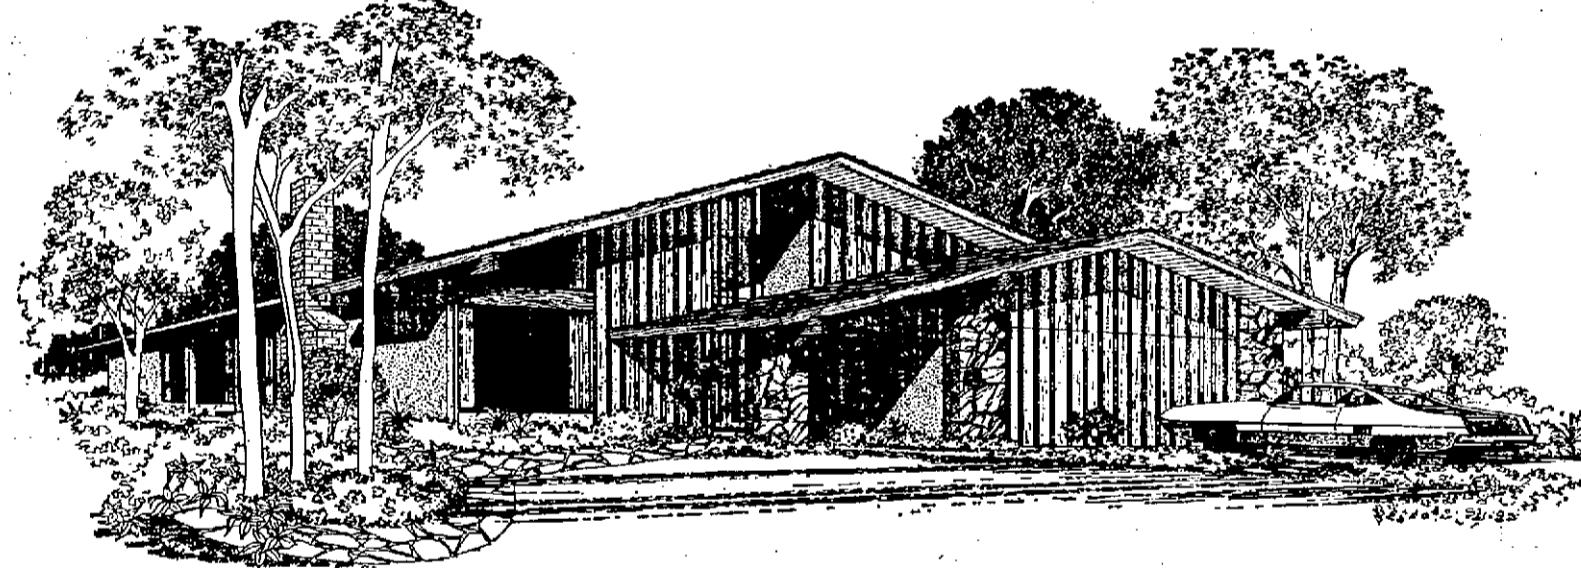

Dick Mozahn, manager of the Farrow offices in Huntington Beach, won sixth spot in the competition.

Although this war on inflation has a marked effect on the economy of real estate and construction and its allied industries, Smith predicts that the government "will lose the war on inflation gradually and that new standards of acceptance of basic interest rates of about 8 per cent will become accepted, and business will improve."

Walker & Lee Showed Way in '69; Higher Sales

While most of the residential real estate business was tightening its belt during 1969, Anaheim-based Walker & Lee, Inc., ate heartily, even if it was working harder to do so, reports Frank R. Hart, president.

"It's common knowledge that residential real estate endured a drastic slowdown last year," said Hart. "It was no picnic for us, either, but while others' sales curves dipped, ours continued right up with home sales increasing 13.8 per cent in dollar value.

"In terms of units, our total sales — including new homes, sales, acreage, and investments — hit a new all-time high of 4,337, an increase of 8.1 per cent over the previous high, reached in 1968."

Walker and Lee's new home sales rose from 1,480 in 1968 to 1,541 in 1969. Re-sales were up even more substantially, from 3,126 to 3,389. Total volume in the two categories rose by 327 houses, from 4,586 to 4,903.

IN TERMS of dollars, the increase in home sales was $16.6 million, from $119.2 million to $135.7. Total dollar volume for Walker & Lee, Inc., including acreage and investments, was $144.6 million.

If the sales of subsidiary companies were included, the total would pass the $240 million mark, Hart added.

Another reason for Walker & Lee's continuing growth is its large inventory, according to Hart.

"Anyone looking for a home wants to be certain that he will have a wide selection so he can make the best possible choice. Currently, we are offering the home-shopper more than 2,800 new and pre-owned homes to select from."

HART FEELS his firm has achieved preeminence in the resale business because it has demonstrated for nearly three decades that the complicated business of selling a home — can be made a pleasant and simple process.

Explaining the success of Walker & Lee's New Homes Division, Hart said:

"We provide all builders, regardless of size, with the most comprehensive marketing team available. We enable a small or medium-sized builder to compete with a major builder in marketing know-how. Often, with our help, these smaller builders are able to minimize overhead and, at the same time, enjoy a competitive edge over the large builder. Consequently, we see cases after case where a medium-sized builder will outsell his larger competitor in the same market area."

Hart said that one of Walker & Lee's big contributions to builders' marketing programs is the firm's Guaranteed Trade Plan, which he described as "the most practical trade plan in the nation, as proven by its record of being responsible for 563 sales during 1969."

polls, product evaluation, competitive analysis, marketing budgets, advertising counseling and direct mail campaigns.

To a considerable extent, the increases were the result of more people working more hours, Hart indicated.

"During the year, we enjoyed a net increase of 173 people. Last year our employee total shot right past the 500 mark — and the 600 mark, as well."

The number of Walker & Lee sales offices at the end of the year was 28. Company personnel also manned an additional 45 sales offices at new home developments around Southern California, plus several in Northern California, the firm having expanded its service to the bay area in 1969.

Hart noted that two new Walker & Lee subsidiaries also made great strides during 1969. Established two years ago, Walker & Lee Escrow Corp. is averaging 270 escrows a month. In business just eight months, Walker & Lee Insurance, Inc., wrote 1,920 policies of all types.

Sears Opens New Huntington Beach Store With Ribbon Ceremonies

The Adams & Magnolia area of Huntington Beach got a new store last week when the doors of the new Sears, Roebuck & Co. appliance-catalog sales store at 9059 Adams St. swung open following a brief ribbon-cutting ceremony.

This is the second Sears store in Huntington Beach.

Sears presently operates an appliance-catalog sales store at 5840 Edinger.

On hand for the occasion were civic and business leaders and Sears executives.

George McCracken, vice mayor of Huntington Beach, cut the ribbon to signify official opening. Jerome J. Shea, Huntington Beach Chamber of Commerce, welcomed Sears on behalf of the merchants of the area. Ralph C. Kiser, executive manager of the Huntington Beach Chamber of Commerce, acted as master of ceremonies, and Miss Huntington Beach Chamber of Commerce, Miss Teresa Doleshal, presented the golden shears to McCracken.

Also in attendance from the Huntington Beach Chamber of Commerce was Bill Woods, host committee chairman and his host group.

E. W. WELDON, Sears Los Angeles area district manager, introduced store manager Willis E. John.

Also in attendance from Sears were J. R. Metcalf, Costa Mesa Sears manager, A. C. Engel, Los Angeles supervisor of appliance-catalog sales stores, and H. P. Nelson, operating manager, Los Angeles area.

The over 7,200-square-foot store is air conditioned. It features displays of major home appliances and a large catalog sales department for your shopping convenience. Its major "inventory," however, is the more than 140,000 merchandise items contained in the Sears catalog.

Customers can also

phone by calling 962-7781.

The orders are transmitted by data speed transmission to the catalog sales headquarters in East Los Angeles for rush ship-

or for pickup at the store

next day.

Manager of the new unit is Willis E. John, a veteran of 21 years service with Sears, most recently in Costa Mesa. John's experi-

ment in several Sears merchandise departments.

The Adams & Magnolia

unit becomes the 35th unit of its kind in the Los Angeles-Orange County area.

Tramway GM May Renew Faith in Indian Snow Dance

the use of historic Indian Tribal Dances in a des- perate effort to bring snow to the top of the Palm Springs Aerial Tramway is the intense problem being juggled to day by Tramway General Manager O. L. Mc- Kenney.

"Common sense tells me to seed the clouds by plane to get the snow we must have for our Sled Dog Races scheduled for Feb. 21-22; March 7-8, and March 15 in addition to our annual Snowman contest on March 8," said McKenney.

"On the other hand," he said, "I have a great deal of faith in Indian Snow dances. We had the Indians perform their snow dance here in 1966 and they brought us a blizzard and eight feet of snow."

MEANWHILE, sled dog drivers, their dog teams and followers are all geared up for the annual sled dog racing championships, already postponed from original January dates.

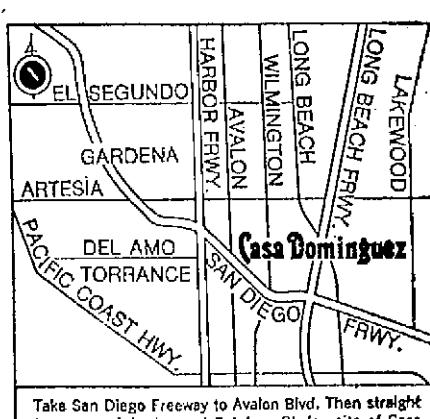

"It's an upsetting problem," said McKenney, "the sled dog people are demanding snow and now I'm receiving worried letters from little kids who are planning on entering the snowman contest. It's not an easy life here lately, trying to order snow by the calendar."

LAST REMAINING YORKTOWNE II HOMES . . . Stand Ready

Only Seven Yorktowne II Homes Remain Unsold

Only seven homes, all ready for immediate occupancy, remain at the Shields Development Co. community of Yorktowne II in Westminster, it was announced by Dick Kurth, of Kurth and Associates, sales agents.

Each of these three- and four-bedroom homes, all with two baths, is "turn-key" ready, Kurth said.

This means a family moving in can immediately begin enjoying their new home. Each home has carpets, drapes, fencing and a front lawn, all included along with the other extras which would normally cost hundreds of dollars more in similar homes.

Shields also offers free decorating service for homemakers who would like some professional advice when decorating their new home.

"This is really an incredible value for the money," Kurth said.

Priced from only $27,500, buyers have a choice of FHA, VA or conventional financing.

SOME OF the other standard features include kitchens with built-in ranges, ovens with double glass doors, double sinks and walnut finished birch cabinets. There are also fireplaces in each home as well as some models with cathedral ceilings.

The entire community will continue to look good in years to come, Kurth said, because of the lack of overhead wires. All utilities have been placed below the ground.

Yorktowne is also ideal for families with children in school because of the closeness and high ratings of all the schools serving the area.

For recreation, the huge new Mile Square Park is only a few blocks away with its hundreds of acres of ponds, and green areas and new public 18-hole golf course.

SHOPPING centers are close by, with the out-ranges, ovens with double glass doors, double sinks and walnut finished birch cabinets. There are also fireplaces in each home as well as some models with cathedral ceilings.

Furnished models are open daily from 10 a.m. until dusk and can be reached from the San Diego Freeway by driving north on Brookhurst to Edinger, then left on Edinger to Bushard, then right to the models.

From the Garden Grove Freeway, drive south on Brookhurst to Edinger, turn right, and then right again at Bushard.

American President Lines and the Maritime Administration have signed a $23,229,700 contract calling for the construction of another 20,000 dwt Pacesetter containership to be used by the line's subsidized service between the Port of Los Angeles and the Far East.

The Maritime Subsidy Board has approved a construction differential subsidy rate of 46.4 per cent for the vessel's construction.

The ship, the fourth being built for APL by Litton Systems, Inc. in Pascagoula, Miss., is scheduled for delivery in November 1972.

RAYMOND R. ABBOTT has been named district manager in the Los Angeles area for Prudential-Grace Lines, Inc. He succeeds Donald A. Cutler who retired recently after 20 years service in that post.

Abbott, a native of San Pedro and a graduate of USC, is secretary-treasurer of the Propeller Club, Port of Los Angeles-Long Beach; past president of the Los Angeles Transportation Club, and a member of the Harbor Transportation Club.

PRINCESS CRUISES, operators of the Princess Carla and Princess Italia, has been assigned a new docking location in the Port of Los Angeles.

The ships will use Berth 154 on Pier A. They moved from Berth 146 on the same pier which is located in the Wilmington section of the port.

THE U.S. COAST GUARD has been pulling people out of the water for so long they can predict how many rescues they will make during the next year with a far better batting average than the weatherman has predicting tomorrow's weather.

Last year the Coast Guard estimated it would save 3,581 persons during the 12 months ending June 1969.

Records show they rescued 3,547.

IT IS PERHAPS IRONIC that while Peru continues to harass U.S. commercial fishing boats by seizing boats fishing within 200 miles of shore, to the dismay of skippers and crewmen of our local fleet, the U.S. imported 161,940 metric tons of fish meal from Peru in 1969.

RANCHO LA CUESTA OPEN

Grand opening of final unit at Rancho La Cuesta, Cerritos, continues. Homes sell from $24,490 to $32,600. Good selection remains in 65 three and four-bedroom models. Location on Artesia Boulevard at Shoemaker Avenue is near Artesia, San Gabriel and Santa Ana Freeways. Builder Don Ayres Jr. trademark is evident here: tasteful architectural stylings.

American President Lines and the Maritime Administration have signed a $23,229,700 contract calling for the construction of another 20,000 dwt Pacesetter container ship to be used by the line's subsidized service between the Port of Los Angeles and the Far East.

The Maritime Subsidy Board has approved a construction differential subsidy rate of 46.4 per cent for the vessel's construction.

The ship, the fourth being built for API by Litton Systems, Inc. in Pascagoula, Miss., is scheduled for delivery in November 1972.

RAYMOND R. ABBOTT has been named district manager in the Los Angeles area for Prudential-Grace Lines, Inc. He succeeds Donald A. Cutler who retired recently after 20 years service in that post.

Abbott, a native of San Pedro and a graduate of USC, is secretary-treasurer of the Propeller Club, Port of Los Angeles-Long Beach; past president of the Los Angeles Transportation Club, and a member of the Harbor Transportation Club.

PRINCESS CRUISES, operators of the Princess Carla and Princess Italia, has been assigned a new docking location in the Port of Los Angeles.

The ships will use Berth 154 on Pier A. They moved from Berth 146 on the same pier which is located in the Wilmington section of the port.

THE U.S. COAST GUARD has been pulling people out of the water for so long they can predict how many rescues they will make during the next year with a far better batting average than the weatherman has predicting tomorrow's weather.

Last year the Coast Guard estimated it would save 3,581 persons during the 12 months ending June 1969.

Records show they rescued 3,547.

IT IS PERHAPS IRONIC that while Peru continues to harass U.S. commercial fishing boats by seizing boats fishing within 200 miles of shore, to the dismay of skippers and crewmen of our local fleet, the U.S. imported 161,940 metric tons of fish meal from Peru in 1969.

Today—the Grandest Opening of all!

Today, exactly the home you have been wanting all your life is waiting for you at Lake Forest.

Five stunning new models in The Woods.

Greenwood! An array of striking new homes in a setting unduplicated for real living. Here, in The Woods of Lake Forest you'll find exactly the home you've always wanted among the five beautifully decorated, imaginative new residences that go on sale today for the first time. Is there only a limited number available? The answer is a capital YES! You'll want to select not only the home that fits your need and budget, but the area at Lake Forest where you would like to have it built. You have your choice! Beneath tall trees in the fragrant Woods—or on a gently curving street in the friendly Village.

See Greenwood! You won't want to leave! Honestly, it's like a trip to the mountains. You cross a babbling brook on a rustic wood bridge, wend your way along a winding path and you've arrived at the five spacious Greenwood models, themselves! They're spectacular. Striking beamed ceilings. Huge master suites. A multitude of wonderful built-ins. "Garden Kitchens" for the finest of fun in outdoor-indoor living. Massive fireplaces. A striking sunken "conversation pit" that will turn you on.

Arrive directly at the Tour Center adjoining the $500,000 Beach and Tennis Club—and start from there. Take the tour by Tram. Sail the lake on the good ship "Lake Forest." See all of Lake Forest!

Greenwood Homes come with 3, 4, and 5 bedrooms, family rooms and at least 2 baths. There's good news on prices too. They start at $32,995. And you own the land! What's more, in most instances your present home can be accepted as a trade-in.

So—Escape Today to Lake Forest. Turn off the Santa Ana or San Diego freeways at El Toro Road, then follow the signs. Developed by Deane Brothers, Inc., a subsidiary of Occidental Petroleum Corporation, 4201 Birch Street, Newport Beach, California.

WHAT'S YOUR PROBLEM?

Wants Rule of Thumb for Pricing Income Property

By DON CAMPBELL

"What's in it for me" has, unjustifiably, gained itself a reputation as being a question asked only by the greedy and self-seeking.

In actuality, it's the one essential determination that any wise investor must make before throwing his good money into what could very well turn out to be a sink-hole.

Unfortunately, it's a tremendously complex determination under the best of circumstances: in other words, is the project economically feasible, and, if so, to what extent?

MR. CAMPBELL: For quite some time now I've been somewhat puzzled as to how to purchase income property. I've been reading your column faithfully, and have also asked others, but can't really come up with any specific kind of an answer—any advice or illustrations would be greatly appreciated.

I would like very much to purchase a duplex and/or a four-to-ten-unit apartment dwelling, but don't really know how to evaluate the price, i.e., is it a good buy, a reasonable buy, or is the price too high?

I understand there are quite a few ways to evaluate the price of this income property on the spur of the moment—one of them suggests multiplying the number of units by $11,000, another form of appraisal depends on multiplying the gross annual income per unit by seven.

Both suggestions seem to leave a lot to be desired. What is the best "rule of thumb" available that you know of? — Mr. H.M.

ANSWER: You'll have to excuse me for an inherent dread of "rules of thumb." The internal revenue service's "rule of thumb" for determining how much it costs to feed, shelter, clothe, and educate the child was (until the recent tax reform bill was passed) $600 a year.

One hang-up that H.M. has in his problem, unfortunately, is that he is talking about apartment buildings of uneconomical sizes in the first place—apartment buildings of four to ten units, that is, are of extremely low profitability even under ideal circumstances.

They are too small to offer the tenant-services—such as swimming pool, laundry facilities, and the like—that would make them competitive with bigger complexes. At the same time, too, each individual unit, percentage-wise, represents such a large share of the gross income on which the owner depends, that an abnormal vacancy rate for two or three months tends to be catastrophic.

Generally speaking, my apartment-owning friends tell me, an apartment project of 16 or more units, which averages 90 percent occupancy, will require about 32 to 38 percent of the gross income simply to meet expenses. On top of this, one must make a detailed study of the project's applicable, or anticipated property evaluation and tax rates, insurance rates, utility rates, management fees, and other expenses that will be incurred before a net profit can be realized.

There are, in fact, so many considerations that have to be made in the selection of an apartment project that it is a little difficult to know where to begin, and any meaningful "rule of thumb" becomes quite impossible. This may explain why Mr. H.M. finds it difficult to find a rule that makes any sense at all.

Although it has a thousand "ifs, ands, and buts" connected with it, one yardstick of value determination in apartment buying gears the maximum investment per apartment unit to the monthly rent that the average unit in the project can be expected to attract. Where the average unit, for instance, might be expected to rent for $125 a month, the maximum investment per unit should be no more than $9,800; for one where the average apartment would rent for $150, the maximum investment per apartment should be no more than $11,400; and, for one where the average apartment would rent for $200 per month, the maximum investment per apartment should be no more than $14,800. This yardstick, of course, is predicated on a project of no fewer than 20 apartments and an expense ratio of approximately 35 percent. All other things being equal, it should return the investor a satisfactory rate of return on his money.

Sorry. There just aren't any easy answers to the question.

'Less Red Tape' for Buyer at Mesa Woods

"The independent builder is free of red tape to give you what you want," boasts Ken Breman, marketing and sales director for Mesa Woods in Costa Mesa.

Mesa Woods is a development of George J. Heltzer & Associates, Southern California's oldest exclusively residential building firm, privately owned for over 45 years.

"The independent builder can adapt to any situation quickly, as decision-making is not postponed to a board of directors meeting," the sales executive said.

"Profit margins can be kept small, as there are not stockholders' dividends to be paid. Giving the buyer what he wants is the decision of a partner in the firm and does not require approval by an annual meeting of stockholders."

Innovative land planning and location join with quality as the biggest reasons for the sales success at Mesa Woods.

Most floor plans offer completely private interior garden courts in addition to the large outdoor one made possible by placing the home on the lot in a manner that eliminates all wasted yard space.

COSTA MESA'S popular South Coast Plaza shopping center, a half-mile from Mesa Woods, is among the location amenities.

Automation Institute Holds Open House

One of the most revolutionary procedures in teaching computer skills was shown to industrial leaders, data processing employers and higher educational counselors this week at Long Beach's Automation Institute, 3805 Long Beach Blvd.

James E. McCormick, director of the facility, a franchise of Control Data Corporation of Minneapolis, said the showing of the new terminal tying the school to Control Data's "Cybernet" computer center brought about 300 guests to the open house.

The Long Beach School has been chosen by Control Data Corporation as a pilot for the new training concept.

Automation Institute teaches computer subjects to persons qualifying with at least a high school diploma and passing an IBM aptitude analysis.

ANSWER: You'll have to excuse me for an inherent dread of "rules of thumb." The internal revenue service's "rule of thumb" for determining how much it costs to feed, shelter, clothe, and educate the child was (until the recent tax reform bill was passed) $600 a year! One hang-up that H.M. has in his problem, unfortunately, is that he is talking about apartment buildings of uneconomical sizes in the first place — apartment buildings of four to ten units, that is, are of extremely low profitability even under ideal circumstances.

They are too small to offer the tenant-services — such as swimming pool, laundry facilities, and the like — that would make them competitive with bigger complexes. At the same time, too, each individual unit, percentage-wise, represents such a large share of the gross income on which the owner depends, that an abnormal vacancy rate for two or three months tends to be catastrophic.

Generally speaking, my apartment-owning friends tell me, an apartment project of 16 or more units, which averages 90 per cent occupancy, will require about 32 to 38 per cent of the gross income simply to meet expenses. On top of this, one must make a detailed study of the project's applicable, or anticipated property evaluation and tax rates, insurance rates, utility rates, management fees, and other expenses that will be incurred before a net profit can be realized.

There are, in fact, so many considerations that have to be made in the selection of an apartment project that it is a little difficult to know where to begin, and any meaningful "rule of thumb" becomes quite impossible. This may explain why Mr. H.M. finds it difficult to find a rule that makes any sense at all.

Although it has a thousand "ifs, ands, and buts" connected with it, one yardstick of value determination in apartment buying gears the maximum investment per apartment unit to the monthly rent that the average unit in the project can be expected to attract. Where the average unit, for instance, might be expected to rent for $125 a month, the maximum investment per unit should be no more than $9,000; for one where the average apartment would rent for $150, the maximum investment per apartment should be no more than $11,400; and, for one where the average apartment would rent for $200 per month, the maximum investment per apartment should be no more than $14,800. This yardstick, of course, is predicated on a project of no fewer than 20 apartments and an expense ratio of approximately 35 per cent. All other things being equal, it should return the investor a satisfactory rate of return on his money.

Sorry. There just aren't

'Less Red Tape' for Buyer at Mesa Woods

"The independent builder is free of red tape to give you what you want," boasts Ken Breman, marketing and sales director for Mesa Woods in Costa Mesa.

Mesa Woods is a development of George J. Heltzer & Associates, Southern California's oldest exclusively residential building firm, privately owned for over 45 years.

"The independent builder can adapt to any situation quickly, as decision-making is not postponed to a board of directors meeting," the sales executive said.

"Profit margins can be kept small, as there are not stockholders' dividends to be paid. Giving the buyer what he wants is the decision of a partner in the firm and does not require approval by an annual meeting of stockholders."

INDEPENDENCE by no means means smallness, either, Breman pointed out. George J. Heltzer & Associates has built and sold more than 20,000 homes to three generations of satisfied buyers.

"This means volume buying, at prices most advantageous to our customers. When price increases for materials seemed likely, we contracted at low prices for enough to guarantee most attractive prices for Mesa Woods homes. It's as simple as that."

Prices for Mesa Woods three- and four-bedroom homes start at $27,950 and purchase may be made on VA, FHA or conventional terms.

Innovative land planning and location join with quality as the biggest reasons for the sales success at Mesa Woods.

Most floor plans offer completely private interior or garden courts in addition to the large outdoor one made possible by placing the home on the lot in a manner that eliminates all wasted yard space.

COSTA MESA'S popular South Coast Plaza shopping center, a half-mile from Mesa Woods, is among the location amenities.

Torrance Firm Given FAA Jobs in 2 Cities

The Federal Aviation Administration has awarded a $784,367 contract to AiResearch Manufacturing Co., Torrance, for two power systems to be installed at key FAA facilities in New York and Kansas City.

Secretary of Transportation John A. Volpe who announced the contract, said the installations are part of a continuing program to provide key air traffic control facilities with uninterrupted power systems (UPS).

THE UPS provide stable power regardless of the quality of commercial power.

One will be installed at the J. F. Kennedy International Airport.

The other will go in the new Kansas City weather message switching center which handles aeronautical weather messages and exchange of flight information for U.S. and international.

WORLD OF WINGS

By HERB SHANNON
Aerospace Editor

Fran Bera, Long Beach aviation businesswoman, flight instructor and racing pilot, received official certification as a member of the national Women's Advisory Committee on Aviation at ceremonies in the Federal Aviation Administration office in Los Angeles this week.

John Shaffer, FAA Administrator, presented the certificate of appointment, which was announced last October. The distaff organization advises the Department of Transportation on aviation matters ranging from airport beautification to flight safety regulations.

By coincidence, the All-Woman Transcontinental Air Race organization, of which Fran is a member and seven-time winner, this week announced the route and date for the 24th annual Powder Puff Derby.

The cross-country handicap this year will take off from Monterey Peninsula Airport on July 3 and finish within four days 2,760 miles east at Bristol, Pa. Mandatory stops en route for the daylight flight epic include Colorado Springs, Colo., and Dyersburg, Tenn.

SEARCH AND RESCUE UNITS of Long Beach Civil Air Patrol Squadrons 65 and 150, Group VII, have proven the value of downed aircraft locator beacons in a three-day field exercise conducted from Gillespie Field near San Diego.

Search aircraft located 90 per cent of test beacons scattered at random within 15 minutes of signal transmission, according to Jack Haden, Squadron 65 information officer.

The beacons were permitted to operate only briefly instead of continuously as in the case of an actual emergency in order to avoid confusing signals from possible accident scenes.

The emergency locators, which will be mandatory equipment on all California-based aircraft next year, are designed to transmit automatically after an impact force which might be experienced by a downed aircraft.

Air Force and California Department of Aeronautics personnel joined manufacturers of the equipment in the search demonstration.

In other activities, CAP Group VII headquarters at Long Beach Airport hosted Lt. Col. Nancy Morrison, director of ground operations of the California Wing at Burbank and an authority on survival at sea and on land.

Rajay Industries Appoints MacInnes

Hugh MacInnes has been named chief engineer turbocompactors, by Rajay Industries, Inc., it was announced in Long Beach by Joseph A. Keller, president of Rajay.

The announcement follows the recent acquisition by Rajay of the turbocompressor manufacturing and distribution business of the Valve Division of TRW, Inc., Cleveland, MacInnes's former employer.

Since receiving his M.E. Degree from Stevens Institute of Technology in Hoboken, N.J., in 1949, MacInnes has worked in designing, testing and applying turbocompactors at AiResearch Industrial Division, Los Angeles, and TRW, Inc.

He also served as Chief Design Engineer at the Stratos Division of Fairchild Hiller Corp. in Bay Shore, N.Y.

FHA-Insured Coop Housing Set for Merced

Christiania Western Structures has been selected as the housing manufacturer of what is believed to be the first FHA-insured apartment co-operative using fully pre-manufactured structures to provide better housing at a lower cost.

Ground has been broken for the 96-unit development to be known as "Merced West" and "Merced Golden Manor" in Merced.

The MOD (Mutual Ownership Development)

Foundation project will consist of one, two, three and four-bedroom apartments. Monthly charges, including the cost of gas and electricity, will vary from $86 to $154 per month, depending on the number of bedrooms.

CWS is manufacturing the units in their production-line facility located in Blythe. Pre-Manufactured Homes have begun erecting the CWS structures at the Merced West site.

Both projects are scheduled for completion in March.

Apartment Complex Set for Westminster

Springdale Investment Company of Los Angeles has begun construction of a $2.8 million apartment complex in Westminster, financed by a land purchase and leasehold loan from John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Company.

Financing arrangements for the 216-unit development were handled by Wallace Moir Company, Beverly Hills mortgage banking firm, in cooperation with Sonnenblick-Goldman Corp. of California.

Union Bank in Orange provided interim financing.

Springdale Investment is a limited partnership with APTEK Development Corporation, a real estate development company, as general partner.

Principals of the partnership company are Kerrey K. Belcher, Leonard C. Todd, Bart Pitts and Paul Kiely, all Southern California business men.

THE GROUP has developed and currently manages family apartment projects and Friday, USA Apartments.

The complex, to be completed in mid-1970, is located on Garden Grove Boulevard near the San Diego Freeway.

The project will cater to junior executive-type adult tenants, and will have complete amenities including a tennis court, pitch and putt area, gym, sauna, crafts room, social-recreational lounge and swimming pool with jacuzzi.

Our big homes make your car look small.

When we started out to design Greenbrook homes we took on a huge assignment. We wanted them big. Really big.

All over big. Big outside. Enormous inside. Big is better.

Now add 2½ story living room with floor to ceiling fireplace. A formal dining room. A sprawling garden view family room.

And a big master bedroom suite that goes on and on.

It's really large. (Big).

We've also got a great big Spacemaker. To grow into. Not out of. What we've done

Is left the entire upstairs unfinished. Out of sight. You can add rooms as you get more family or money (or both). Terrific idea.

Come on out and take a big look. Today. See for yourself.

WORLD OF WINGS

By HERB SHANNON
Aerospace Editor

Fran Bera, Long Beach aviation businesswoman, flight instructor and racing pilot, received official certification as a member of the national Women's Advisory Committee on Aviation at ceremonies in the Federal Aviation Administration office in Los Angeles this week.

John Shaffer, FAA Administrator, presented the certificate of appointment, which was announced last October. The distaff organization advises the Department of Transportation on aviation matters ranging from airport beautification to flight safety regulations.

By coincidence, the All-Woman Transcontinental Air Race organization, of which Fran is a member and seven-time winner, this week announced the route and date for the 24th annual Powder Puff Derby.

The cross-country handicap this year will take off from Monterey Peninsula Airport on July 3 and finish within four days 2,760 miles east at Bristol, Pa. Mandatory stops en route for the daylight flight epic include Colorado Springs, Colo., and Dyersburg, Tenn.

SEARCH AND RESCUE UNITS of Long Beach Civil Air Patrol Squadrons 65 and 150, Group VII, have proven the value of downed aircraft locator beacons in a three-day field exercise conducted from Gillespie Field near San Diego.

Search aircraft located 90 per cent of test beacons scattered at random within 15 minutes of signal transmission, according to Jack Haden, Squadron 65 information officer.

The beacons were permitted to operate only briefly instead of continuously as in the case of an actual emergency in order to avoid confusing signals from possible accident scenes.

The emergency locators, which will be mandatory equipment on all California-based aircraft next year, are designed to transmit automatically after an impact force which might be experienced by a downed aircraft.

Air Force and California Department of Aeronautics personnel joined manufacturers of the equipment in the search demonstration.

Rajay Industries Appoints MacInnes

Hugh MacInnes has been named chief engineer turbochargers, by Rajay Industries, Inc., it was announced in Long Beach by Joseph A. Keller, president of Rajay.

The announcement follows the recent acquisition by Rajay of the turbocharger manufacturing and distribution business of the Valve Division of TRW, Inc., Cleveland, MacInnes's former employer.

Since receiving his M.E. Degree from Stevens Institute of Technology in Hoboken, N.J., in 1949, MacInnes has worked in designing, testing and applying turbochargers at AiResearch Industrial Division, Los Angeles, and TRW, Inc.

He also served as Chief Design Engineer at the Stratos Division of Fairchild Hiller Corp. in Bay Shore, N.Y.

FHA-Insured Coop Housing Set for Merced

Christiana Western Structures has been selected as the housing manufacturer of what is believed to be the first FHA-insured apartment co-operative using fully pre-manufactured structures to provide better housing at a lower cost.

Ground has been broken for the 96-unit development to be known as "Merced West" and "Merced Golden Manor" in Merced.

The MOD (Mutual Ownership Development)

Foundation project will consist of one, two, three and four-bedroom apartments. Monthly charges, including the cost of gas and electricity, will vary from $86 to $154 per month, depending on the number of bedrooms.

CWS is manufacturing the units in their production facility located in Blythe. Pre-Manufactured Homes have begun erecting the CWS structures at the Merced West site.

Both projects are scheduled for completion in March.

Apartment Complex Set for Westminster

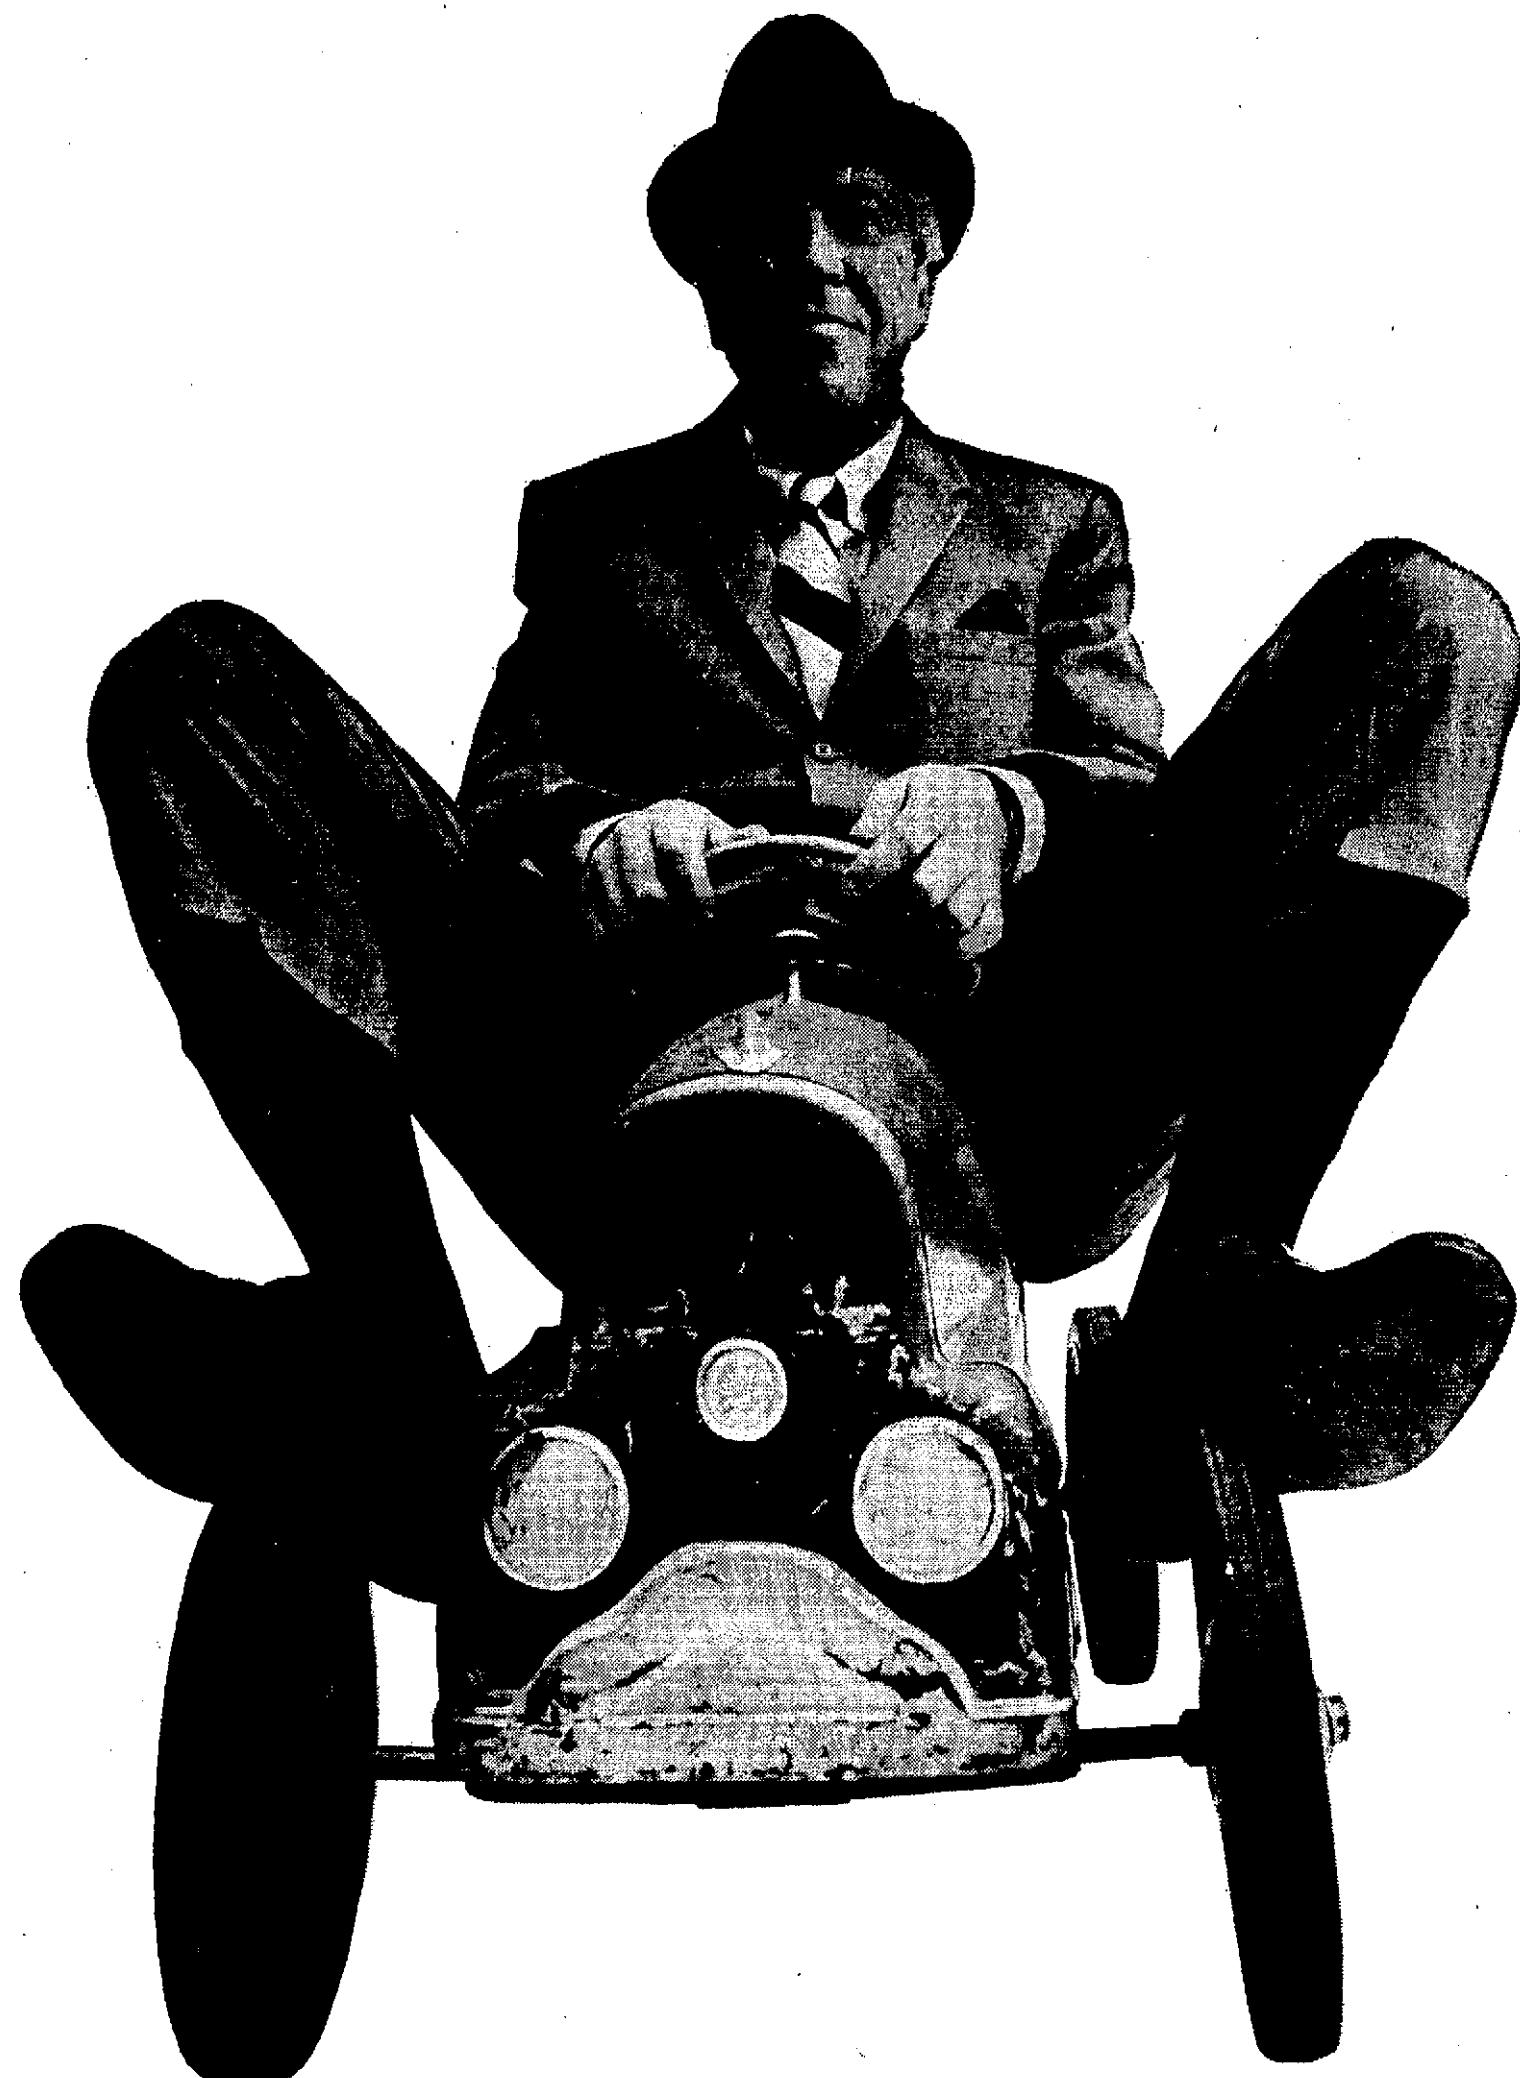

Springdale Investment Company of Los Angeles has begun construction of a $2.8 million apartment complex in Westminster, financed by a land purchase and leasehold loan from John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Company.

Financing arrangements for the 216-unit development were handled by Wallace Moir Company, Beverly Hills mortgage banking firm, in cooperation with Sonnenblick-Goldman Corp. of California.

Union Bank in Orange provided interim financing.

Springdale Investment is a limited partnership with APTEK Development Corporation, a real estate development company, as general partner.
